PEARL HARBOR CODE SECRETS STIR CONGRESS

Showdown Near in Gag Scandal

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—A showdown in the growing scandal of the Pearl Harbor investigation was awaited today in a congress still reverberating over spectacular disclosures yesterday which Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] described as "the most sordid tale" ever heard on Capitol hill.

Members of house and senate confessed their amazement and shock as they perused in today's Congressional Record the long suppressed contents of some 20 decoded Japanese messages obtained by Gearhart from a "top secret" source and read to the house.

War Information Withheld

These communications between Tokyo and Japanese emissaries in Washington, Berlin, and Honolulu were sent in the 32 day period before the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941. They revealed that high Washington authorities were fully conversant with Japan's hostile intentions, but withheld that information from the commanding officers at Pearl Harbor.

The war and navy departments remained silent in the face of Gearhart's revelations. Republicans expressed the belief there would be no official army or navy statement in view of President Truman's directive of Oct. 23 to the secretaries of war and navy and the joint chiefs of staff.

Terms of Directive

This directive ordered information made available to congressional investigators and authorized members of the armed services "to testify publicly," but conveyed no permission to discuss Pearl Harbor with individual committee members or to make public statements.

Charges of tampering with witnesses, destruction of vitally important documents, and railroading of key witnesses to sanitariums were heard on the floor in the two houses.

The climax to these sensational developments will come tomorrow at an executive session of the joint congressional committee created to probe the responsibility for American unpreparedness at the Pacific outpost.

Explosions Are Expected

Explosive repercussions may result from that closed-door session, the last before open hearings scheduled to start Nov. 15. The Republican minority of four has been urged by Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] to resign from the ten-man group in protest against the gag tactics of the Democratic majority.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] expressed grave doubt that the hearings could proceed with vital documents withheld from the inspection of the minority members. He would not predict the consequences if the six Democratic members presist in their gag policy.

Stand of Lucas

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] told reporters the majority was not going to yield and change the committee rules. He admitted there was "no hope for peace in the committee as things

Informer Put FBI on Trail of Saboteurs

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—Attorney General Clark disclosed today that one of the eight nazi saboteurs who landed on the east coast in June, 1942, tipped off the federal bureau of investigation about the nazi plot.

George Dasch

Ernest Burger

George John Dasch, one of the four Germans who landed on Long Island, New York and came here from Washington gave the details of the sabotage mission to FBI Director Hoover, Clark said in releasing the record of the trial of the saboteurs.

Testimony at Trial

Dasch, who illegally entered the United States in 1922 and returned to Germany in 1939, testified at the trial that his sole purpose in entering the German sabotage school, where the eight were trained for their mission, was to get out of Germany again. He said he had no intention of carrying out his mission.

Dasch is serving a 30 year sentence in a federal prison. Six of the saboteurs were executed after trial before a military commission. Ernest Peter Burger, who landed with Dasch, received a life sentence.

The eight were tried secretly by a military commission of several generals on charges of intent to sabotage. Dasch and Burger, altho held guilty with the others, got prison sentences because they helped the government.

Account of Actions

Clark in a statement gave this account of Dasch's activities:

"On Sunday night, June 14, 1942, a mysterious telephone call was received by the New York office of the FBI. The caller identified himself as Franz Daniel Pastorious and said he wanted it to be known that he intended to contact FBI headquarters in Washington on Thursday or Friday of the following week. The caller refused to give further information.

"At 10 o'clock Friday morning, June 19, a telephone call was received at the office of Director Hoover. The caller identified himself as the person who had telephoned the New York office on the previous Saturday night and said that his real name was George John Dasch. He said he had just arrived from Germany and had important information.

"Two special agents of the FBI went to Dasch's hotel room immediately and took him to FBI head-

FIND THE REAL JONAH

Uncle Sam—Great Joiner of the World

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—If there's bootlegging in darkest Africa, the United States belongs to a global organization that can find out about it.

The United States has now joined more than 80 international organizations, congress learned today, among them the central international office for collecting and preserving information relating to the liquor traffic in Africa.

Congress found out that Uncle Sam has become "the great joiner" by studying a list of American memberships in international institutions prepared by Chairman Thomas [D., Okla.] of the senate agriculture committee.

Colleagues Add More

Thomas isn't sure he's listed them all. He had 74, some of which some senators said they never had heard before, in his original compilation. Thomas added three others at the last moment, and colleagues recalled some more he had overlooked.

[Sen. Thomas' list of world organizations is on page 19.]

Among those Thomas had not listed were the world bank, to which the United States is to subscribe 3 billion 175 million dollars, and the international currency stabilization fund, into which Americans will drop 2 billion 750 million dollars.

Some Are Expensive

Thomas explained he was furnishing the list that the senate might know the extent to which the United States is participating in international affairs. He was unable to compile the total cost of Uncle Sam's various world memberships, some of which are relatively as inexpensive as others high priced.

Other senators said untold billions are represented in American participation in foreign affairs.

Thomas added to his original list the new league of nations formed at San Francisco, and others mentioned the international court established at the same time. Thomas also noted that the United States is now represented at the united nations educational conference in London and the world labor conference at Paris.

Attlee Sells His House; 9 Bedrooms and a Bath

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Prime Minister Attlee's 9 bedroom house in suburban Stanmore has been sold for an estimated $20,000, it was disclosed today. A neighbor who bought the house, which boasts of only one bathroom, may turn it into a private hospital.

STOCK TRADE BROAD

Trading on the New York Stock exchange yesterday was the broadest in history. Associated Press records showed that dealings extended to 1,061 stock issues, compared with a previous peak of 1,049 on May 14, 1940. Prices advanced again. Story on page 35.

18 SURVIVORS OF PLANE CRASH AWAIT RESCUE

MANILA, Nov. 8 [Thursday]—(AP)—Air, sea, and land rescue parties are moving toward 18 survivors of a naval air transport service C-54 that crashed in flames near Puerto Real on eastern Luzon Monday night, Vice Adm. J. L. Kauffman, commander of the Philippines sea frontier, announced today.

Fragmentary reports via field telephone from Puerto Real gave few details but said that all 13 passengers and seven crew members were safe. An unreported number were injured. Kauffman said a Lt. Redding and a Seaman 1/C McConnell had reached elements of the 341st infantry regiment headquartered at near-by Infanta.

A 341st medical team left at dawn to push thru dense jungle to those who remained at the crash scene. The party will be brought to a navy hospital at Cavite.

FARMER DROWNS IN BUTTERMILK; BROTHER IS HELD

Clarion, Ia., Nov. 7 (AP)—Walter Ahrens, 56, Belmond, Ia., farmer, was charged with manslaughter today after a coroner's jury returned a verdict that the death of his elder brother was "due to drowning in buttermilk" following a truck accident, Sheriff Roy E. Wilson reported.

Wilson said an autopsy showed that George Ahrens, 61, also a farmer, died of strangulation when open drums of buttermilk in the truck spilled over him after the truck overturned in a ditch.

Walter Ahrens was driving, Wilson said, and George jumped as the truck started into the ditch. He was pinned to the ground by the truck, the sheriff related, and the buttermilk poured over him. The sheriff, who filed the manslaughter charges, said Walter Ahrens was intoxicated.

Only 19,136 New Autos Produced in 4 Months

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 [Special]—Assembly lines of the nation's automobile manufacturers, hampered by wage negotiations and inadequate supplies, produced only 19,136 new passenger cars in the four months of July thru October instead of the 72,740 anticipated earlier this year, the civilian production administration announced today.

Army to Free 50 Point GIs Now on Leave

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The war department today announced that enlisted men who have 50 or more discharge points and are now on furlough in this country will be released as they report back to the army this month.

The new ruling also applies to enlisted men now on temporary duty in the United States. They will be classed as surplus and discharged upon their return to a reception center.

The general discharge score for enlisted men is now 60 points.

Chief beneficiaries of the action, the war department said, are men who returned from Europe with units originally earmarked for duty in the Pacific. Orders for shipment of these units were canceled following Japanese surrender and they now are scheduled for deactivation.

No Estimate of Number

There was no estimate of the number of soldiers affected. The department also:

1. Authorized the immediate discharge of soldiers who were prisoners of the enemy for at least 60 days. Approximately 25,000 are affected.

2. Put new restrictions on overseas duty for enlisted men and officers—a step affecting approximately 125,000.

The department announced that, with a few exceptions, no enlisted man with 21 or more months of honorable service since Sept. 16, 1940, will be sent overseas for permanent duty.

The exceptions are those who are graduates of the military intelligence language school, regular army enlisted men and volunteers for foreign duty.

Some Not Affected

Officers who have 33 or more months of honorable service, or 30 months in the case of medical department officers, will not be sent overseas for permanent assignment. This will not apply to reserve officers who have chosen to remain on active duty, to regular army officers, or to those classed as scarce specialists.

The scarce specialists include military government officers, contract termination and property disposal officers, renegotiation officers, legal officers with admiralty law experience, highway traffic engineer officers, and officers classified as superintendent of water division in transportation corps.

Army nurses will not be sent overseas if they have 12 points or are 30 years of age. No WAC officers are being sent on permanent assignment.

LET WARSHIPS ENTER STRAITS, U. S. ASKS TURKS

Would Give Russia Outlet to Sea

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 [Special]—State Secretary Byrnes today disclosed two developments affecting this country's relations with Turkey and Italy. They are:

1. The United States has informed the Turkish government that it favors a revision of the Montreux convention governing the Dardanelles to open these vital straits to warships of Black sea powers at all times. This would give Russia a war time outlet to the Mediterranean for her Black sea fleet, heretofore denied by the right under the Montreux convention of a neutral Turkey to bar all warships of belligerents.

Seek Voice for Allied Body

The United States has further informed Turkey of its desire that the allied nations organization be given a voice in the straits' military use. Byrnes disclosed that the United States is entirely willing to become a member of an international combine controling the straits.

2. Both Byrnes and President Truman have received communications from the Italian government agreeing to the loss of certain former Italian territory, but appealing to this nation for support in retaining sovereignty over certain colonies.

Byrnes made these revelations at a press conference in which he said he was setting something of a precedent in giving out the substance of an American position before a foreign government had replied to a message informing it of that opinion.

"News Reports Incorrect"

He referred to a recent and as yet unanswered letter to the Turkish government at Ankara in which this government's views on the Dardanelles question were set forth. He decided today to speak out, he said, because news reports from Ankara were incorrect.

Dispatches from Ankara Sunday had stated in effect that the United States had assured Turkey she would refuse to support any action which might jeopardize Turkish independence or territory.

Byrnes' disclosure of the American position with regard to the Dardanelles coincided today with the expiration of Turkey's 25 year old treaty of friendship and nonaggression with Russia. Russia denounced this treaty last March.

Four Point Program

The United States position took the form of a four point program which, while it gave Russia greater rights in the use of the straits between the Mediterranean and the Black sea, was described as not giving Russia all she wants. It particularly withholds American approval of a Russian proposal for soviet military bases on the straits. The points were:

1. The straits should be open to the merchant vessels of all nations at all times. [Turkey now has the right to limit the passage of merchant vessels in time of war or threat of war.]

2. The straits should be open to

JEWS SHOUT DOWN FRIEND WHO ASKED FOOD FOR GERMANS

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—Victor Gollancz, a London publisher who recently advocated sending food parcels to Germans expelled from eastern Europe, was shouted down tonight when he attempted to address 1,000 Jews at a meeting celebrating the 28th anniversary of the Balfour declaration favoring a national Jewish home in Palestine.

His interrupters angrily demanded why he favored "feeding German children whose parents murdered Jews."

He was finally allowed to continue after the chairman, B. Janner, member of parliament, said Gollancz had been actively in the fight to ease the situation of Jews in Germany. At the same meeting Mrs. Eleanor Rathbone, member of parliament, appealed for moderation by Jews in Palestine lest they play into their enemies' hands.

Chinese Reds Seize 2 Chiang Army Chiefs

Marines to Leave

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States is planning to withdraw its marines from hot spots in China, State Sec. Byrnes said today at a news conference. The marines are reported to total two divisions. Officials amplifying Byrnes' announcement said that it did not reflect any basic change in American policy toward China—a policy which strongly supports Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government, Byrnes said. He was unable to say when the withdrawal would take place.

(Map on page 8)

CHUNGKING, Thursday, Nov. 8 (AP)—Chinese Communists have captured two central government army commanders—one reportedly committed suicide—in southern Hopeh province and forced the government armies to retreat, a military spokesman acknowledged today.

The scene of this reversal in China's undeclared civil war is the same one where the Communists claim they have routed 70,000 government troops.

The spokesman said one of the captured generals was Ma Fah Wu, commander of the 41st army. He is understood to have committed suicide. The other was Kao Shu Hsun, commander of the eighth army.

Chinese 'Taken Unawares'

The spokesman's version was that the 8th and 41st armies were attacked north of Tzehsien by several tens of thousands of Communists, were "taken unawares and were unable to concentrate in time to ward off the assault."

He said their commanders were captured the night of Oct. 30 at different points and their armies subsequently withdrew southward to await orders from Chungking.

A semi-official dispatch claimed government successes in clashes with Communists in southern Honan and northern Hopeh.

The dispatch said Communists attacking Tangho, Sinyeh, Siangyang, and Fangcheng, all in Honan, northwest of Hankow, were driven into the mountains where the Reds "say they will make a first stand."

The dispatch said about 30,000 Communists are concentrated at Tsaochow in western Shantung province, preparing to attack the Lunghai railroad.

Full Scale War Near

Intensified fighting flared on several fronts and both Chinese and foreign quarters in Chungking agreed that the situation is nearly beyond repair and full scale war is almost inevitable.

The Communists claimed:

1. Decisive defeat of eight government divisions, totaling 70,000 men, during which the Reds tightened their grip on the Peiping-Hankow rail line and recaptured the Hopeh province rail junction of Tzehsien on Oct. 25, blocking the northward movement of Chiang's troops along that route.

Ring Suiyuan Capital

2. Under Gen. Ho Lung, the Communists drew their siege ring tighter around Kweisui, capital of Inner-Mongolian Suiyuan province. Other Red forces battled for the besieged rail junction of Tatung to the east and prepared to assault Paotow to the west.

3. To the south Communists attacked in force several points along the Tatung-Puchow railroad, including Hwohsien in southern Shansi province. [The central government admitted loss of several towns west of the railroad, but said it had beaten off more than 30 attacks on the railway itself in four days.]

4. Large Communist reenforcements are pouring into Suiyuan province and surrender of many of the 70,000 Nationalists along the Peiping-Hankow railroad brought the Reds new weapons. Most troops of the Nationalist 30th and 40th armies yielded with their arms, the Reds said.

Hirohito Lays His Sword, Military Uniform Aside

TOKYO, Nov. 8 [Thursday]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito no longer wears army or navy uniforms or his customary Samurai sword, the imperial ministry reported today. Instead, the mikado has adopted for daily use a specially designed outfit similar to civilian uniforms, which are widespread in Japan. He will wear a new rather plain dark blue uniform when he departs Monday for Ise to report the end of the war to his ancestors' spirits at the shrine of the sun goddess.

CLAIMS RUSSIA HOPES TO CUT EMPIRE THROAT

Don't Share Atom, Churchill Asks

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin tonight startled the house of commons by making a slashing attack on soviet Russia in which he charged that the Kremlin is attempting to cut right across the throat of the British commonwealth.

The burly foreign secretary, whose voice rose to a shout as he denounced soviet power politics, obviously was referring to the soviet request for trusteeship over the Italian colonies of Tripolitania and Eritrea which would put the Reds astride the British life line to the east.

In a full dress debate on foreign policy Bevin appealed to the great powers to put their cards on the table to preserve peace. On the issue of atomic power, Bevin mirrored the view of former Prime Minister Churchill that it was a relief that circumstances had cast America as the present custodian of atomic secrets.

"Keep Atom from Reds"

Churchill, addressing commons before Bevin spoke, urged that Britain support the United States in refusing the secret of atom bomb production to Russia. Churchill declared that Russia, if she possessed the secret alone, would not share it.

Bevin said that Britain has met almost every territorial demand the government ever thought Russia would make without getting anything in return, adding: "We cannot help being a little bit suspicious at Russia's demands for further concessions in the Mediterranean."

What, Bevin asked, is the motive for the attempted Russian encroachment toward the west, a question which he did not answer.

Resents Bloc Charge

Bevin expressed bitter resentment at the objections "blared from the Moscow radio" to Britain's having friendly relations with neighboring countries. He pointed out that the Russians are building up close associations with states on their western frontier and insisted that Britain had an equal right to deal with France, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia, or other countries. He denied this was an attempt to form an anti-soviet bloc, claiming that these countries are Britain's cultural friends and historical associates.

"I am not a criminal if I ask for good relations with nations bordering on the British frontier," he shouted. "I am doing nothing to injure any one and I am not prepared to accept that position from any other country in the world."

Opposes Closed Door

The foreign minister said the British government would take no steps to stir up hatred or provoke a situation detrimental to Russia in eastern Europe. This being the case, he said, Britain was not prepared to accept a closed door policy which would "prevent any contact with people for trade or anything else."

This statement, which was greeted by cheers, was a reference to the curtain Russia has drawn around the satellite states on her western frontier.

Bevin told commons that the Labor government supports President Truman's 12 points as outlined in the President's foreign policy speech Oct. 22. He said he did not allow the atom bomb to influence his decisions on policy, emphasizing that he pinned his faith in the united nations organization.

Raps Scientists' Agitation

The foreign minister said he sympathized with the United States, which was feeling its way about the right thing to do with regard to the atom bomb.

"It is understandable," he said, "that before you plunge into a step which may be disastrous you feel entitled to ask not only the conditions you are prepared to observe but the conditions which others, who are going to share the trust with you, are going to observe, also."

At the same time Bevin rapped world scientists who have been advocating sharing the atom bomb secrets with all and sundry. He declared the scientists could not supersede the state emphasizing that the government could not surrender to any section of the community its powers or duties. He also ridiculed the idea that the atom bomb could be controled by a force of international inspectors.

Churchill Opens Debate

The debate was opened by Churchill who spoke to a full house, including a crowded diplomatic gallery. After Churchill concluded his speech, the ambassadors, including United States envoy John Winant, all left, confronting the foreign secretary with a much smaller audience.

Churchill supported Mr. Truman's policy of having the United States, Great Britain, and Canada retain the atom bomb secret.

The former prime minister said he trusted that the Labor government would not put pressure on the United States to turn the bomb secret over to Russia.

"What the United States did not wish to disclose is the practical production methods which they have developed at enormous expense and on a gigantic scale," he said. "This would not be an affair of scientists or diplomatists sending over formulas. To be effective any such disclosure would have to take the form of a considerable number of soviet specialists, engineers, and scientists visiting the United States arsenals. For that is what the manufacturing centers of the atomic bomb really are.

"No Adequate Reciprocity"

"They would have to visit them and would have to dwell there so that they could have it all explained to them, and these officials then would return to their country with all the information they had obtained and with any further improvements which might have occurred to them.

"I am sure that if the conditions were reversed and we or the Americans asked for similar access to the Russian arsenals it wouldn't be granted. During the war we imparted many secrets to the Russians, especially in connection with radar, but we weren't conscious of any adequate reciprocity."

Opposes "Scientistic" Rule

Churchill, discussing the atomic bomb, came out against a scientistic government, unless duly elected. The responsibility for the atomic bomb, he told commons, should be that of parliaments and governments, not of scientists, "however eminent and ardent they might be."

"We have seen attempts to rule the world by experts of one kind or another," Churchill said. "There have been the theocratic, the military, and the aristocratic, and it is now suggested that we should have a scientistic government.

"If they [scientists] want to rule they must get elected to parliament or attain distinction [as lords] in the upper house."

Both Bevin and Churchill repeatedly stressed that Britain desired friendly relations with Russia, but they emphasized that the Labor majority and Conservative minority must see eye to eye on foreign policy.

Pays Tribute to Stalin

"It is our profound desire that the feeling of comradeship and friendship which have developed between the British and Russian peoples should not only be preserved but should be expanded," Churchill said, adding:

"We are all glad to know and feel that Generalissimo Stalin is still strongly holding the helm and steering his tremendous ship. Personally, I cannot feel anything but the most lively admiration for this truly great man, the father of his country, the ruler of its destiny in peace and the glorious defender of its life in war.

"Any idea of Britain deliberately pursuing an anti-Russian policy or taking part in the making of a combination to the determent of Russia is thoroughly opposed to British thought and conscience."

VOTE TO LET U.S. LEAGUE ENVOY DECIDE ON WAR

Senate to Get Committee Approved Bill Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—The senate foreign relations committee gave unanimous approval today to a bill permitting the American representative in the new league of nations to vote the United States into war without consulting congress.

Under the league charter, the war vote would be taken only to maintain or restore world peace.

The bill, to make final provision for American participation in the world peace organization established last June in San Francisco, will be introduced in the senate tomorrow. Many senators have previously protested any proposal that congress relinquish its war making power to a representative of the President, but none would forecast tonight the extent of senatorial opposition to the bill.

Vigorous Debate Expected

One thing was regarded as certain, however: That consideration of the bill would bring a vigorous debate on American participation in international schemes, as a result of recent clashes between the so-called peace loving nations that subscribed to the San Francisco charter.

The bill provides that the American representative shall be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the senate. The representative would have the rank of envoy extraordinary and ambassador plenipotentiary and a salary of $20,000 a year. The President may fire him at will.

The representative would be American delegate to the league's security council or enforcement body. The President or secretary of state, however, could supersede the appointed representative at any league meeting.

Congress Controls Forces

While the American representative is empowered to vote on the security council for war, congress retains control over the number and type of forces to be furnished by the United States in response to the council's call. That is, the President may negotiate agreements with the council on the forces the United States is to provide, and congress may approve or reject these agreements "by appropriate act or joint resolution."

Sen. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] is the author of a provision in the bill that prohibits the President from furnishing the security council any more forces than the congressional approved agreements provide. The bill will be introduced by Chairman Connally [D., Tex.]. He and Sen. Vandenberg [Mich.], a leading Republican of the committee, were on the American delegation that wrote the San Francisco charter.

Edward R. Stettinius is the American representative in the league while it is preparing to function.

General Urges Increase in German Food Rations

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—Maj. Gen. Stern, head of the health department of the American military government, back from an inspection of the western zone of Germany, urged an increase of 200 calories daily in food rations for German civilians, the Luxemburg radio reported.

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 7 (AP)—United States soldiers attending a veterans' committee debate on universal peace time conscription voted 177 to 84 against it today.

PREMIER OF ULSTER REJECTS DE VALERA ALL-IRISH REPUBLIC

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—Basil Brooke, prime minister of Northern Ireland, today reaffirmed that Northern Ireland "was uncompromisingly opposed" to inclusion in an all-Ireland republic.

His statement was in reply to a speech by the prime minister of Eire, Eamon De Valera, in Dublin last night. De Valera rejected allegiance to the British crown and the status of a British dominion for Eire.

Brooke said: "Northern Ireland's loyalty to the crown is unequivocal. King George VI. is our king; the British flag is our flag. To expect us to become part of a state in which loyalty to the crown is brazenly repudiated is an outrage to reason and common sense."

[De Valera said in his speech he considered Eire "a sovereign independent republic willing to be in association" with the British empire, but rejecting the status of a dominion. "There is nothing inconsistent with the political status of Eire," he told the annual convention of the Fianna Fail, his political party, "in having King George sign the same documents for Eire as he does for Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa. We are not prepared to accept allegiance to the British crown."]

TRUMAN, ATTLEE TO DISCUSS ATOM POLICY SUNDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—Discussions on Anglo-American policy on the atomic bomb will be opened Sunday afternoon aboard the Presidential yacht Potomac by President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Prime Minister King, the White House announced today.

Truman is cutting down on appointments in order to clear his desk of domestic problems so he can be free for the conference, White House aids said.

The British and Canadian prime ministers will arrive here Saturday afternoon. They will be feted at a state dinner in the White House Saturday night. Attlee will be an overnight guest at the White House and move to the British embassy Monday.

On Sunday morning the leaders will attend Armistice day rites in Arlington cemetery at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

After the cemetery services they will go aboard the Potomac. They will be accompanied on the trip by State Secretary Byrnes, British Ambassador Halifax, and Adm. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander in chief.

Attlee will be invited to address a joint session of congress. After his visit to the capital he will go to Canada.

No Agreement Yet on Aid to Britain, Says Byrnes

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—State Secretary Byrnes said today there is no prospect of immediate agreement between Anglo-American officials discussing financial aid to Britain. However, he told a news conference, he has not considered the possibility of failure.

STALIN ABSENT AT CELEBRATION OF RED REVOLT

MOSCOW, Russia, Nov. 7 (AP)—The mighty Red army and soviet workers, perhaps 1,000,000 strong, paraded thru Red square in a mammoth celebration of the anniversary of the October revolution today, but Generalissimo Stalin, hailed as the artisan of victory, was not there.

In Stalin's place on the reviewing stand was Vyacheslav M. Molotov, foreign commissar.

It was the first time in any Muscovite's memory that Stalin, who has been vacationing in the south, had missed the celebration of the anniversary. No explanation was offered officially.

Stalin was honored in his absence, however, by a 21-gun salute, thunderous cheers, and playing bands, when Gen. Alexei Antonov, Red army chief of staff, shouted, "Long live our commander in chief, Generalissimo of the Soviet Union Stalin!"

Orders of the day from army and navy chieftains called on Russian soldiers and sailors to continue their training, to guard against the "giddiness of success," and to work for friendship.

Leaders Atop Lenin Tomb

Atop Lenin's tomb with Molotov were government heads and leaders of the Red army and navy.

Red army units from the Moscow garrison began to march after inspecting generals, four horsemen on sorrel mounts, had circled the square to make sure all was in readiness.

The Red army infantry, marching 20 men abreast with bayonets, poured thru the square by the thousands. After them came tanks and artillery and Katusha, the famed Red army weapon consisting of rocket launchers mounted on trucks.

A light snow started falling as the salute to Stalin ended and the parade began.

After the armed forces came hundreds of thousands of workers and peasants. They were still marching after four hours.

Among the spectators was the United States Ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, the last foreigner, as far as is known, to talk to Stalin. Harriman visited him at Stalin's vacation villa at Sochi two weeks ago and returned to Moscow with a report that Stalin was in excellent health.

The cold finally proved too much for most of the diplomats and they broke ranks to buy hot dogs and buns at the edge of the square.

Miss Truman Message

Today's issue of Izvestia carried greetings to the soviet leaders from many world personages including Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain, British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. There were no published messages from President Truman or Secretary of State Byrnes.

[The White House said Truman had sent a congratulatory message to Stalin. At the state department it was said Byrnes did not send one because the occasion called for greetings from a chief of state rather than from the secretary of state.]

The absence of any published messages from Truman and Byrnes caused immediate comment. Greetings from the late President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Hull always were among the most prominently displayed messages.

LATIN AMERICA, IN CHAOS, LAYS ITS WOES TO U.S.

Pins Inflation, Idleness on Two Policies

[This is the first article of a series on conditions in turbulent Latin America by a Chicago Tribune correspondent who has just returned from an extensive tour of that area.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON

The people of Latin America are exhibiting an intense dislike for the United States, and are accusing the New Deal of being directly responsible for their economic, financial, and political misery.

Latin American economists, bankers, business men, and the press have made the following accusations:

1. Contradictory policies instituted and practiced by New Deal agencies have caused inflation and widespread unemployment.

2. Intervention by the United States in labor affairs of South and Central America has fanned revolutions that unseated some governments pledged to carry out the good neighbor policy.

Woes Laid to 2 U. S. Policies

It is generally conceded that the troubles of Latin America have stemmed from two conflicting policies shaped at Washington, D. C.

One was said to be the brainchild of Secretary of Commerce Wallace when he was vice president and head of the big spending agencies of the department of economic warfare. Under that scheme, millions of dollars were funneled into the southern nations with the idea of raising the income of workers, thereby enabling them to save money to buy goods from the "Norte Americanos."

The other was rulings by the OPA and other alphabetical agencies forbidding the raising of prices of such Latin American export items as sugar, coffee, tin, and copper.

The decision to keep prices at pre-war levels worked a hardship on Latin producers who could not afford to pay the wages that attracted workers to the new Deal's pet projects.

Ruined by U. S. Spending

In most instances the Wallace clique's lavish spending and high wage proposals resulted in an increase in production costs above the ceiling prices imposed by the United States government. Production decreased and some producers went bankrupt.

The placing of ceilings on export prices acted as a boomerang whose impact was felt in the United States. Sugar became scarce in this country. Higher coffee prices are predicted.

The United States faces a decline in the importation of tin and tungsten from Bolivia, the only source of tin in the western hemisphere available to the United States outside of the British controled cartel.

Spending Put at 6 Billions

The Washington administration started pumping dollars of the American taxpayers into Latin America in 1941. Three years later Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] reported to the senate that the New Deal and all that it stands for had been transplanted bodily to Latin American nations at a cost of 6 billion dollars and that millions of these dollars were being wasted on useless undertakings. Furthermore, he said the administration's so-called good-neighbor policy was making enemies for this country.

This correspondent saw ample evidence of the truth of Sen. Butler's charges and heard Latin Americans express a distaste for Wallace's ill-starred campaign "to give every one in the post war world a quart of milk a day."

Latin American economists agree that the planning of the various projects was poor. They allege that the organizations set up to put the projects into operation were too expensive. They charge that the money was spent unwisely in nations that depend solely on agricultural pursuits.

Wages Multiplied 500 Pct.

When agents of the New Deal came to Latin America and started actual work on the laying out of rubber and quinine plantations, sanitation systems, fine buildings, and highway projects they offered to pay natives three to five times more than they were receiving at the prevailing wage rate.

Laborers deserted the farms, crippling production. Less food was grown. Workers were confronted with a puzzling situation. For the first time they had ample cash to satisfy their needs, but the prices of things they wanted had skyrocketed, particularly food. Inflation had set in.

In Nicaragua, which has a population of about 1,014,000, wages tripled in two and a half years while living costs went up 300 per cent. In Guatemala wages jumped 300 per cent. Last July beans, a staple food, cost 12 cents a pound. The former price was 2 cents a pound. The price of corn, another staple, quadrupled.

Prices Leap in Brazil

Since the beginning of World War II, Brazil's cost of living has gone up 350 per cent. Rice which once sold for $1.60 was offered to consumers at $4.60 last summer. The price of butter leaped from 35 cents to $1 a pound. Eggs rose from 12 cents a dozen to 50 cents, and bananas from 3 to 18 cents for 2.2 pounds. Potatoes were quoted at 17 cents for 2.2 pounds. The old price was 4 cents.

That Brazil was in the grip of inflation is further illustrated by the fact that the Rio de Janeiro government has increased the circulation of its monetary unit, the cruzeiro, from five billion to 16 billion 200 million since Jan. 1, 1941. [A cruzeiro is worth about 5 cents at the current rate of exchange.]

Argentina's Prices Lower

On the other hand, Argentina, which had prohibited the New Deal from extending its role of Santa Claus to that country, disclosed that its cost of living had increased only 40 to 50 per cent, less than in any other Latin American nation. Argentina also sold more of its products to the United States and Britain than ever before, thus building up credits abroad.

Investigation has disclosed that the chief benefactors of the wild spending program were Latin officials and politicians who gave their friends and relatives the best jobs. Charges have been made that certain officials also cut themselves in on the largess thru devious means. Big merchants also benefited thru the sale of supplies and materials to contractors during the construction of the projects.

Many Ventures Abandoned

Today many of the New Deal's ventures have been abandoned. Acres upon acres of rubber and quinine plantations are grown over with weeds. Little, if any, attention is being paid to the thousands of rubber trees that apparently were planted without thought as to who was to carry on the development. Latin American experts assert that the starting of such plantations was a mistake because it should have been known that their development would require many years of hard work.

The building of macadam highways is considered to be the most flagrant example of waste. Some of the roads were built in localities where motor travel does not exist and where mules and oxen provide the transport.

In Costa Rica there are only 3,600 motor vehicles, in Honduras 1,569, in El Salvador 3,411, in Nicaragua 1,435, and in Guatemala 4,824.

Highways Already Crumbling

Already the New Deal's highways are beginning to crumble. No attempt has been made to repair them. It has been charged that Washington's contractors received $8,000,000 to build Nicaragua's northern half of the Pan-American highway. So far the road is unfinished. There have been unsubstantiated charges that the money was pocketed by contractors and crooked politicians. The United States senate has been investigating highway expenditures.

Critics of the spending orgy complain that materials used in constructing the projects, particularly steel, were sorely needed by the United States at a time when there was a scarcity of supplies and America was fighting to win the war.

Chaos as Orgy Ends

With the abandonment of many projects, most of Latin America is in a chaotic stage. Thousands are out of work. An economist described the situation thus: "We are in a period of reconversion with nothing to reconvert to."

Every one is blaming Uncle Sam. Business leaders complain that the value of their money is dropping. The laboring class, hit by unemployment, expresses its anger because the flow of money from the United States has been cut down. No longer does one hear expressions of good will toward the United States.

There is unrest in the ranks of labor and political agitators are stirring them into action against their governments.

There have been two rebellions this year in nations that received the United States dollars. One was in Brazil, the other in Venezuela. Last year there were revolts in Ecuador, Guatemala, and El Salvador. In 1943 there was an uprising in Bolivia.

G.M. AND STEEL RESIST CIO PAY RAISE DEMANDS

Union Spurns Proposal by Auto Firm

Two giant industries yesterday reaffirmed their opposition to current demands of unions for wage increases. In Detroit, Mich., General Motors rejected a CIO demand for a 30 per cent increase, but offered a "cost of living" wage increase. This offer was turned down by the union. In Washington, D. C., the United States Steel corporation rejected a CIO proposal to reopen negotiations on a $2 a day increase. It said the OPA should act first on a petition for a steel price raise.

DOUBLE REJECTION

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—General Motors corporation today offered a "cost of living" wage increase to its workers, and the CIO United Auto Workers' union promptly rejected it.

The corporation had turned down the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage boost, terming the demand "excessive." In its place the corporation offered increases in classifications where wages have not been raised in proportion to the cost of living since 1941.

H. W. Anderson, corporation vice president, said the proposed increase would average 8 to 10 per cent for the corporation's 180,000 hourly rated employes.

Living Costs Up 30%

In computing the amount to which each worker is entitled, he said, the corporation would accept a government finding that living costs have gone up 30 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

Walter P. Reuther, vice president of the UAW-CIO, asserted that the union "flatly rejects the corporation's bribe offer because we will not be a party to sandbagging the American consumer."

Reuther, who heads the UAW-CIO delegation at union-corporation wage meetings, asserted at a press conference:

"The General Motors corporation, which has been on strike since V-J day against labor, government, and the American consumer, today put in writing its previous oral offers to the union that we conspire with the corporation to sandbag the car hungry public with inexcusable price increases."

Pay Proposal Explained

To illustrate its wage proposal, General Motors cited the case of a worker who received $1 an hour Jan. 1, 1941.

If that worker is receiving $1.15 an hour now in the same job classification, he would be entitled to an additional 15 cents. If no adjustment has been made, he would get a 30 cent boost to put him abreast of higher living costs. If his pay check already is 30 per cent higher than it was on Jan. 1, 1941, he would get nothing.

The corporation's position was stated in a 34 page brief.

C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, in a statement contained in the brief, said:

"General Motors rejects the theory of ability to pay as a valid argument for higher wages. To demand we should pay our employes more than others pay is just as unreasonable as it would be to demand that we pay higher frate rates.

"General Motors is not willing to pay out in excess wages for work not performed money saved up for many years to modernize and expand its plants and provide more good jobs. The money cannot be spent twice."

PARLEY DECLINED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States Steel corporation tonight declined to accept a proposal of Labor Secretary Schwellenbach to reopen wage negotiations with the CIO Steel Workers under a special conciliator.

President Benjamin F. Fairless of the corporation, in a letter to Schwellenbach, said existing steel price ceilings "do not enable us to grant a wage increase at this time" and that wage discussions would be useless until the price question was settled.

The union, asking $2 a day more pay, accepted the Schwellenbach proposal earlier in the day. The secretary had named Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the New York state mediation board, as special conciliator.

Raps OPA Slowness

Fairless said "it seems futile to appear to engage in collective bargaining conferences on the union's demand for a general $2 a day increase, until after the OPA has acted on the long pending application of the steel industry for substantial increases in present ceiling prices for steel products to compensate for past heavy increases in costs."

Five hundred thousand steel workers in 769 companies, are to ballot Nov. 28 on the question of striking.

A labor department spokesman said the Fairless reply, as well as that of CIO President Philip Murray, accompanying his earlier acceptance, were being considered. A statement may be forthcoming tomorrow, this spokesman said.

SEAMAN PLACED IN CHAINS; SUES SHIP FOR LIBEL

Corpus Christi, Tex., Nov. 7 (AP)—A 10,000 ton tanker, the Newberg, was seized by a United States deputy marshal today after the first mate, held in chains 15 days for what his captain said was "insubordination on the high seas," filed a $38,800 libel action against the ship.

Details were brought out at a coast guard hearing here today on the petition of Capt. A. H. Miller of the Newberg asking revocation of the license of First Mate Charles L. Maes, 55, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Miller said Maes refused to clean the tanks at his order.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 7—Hundreds of motor cars, trucks, and buses, commandeered by CIO strikers to form a barricade at the Ford Motor Company of Canada plant here, were released to their owners today after being held for 48 hours. Thus ended a demonstration described by Leslie Blackwell, Ontario attorney general, as an "insurrection."

Members of the striking CIO Auto Workers' union assisted in clearing the eight block jam of more than 1,000 vehicles, which included automobiles owned by strikers and strike sympathizers. Many of the cars had to be lifted bodily to clear passage thru the barricade.

Sign Receipts

Owners who came to claim their cars were required to sign receipts affirming that the machines were not damaged, presumably to forestall damage suits against the union. City police assisted the strikers' in directing the lifting of the blockade.

Humphrey Mitchell, Canadian labor minister, said he hoped for a settlement of the strike within 24 hours. He was conferring with the company and the strikers.

The walkout began Sept. 11 during a dispute over wages. Some 20,000 workers have been idle since 30 industrial plants were closed Monday in sympathy with the Ford company strikers.

Minority Hostile

A militant minority of the strikers objected when the decision to break up the barricade was announced by a joint policy committee of locals 195 and 200 of the union. Many heated arguments took place, but subsided when George Burt, regional director of the UAW, addressed the strikers.

The policy committee issued a statement attempting to justify the seizure of private property from citizens not concerned with the dispute.

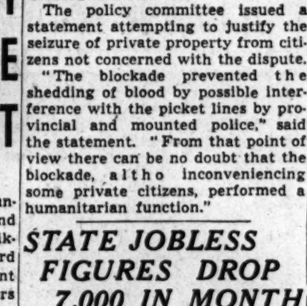
"The blockade prevented the shedding of blood by possible interference with the picket lines by provincial and mounted police," said the statement. "From that point of view there can be no doubt that the blockade, altho inconveniencing some private citizens, performed a humanitarian function."

STATE JOBLESS FIGURES DROP 7,000 IN MONTH

Unemployment figures in the Chicago area decreased 7,000 in the last month, Samuel C. Bernstein, state unemployment compensation commissioner, said yesterday. Chicago's post-war unemployed list reached its peak of 76,500 persons on Oct. 6.

Reconversion of industry is taking up some of the unemployment slack and many persons not employed before the war now are dropping out of the labor market, Bernstein said. A few days before the end of the war only 21,000 persons in Illinois were receiving unemployment compensation.

Charles P. Casey, state director of the United States employment service, reported 45,370 jobs listed with the USES compared to a peak of 55,962 jobs listed Sept. 17. More than 25,000 of the available jobs are in manufacturing industries.



7 MILLION MEN GET ARMY'S NEW FLU TREATMENT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The army said today a war-developed influenza vaccine will have been administered to 7 million troops within the next few weeks in the "greatest mass vaccination against influenza ever attempted."

A spokesman for the army surgeon general said in a statement that the new vaccine offered a definite degree of protection against two common types of influenza. He said it eventually will be made available to civilians, but he couldn't say when. The vaccine has provided such protection against influenza types "A" and "B," which the army says "have been the main causes of the disease encountered in recent years."

The vaccine, developed by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. and Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the army's commission on influenza, is prepared from "killed" viruses of the "A" and "B" types of influenza.

MUST BE AILING TO RIDE IN FIELD ANNEX ELEVATOR

Strikers Carry Patients of Doctors Only

If you wanted to see your doctor on the 20th floor of the Marshall Field Annex building at 25 E. Washington st. yesterday, the first step was to convince the elevator operators' union that you were too ill to walk up 20 flights.

Then, if you wanted to get down again, your doctor had to call the building office, which, in turn, notified the elevator operators' union to come and get you.

Thirteen elevator operators and one starter were idle because they refused to cross picket lines maintained at the entrance to the building by Marshall Field Employes' union, local 242.

One Emergency Elevator

Matt Dwyer, president of the elevator operators' local 66, permitted one elevator to remain in service for "emergency" cases. These included those patients of the 500 doctors and dentists in the building whom the operator of the single elevator diagnosed as too ill to climb the stairs.

Approximately 800 building employes at Marshall Field & Co. struck Nov. 1 for a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour, a 15 per cent increase for those now receiving more than 65 cents an hour, and a union shop. They placed pickets at the Annex building.

Elevators and escalators in the Marshall Field & Co. store proper were not affected. William G. Murray of the United States conciliation service was continuing his efforts yesterday to effect an agreement between the striking store employes and the company.

Hitch in Ward Parley

Negotiations between Montgomery Ward & Co. and its CIO union employes in Chicago remained in abeyance yesterday, with the company offering higher wages, but refusing to grant the union's demand for a closed shop.

Employes of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, members of Local 44 of the United Packinghouse Workers of America [CIO], voted 295 to 5 in favor of a strike to enforce demands for a wage increase. A conciliation meeting between the union and the company is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. today.

Spokesmen for the industry said a walkout would tie up all plants in the yards, with a total of 25,000 employes.

Negotiations have been in progress since last June 30, with the union demanding an increase of 17½ cents an hour and a 40 hour week for 35 janitors and maintenance men, retroactive to June 30. The company has offered an increase of 9 cents an hour, not retroactive.

Ford Workers Favor Strike

Ford plant employes, members of Local 551 of the United Automobile workers [CIO], voted 809 to 784 in favor of a strike in a national labor relations board election. The union is seeking a 30 per cent wage increase and a pension plan.

Seven wallpaper plants in Joliet and one in Mokena were left idle yesterday by a walkout of members of local 7 of the Joliet Wallpaper Craftsmen's union. The walkout, which Frank J. Maxwell, president of the local, said was unauthorized, left members of another union, the Joliet Wallpaper Workers, local 2, also an AFL union, with nothing to do. Some 800 employes are affected.

Craftsmen are seeking a 24 cent increase in their wage of $1.35 an hour, and the workers an 11 cent increase in their 74 cent wage.

DEMOCRAT LEAD IN LOUISVILLE ELECTION IS CUT

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7 (AP)—Democrat E. Leland Taylor led Republican Roy W. Easley by 664 votes tonight in the Louisville mayoralty race with 180 of the city's 495 precincts tabulated.

Altho Easley trailed Taylor, the Republican had reduced the 1,697 lead the Democrat held when tabulating was resumed at 8:30 a. m. today.

Taylor, a business man, neither supported nor opposed Democratic Mayor Wilson W. Wyatt's efforts to have the city buy the properties of the Louisville Gas and Electric company. Easley, who recently came back from the war with the rank of brigadier general, firmly opposed public ownership of the utilities. A Louisville mayor cannot succeed himself.

DEWEY PARTLY BLAMED IN G.O.P. FAILURE IN N. Y.

New York, Nov. 7 [Special]—With the Republican vote in New York City reaching its lowest point in many years in yesterday's election, there was much party criticism today of Gov. Dewey and the five local Republican county leaders for picking Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, a Tammany Democrat, as the Republican candidate for mayor.

There was talk among Republicans of the need for reorganization of the Republican party in the city and changes in the county leaderships.

Await State Campaign

This criticism was expressed privately and it was admitted by the critics of the nomination of Judge Goldstein that no general reorganization could be expected until after the state election next year, for which, it was said, the result of the New York City election provided a poor start for the governor, if, as expected, he is a candidate for reelection.

The election returns showed that the candidacy of Newbold Morris, No Deal candidate for mayor, split the Republican vote in two. The extent of the Republican defection from Judge Goldstein showed clearly in the returns from the 9th Manhattan assembly district, previously the one sure Republican district in the city. Its boundaries coincide closely with those of the old 15th or "silk stocking" district.

Goldstein in Poor Race

Morris carried this assembly district, the only one in the city not carried by William O'Dwyer, Democratic and American Labor party mayoralty candidate, by a plurality of 2,984 over O'Dwyer and a plurality of 4,233 over Judge Goldstein.

Not only did Goldstein fail to receive anywhere near the number of Republican votes expected for him, but he fell far below the vote expected for him on the Liberal party line, and his vote on the city Fusion party line fell to a minor fraction of that party's vote in preceding city elections.

3 Die, 1 Hurt in Crash of B-29 in California

Chico, Cal., Nov. 7 (AP)—Three men were killed and one injured seriously in the crash of a B-29 in mountainous country six miles northeast of the Chico army air field last night, Col. A. W. Tyer, commanding officer of the field, reported today. Names of the victims were not announced immediately.

CENSORS KEEP SOME NEWS OUT OF TOKYO PRESS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

TOKYO, Nov. 7—Items of international news furnished to the newly freed Japanese press by such agencies as the Associated and United Press and the New York Times have been denied publication here by American censors because of the action of allied military missions in Tokyo, a statement from supreme allied headquarters said tonight.

The statement clarified the paradoxical situation under which, tho all censorship of outgoing news has been eliminated, items sent from Japan must pass the scrutiny of American censors here when cabled back to Tokyo for the Japanese press. It revealed also what hitherto had not been announced—that such news likewise must be approved by the Russian, Chinese and British missions before publication.

The statement, made in answer to what was characterized as "criticism" of the deletion of American news articles from the Japanese press, said: "Articles, regardless of their source, which reflect upon our allies are subject to censorship and are deleted at the request of or protest by the allied military missions at present in Tokyo [British, Russian and Chinese]. Some of the articles deleted have been of this nature."

HOUSE UNIT REJECTS JOBS MEASURE; GROUP NAMED TO REWRITE IT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The house expenditures committee today ended hearings on the administration's "full employment" legislation and decided it must be changed.

The group authorized Chairman Mansaco [D., Ala.] to name a subcommittee to draft some type of compromise.

The pending bill enunciates a government policy of supplementing private enterprise, when necessary, to assure job opportunities for all. The senate passed a modified version of this statement.

RED CROSS GIFTS TO PRISON CAMP LOOTED BY JAPS

Remainder Often Given to Those Least Needy

(More details of life in an American prisoner of war camp in Japan are disclosed in this instalment of "Men Who Wouldn't Die." The author is a Chicagoan who served as the spokesman for 500 Yank prisoners forced to work as slaves in a coal mine at Omuta, Japan. His story is based on the diary he kept from the surrender on Bataan until victory day.)

BY MAJ. A. C. TISDELLE
as told to Carl Wiegman
[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

The Japs had a fiendish way of handling Red Cross supplies. They helped themselves to a large part of the gifts, and after every delivery we could see a mounting pile of cans outside their quarters. We almost wished the Red Cross would stop sending the stuff to us.

Moreover, the Japs used the Red Cross goods to reward the best workers in the mine, which often meant rewarding the strongest men, rather than those who needed the food most. Whenever a shipment came to our camp, the Japs required me to sign a receipt. Knowing full well the Japs had looted it, I signed my name and beneath it wrote "vi coactus," which, as I recalled my Latin, meant "done under duress." The Japs evidently thought the phrase was part of my military title and let it go.

Distributed by Lot

After the scanty Red Cross food distribution on Christmas, 1943, we received no more until April 2, when each man in camp got one can of corned beef, salmon, canned meat, butter, or jam. The distribution was by lottery. In the same shipment we received biscuits, tea, raisins, and prunes in quantities sufficient so that every man received something.

The Japs must have had a mental breakdown on this notable April 2, because my diary records that they also distributed such luxuries as Red Cross wool sweaters, wool shirts, khaki socks, flannel pajamas, GI blankets, wool and leather gloves, cotton fatigue uniforms, sewing kits, razors, tooth powder, and shaving cream. There wasn't enough of any of these items to go around.

However, all of the gifts were godsends, especially the warm clothing and the sewing kits. One of our major problems was to repair our clothes and shoes. We had a prisoner assigned as camp tailor, and he had a Jap sewing machine, but half of the time he had no thread. We also had a camp cobbler, but he had no nails or thread.

Thread from Blasting Fuses

Our men who worked in the coal mine soon discovered that the fuses used in blasting operations were wound with good quality thread, suitable for repairing shoes, and they started smuggling fuses into camp. They continued the practice until a prisoner carelessly handled a fuse with the cap still on it and blew off three of his fingers.

The Japs raised an uproar about this, despite our protests that the miserable offender was only trying to get thread to repair shoes to wear in the mine. The upshot was that the Japs ordered a search of the camp.

Fortunately, we always knew from their agitated behavior when the Jap guards were about to make a search and sent American noncoms ahead of the Jap searchers with instructions to pick up the contraband. In such searches, we discovered and hid a large number of mine fuses, some of them with the caps still on.

Take Search Orders Literally

One oddity of all the Jap searches was that they picked up only the things for which they were ordered to search. If they were hunting for jewelry, they took only jewelry. If they were hunting for pencils, they took only pencils. We always suspected that if a guard hunting for pencils found a prisoner with a pencil and a loaded .45 caliber pistol, he would take the pencil and leave the pistol. The Japs are very literal minded, and they would rather be absurd than disobedient.

We also were glad to get American tooth powder from the Red Cross. Up to this time, we could buy Jap tooth powder in our "canteen," but we discovered the stuff was almost sheer pumice, which took all the enamel off our teeth. However, we found it excellent for cleaning mess kits, window glass, and brass buttons. Some men swore it also was good for indigestion, somewhat like bicarbonate of soda.

Soap Boxes, But Little Soap

Besides the tooth powder, the Japs issued a few other items to be sold in our canteen. These included soap boxes like those which the Japs sold by the million in American dime stores before the war. Unfortunately the canteen sold no soap, one of the things coal mine workers needed most of all. For the first three months there was no soap in camp, which meant the miners always had coal dust around their eyes, in their ears and noses, and on their skulls, where the hair was kept clipped.

In November, 1943, the Japs issued to each man a bar of soft soap that lasted about two days. In December, each man got a bar of hard soap, not as good as a poor grade of American laundry soap. That was the last we received for a long time.

To give the devil his due, the Japs once provided our canteen with something that really was good. This was a drink called sapis, which was sweet and tasted like a mixture of lime and orange juice. The Japs sold us bottles of concentrated sapis which we diluted with water and sold for 5 cents a cup. We made a large sign advertising "Sapa-Cola" to hang in the canteen.

The whole camp stood in line whenever we sold sapis.

Water Required in Ashtrays

With fair regularity the Japs issued cigarets to our canteen, but they were an endless source of trouble. We had no matches, of course, and to get a light we had to go to the kitchen, where coke fires were burning. The Japs, who have a phobia about fires, set up a thousand regulations to prevent them.

A man smoking a cigaret had to hold a saucer full of water as an ashtray. He might not smoke in his room, but had to stand in the corridor, holding the saucer. If he walked around the compound, he had to carry the saucer with his cigaret.

The Japs were always calling fire drills, for which everybody in camp had to run out, including the men trying to sleep off the exhaustion of work in the mine.

Cigaret Fund for the Sick

Under the nonsensical Jap rules, men injured in coal mine accidents continued to receive their base pay, but men who became ill from malnutrition or exposure in the mine received no pay. We devised a system of assessing a small sum from the pay of working prisoners in order to give sick men a little money to buy cigarets.

About once a month we had air raid drills, when everybody had to go to a shelter except the men assigned to fire fighting.

Joyful Over Bombing by Yanks

While I was in the camp, we never had to undergo an air raid and we never had the satisfaction of seeing an American bomber, altho sometimes we saw what looked like vapor trails in the sky and imagined they might be our bombers.

In June, 1945, about a month after I was taken away from the camp, it was attacked by B-29s, which dropped incendiaries that burned down half of the camp buildings. All the prisoners were in the shelters or in the coal mine, so none was hurt. Some of them told me later they lost all their gear and suffered additional privations, but the joy of seeing the results of the raid was more than adequate compensation.

Explosive Find

Policeman John Magner inspecting dynamite found by boys playing at war on the north side.

A box half filled with dynamite sticks, unearthed when they were digging a foxhole in a prairie at Highland av. and Leavitt st., lent an unexpected touch of realism yesterday to the war game of Dickie Butzen, 9, and Donald Biedermann, 12.

Neither boy was aware of what they had discovered until Dickie's mother, Lucille, of 6334 N. Bell av., examined a few of the sticks the boys placed on the back porch and read the word, "dynamite."

She notified Summerdale police and a bomb squad picked up the 50 sticks of explosives. Altho the dynamite was damp it still would have exploded had it been properly detonated, police said.

JAP SAILOR STRIKES GIRL FOUND WITH GI IN PARK AT TOKYO

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 7 (AP)—The army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today a Japanese sailor struck a Japanese girl in downtown Hibiya park for dating an American soldier, and called it the first open show of resentment against fraternization.

The sailor, Hisamatsu Masaharu, 19, was turned over to Tokyo police by American soldiers and the girl was given treatment for a split lip.

The soldiers said Masaharu was one of nine Japanese sailors they saw slapping faces of Japanese girls with Americans, but military police found none of the others. A Japanese police official said Masaharu was released to return to his ship, but would be questioned later.

PANAMA HOLDS U. S. MUST VACATE BASES BY SEPT. 1 NEXT YEAR

PANAMA, Nov. 7 (AP)—According to Panama's interpretation of the agreement under which use of defense bases in Panama was granted to the United States, the sites must be vacated by American forces by Sept. 1, 1946, said Ricardo J. Alfaro, foreign minister.

Alfaro outlined Panama's position to the constituent assembly last night. He said that the agreement, signed on May 18, 1942, provides the bases must be vacated "one year after the date on which the final peace agreement ending armed conflict becomes effective." Panama, Alfaro said, takes the position that the unconditional surrender signed by Japan aboard the battleship Missouri on Sept. 1 was the final peace instrument.

WERMUTH HOME, WITH A CHUCKLE FOR HERO LABEL

Plans Now Just to Have Fun, He Says

The "one man army" of Bataan, who despises the title, came to Chicago yesterday, scarred, a little nervous, bemedaled, resentful of the hero label he found waiting. He's Maj. Arthur W. Wermuth, 30, still unable to realize fully that he's finally home; that Jean, his pretty wife, is beside him.

Short; stocky [he's almost up to his best weight—185 pounds], with clear blue eyes, the major did his best to be matter of fact about his adventures in Bataan. But the experiences were still too fresh, too vivid. Mrs. Wermuth, her eyes red from tears of happiness, seemed to sense his struggle and she'd touch his hand, smile into his eyes, and he would relax.

Scoffs at Stones

"These reports that I killed umpteen-hundred Japs single handed!" Maj. Wermuth scoffed. "That I'm a 'one-man army'! Two hundred of my best men buried on Bataan! I think they'd chuckle with me at such statements."

"I don't know how many I killed," he continued. "I wasn't keeping a box score, nor was any one else. You don't think of such things in battle. I had the best soldiers in the world—the 57th Filipino Scout regiment—under me, and that's why I'm alive today."

His Wounds Healed

His three wounds, bullets thru his left leg and chest, and a bayonet cut in his left arm, have healed but he will go to a hospital soon for a hernia operation.

Maj. Wermuth said the Japs, who knew of his activities with his tommy gun, automatic pistol, and marauding Scouts, "questioned" him once. He said he'd prefer not to tell how they questioned him.

The major will be a special guest of the Armed Forces Officers' club, 130 N. Wells st., at an army homecoming night Saturday evening.

MOVE TO EXTEND 80 RESTRICTIVE LAWS IN BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Britain's Labor government today moved to extend for two years approximately 80 war time defense regulations which are about to expire. These regulations will be in addition to several score in the process of being kept alive five years by another measure before parliament.

The latest move to tighten the government's control, called emergency laws to the transitional provisions bill, affects every one thru a provision which allows the police to require any person to produce an identification card at any time. An identity card also will have to be shown to register in a hotel, make a deposit or withdrawal at a postoffice or savings bank, or obtain employment in some categories of British shipping.

The measure also allows any one to be compelled to take evacuees into his home.

British Jet Powered Plane Sets Speed Record Above 600 Miles an Hour

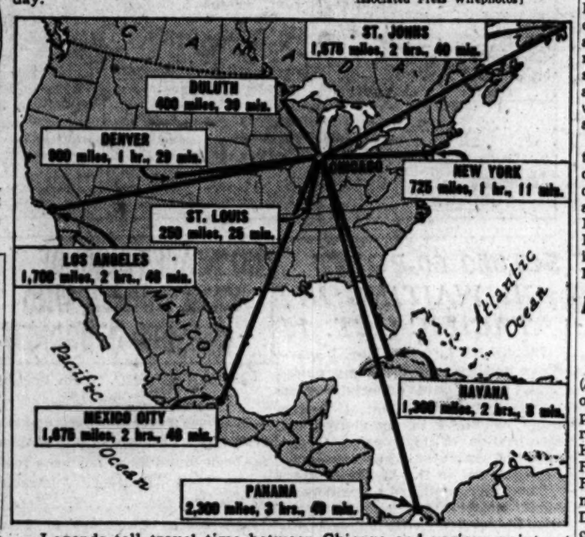
606 Miles an Hour

HERNE BAY, England, Nov. 7—(AP)—The British claimed a new world air speed record tonight after the national physical laboratory had verified that a jet-propelled Gloster Meteor flashed over a measured course four times today at an average speed of 606 miles an hour.

The new mark, unofficially establishing the Meteor as the world's fastest plane, was set by Capt. H. J. Wilson who in one of his four trips over the 1.86-mile course attained a speed of 611 miles an hour. He was clocked at 604, 602 and 608 miles an hour in his other three runs. Official records are based upon the average time in four flights.

Test Pilot Eric Greenwood of the ministry of aircraft production who participated in the trials, made an average of 603 miles an hour. The previous officially recognized air speed record of 481.84 miles an hour was set in 1939 by Capt. Fritz Wendel of the German air force.

How jet plane, flying nonstop at record speed, could circle the earth in 41 hours.



Legends tell travel time between Chicago and various points at the speed developed by jet powered plane.

Zygmunt J. Stefanowicz

32D DIVISION TO OCCUPY PARTS OF 2 JAP ISLES

FUKUOKA, Japan, Nov. 7 (AP)—The veteran 32d [Red Arrow] infantry division, credited with 654 days in action during the war, has been assigned occupational duties on northern Kyushu and southern Honshu Islands.

The present duty is simply pleasure for the troops who fought thru the jungles of Buna, Sailor, Attape, New Guinea, Morotai, Netherlands East Indies, and the mountains of Leyte and Luzon. Still with the Red Arrow are the officers who sailed overseas with the 32d on April 22, 1942.

The outfit, composed of former Wisconsin and Michigan national guard units, was the first American division to engage in offensive action in the Southwest Pacific and figures it spent 48 per cent of the total time the United States was at war in actual combat. It was in the northern Luzon mountains skirting the Cagayan valley when the cease fire order was issued.

Altho the division has just moved into the occupation zone with headquarters at Kukuoka on northern Kyushu, the first battalion of its 127th infantry landed on southern Kyushu when the surrender was signed. Brig Gen. Robert B. McBride Jr. of Indianapolis, Ind., is the Red Arrow commander.

189,662 Tons of Food Tied Up by British Dock Strike

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—The recent strike of dockers which tied up almost all ports in Britain for nearly two months held up 189,662 tons of food. Food Minister Ben Smith today told the house of commons that the amount would have been discharged by Nov. 1 if the ships had not been immobilized by the dockers' demands for more pay.

TYLER KENT CASE IN COURT FRIDAY; SEEKS FREEDOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Unless Tyler Kent is en route to America by Friday his lawyers will file an appeal then, demanding his release under writ of habeas corpus, it was disclosed today.

However, counsel for the former American embassy code clerk who was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment by a British court in 1940 on a charge of violating the official secrets act, said there is every likelihood that he will be going home by then.

It was explained his deportation—part of his sentence—has been delayed four weeks only because recent dock strikes tied up virtually all shipping in British ports and making it impossible to book passage for him. Now that the strikes are over, Kent's lawyers expect he will be hustled out of the country as soon as possible.

His arrival in America is expected to add fuel to the fire being built under the administration to force it to disclose details of the alleged secret agreement between former Prime Minister Churchill and the late President Roosevelt to bring America into the war well in advance of Pearl Harbor.

JAVANESE OFFER BRITISH PLAN TO PRESERVE PEACE

Would Set Up Regional Rule to End Clashes

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 7—(AP)—Indonesian leaders today submitted to the British a plan to preserve peace in strife-torn Java while British troops finish disarming the Japanese and rescuing thousands of European internees.

[The Exchange Telegraph reported in a dispatch from Batavia that fighting had broken out this morning in the Javanese capital between Indian troops and Indonesians. The dispatch said tanks had been ordered to the area of the fighting on the southeastern outskirts of Batavia.]

President Soekarno and Foreign Minister Soebardjo of the "Indonesian republic" proposed the plan during a meeting this morning with Lt. Gen. Philip Christison, British commander in the Dutch East Indies.

The two Indonesian leaders were expected to confer again today with Hubertus J. Van Mook, Dutch acting governor general, on the deadlocked dispute over long-range plans for the Indies.

Suggests Division of Java

Soekarno suggested to Christison that Java be divided into a number of regions where contact bureaus would be set up consisting of Indonesian local leaders and British officers. This, Soekarno said, would permit the British to carry out their task without further clashes with the Indonesians because the way would be paved in advance by cooperation in the contact bureaus.

Observers believed that Christison would readily accept the plan. Such arrangements already have been made at the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja and at Magelang, but only after serious fighting between British troops and the Indonesians.

Separate statements issued yesterday by Van Mook and Soekarno showed that the Dutch and Indonesians were still far divided. Van Mook proposed a type of dominion status for the Indies under which the Indonesians would share equally in the development of the country, but Soekarno insisted on complete independence.

Pledge Treaty with Dutch

Apparently the only stipulation the Soekarno cabinet made before agreeing to meet Van Mook again was that the Dutch recognize their right to self-determination. The Dutch news agency, Aneta, quoted Soebardjo as saying that he "personally" would be willing to settle the dispute by a plebiscite.

Soekarno government leaders say that when, and if, they are recognized as one de facto government, they will make a treaty with the Dutch guaranteeing the safety of Dutch private property and will welcome the Dutch the same as other nationals in developing the economy of the country.

REPORT BRITAIN SEEKS GOERING WORKS' TOOLS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Nov. 7—A proposal that equipment of the vast Hermann Goering steel works be shipped here for British use is being carried to Paris by David Waley, who heads a delegation to the reparations conference which opens on Friday, it was reported tonight. The delegation will suggest that the move be made as soon as possible and the machinery be credited as an advance payment on Britain's reparations claims.

A second claim expected to be proposed will be for a substantial share of Germany's coal, once the emergency needs of European nations are satisfied.

540,000 60-POINT GIs WAITING IN PACIFIC OCT. 15

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 7 (AP)—Stars and Stripes, the army newspaper, today said editorially that the record of the Central Pacific army command in completing demobilization of high point troops ahead of schedule is the exception—not the rule—in the Pacific theater.

The paper published a war department chart which showed more than 540,000 army enlisted men with over 60 points—approximately 10 per cent with more than 85—still were in the Pacific Oct. 15. The paper urged the army to concentrate on 60 plus pointmen all over the Pacific.

Stars and Stripes also said the navy today explained that 1,300 civilian navy yard workers were being taken to the mainland tomorrow aboard the carriers Hornet and Monterey because no army or navy personnel in this area qualified for discharge were available for shipment. Next to that explanation was an official mainland bound box score reporting that 804 army enlisted men, 4,244 from the navy, and 479 marines were waiting at a personnel center here for transportation home.

JAPAN'S SCHOOLS END JIU JITSU AND WAR DRILLS

TOKYO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Japanese ministry of education today abolished from schools samurai flavored courses in glider training, judo, jiu jitsu, fencing, and military drill.

A new political party, the Japan Renovationist party, came into existence, advocating elimination of feudalism and liberalization of economy.

In another development on the occupation front the Jap government fired more than 5,800 police personnel.

Yanks' Bodies Reburied on Side of Japanese Hill

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Nov. 7 (AP)—The bodies of Americans who died in Japanese prison camps or were killed in plane crashes on bombing raids are being reburied in a cemetery on a hill overlooking Yokosuka harbor.

Indian Leader Barred from Visit to Dutch Indies

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, All-India Congress party leader, has been officially refused a travel permit to go to the Netherlands East Indies, it was stated today.

NO TRACE FOUND OF YANK AIRMEN WHO CRASHED IN BORNEO

LABUAN ISLAND, North Borneo, Nov. 6 [Delayed]—(AP)—Altho scores of American airmen crashed or parachuted into Borneo, not one of them has been found alive, nor have their graves been identified, Australian officers said today.

Borneo was the scene of death marches in which white prisoners died hourly. Their bodies were stripped of identification and hastily buried along the way.

The Australians said the Japanese informed them the largest number of Australian, British, Dutch, and American prisoners of war in British Borneo at any time was 4,730 in April, 1943.

Harry Weber, a Chicago civil engineer, taken from the camp to jail at Jesselton for some minor infraction, was never seen again. His wife was rescued and removed to Manila.

AP PROTESTS BRITISH BAN ON JAVA NEWS

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—A protest against British abandonment of press conferences which provided information on military activities in the Netherlands East Indies was forwarded today to Adm. Mountbatten by Kent Cooper, executive director of the associated press.

The cablegram to the commander of the allied southeast Asia command said:

"I feel this decision cuts squarely across principles of unhampered, truthful reporting of news to which both American and British governments have subscribed. Therefore, I urgently request an appropriate investigation be made and measures taken to assure freedom of access to all news information and sources in areas under your command."

BERLIN GIs MUST KEEP RECORD OF FINANCIAL DEALS

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 7—Beginning next Saturday every American soldier and officer, except generals, will receive a booklet in which will be entered by paymasters, finance officers, and postal clerks a record of every cent he receives and every dollar he transfers to the United States from his unallocated pay.

Thru the use of these booklets it is expected the number of occupation marks being converted into dollars will be materially reduced and the cost to America of supporting the Russian, French, and British armies will be cut.

Money Business Is Brisk

The finance section of the military government estimates that the Russian army has placed about five billion marks in circulation, compared with one billion marks circulated by the French, British, and Americans in a ratio of 20-40-40.

As Saturday nears a brisk business has sprung up with GI's paying double and triple the amount in marks for money orders which their luckier comrades obtain from the postoffice with dollars. Similar bidding is going on for war bonds and American and British currency. The men also are seeking convert marks for anything with real value. Soldiers who possess bank accounts in the United States can get twice or thrice the amount of their dollar checks in marks.

Strictly U. S. Problem

The problem of transferring marks arises only with the United States army as the Russians, French, and British permit no exchange for rubles, francs, or sterling.

In an effort to solve the financial problem the American representative of the interallied control council repeatedly has requested his Russian colleagues to divulge how many marks the soviets have printed for the Red army, but every time the question is brushed off with promises that the information will be sought from Moscow.

Last week permission was asked for a United States treasury agent to proceed to Moscow, but the proposal was rejected by the Russians.

TELLS HOW JAPS FORCED 300 TO JUMP INTO WELL

Threw Stones on Mass of Struggling People

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 8 [Thursday]—Testimony that 300 noncombatant men were forced by the Japanese last Feb. 15 to leap into a well into which huge stones, debris, and other heavy articles were thrown, was given today in the trial of Gen. Yamashita.

This is a portion of the testimony by which the prosecution hopes to establish the deaths of more than 12,000 men, women, and children in the province of Batangas, thru Japanese atrocities.

Pamfilo Umali said the Japanese rounded up the 700 men, women, and children from their homes in Lipa at 7 a. m.

Tied Together in Groups

"They tied the men together in groups of five or six," he said. "The group I was in was taken to a well about 65 feet deep and three feet across. We were ordered by the Japanese, with bayonets, to get on the edge of the well and jump. About 200 men jumped in ahead of me and 100 after me. I landed on bodies and in very little water."

Then, the witness said, the Japs threw stones and other articles into the well and fired numerous shots at the struggling mass, then covered the whole well with sawali—woven rush matting—and went away. A few women ventured near about midnight and lowered ropes. Only Umali and five others still were alive and able to be pulled up.

Victor Manquiat told how his group of 300 was led to a second well. He managed to untie himself and dash to safety altho wounded twice by rifle shots. When he returned to the well four days later it was crammed with bodies.

Starvation at Santo Tomas

A spinster school teacher, who is an expert on nutrition, earlier today testified the food situation at Santo Tomas internment camp was so bad that it was her custom while interned there to eat raw grass and hibiscus leaves in an attempt to remedy diet deficiencies.

Miss Elvessa Stewart gave special attention to the period from October, 1944, to February this year. After giving a concise definition of a calorie, Miss Stewart told how many calories per person per day were available in the four months. They follow:

October—1,012 calories provided by the Japanese plus 375 which internees were able to add; November—997 calories plus 228; December—960 plus 99; Jaunary—700 to 500 plus less than 100.

3,000 Calories Needed

The minimum requirement for an adult doing light labor, Miss Stewart said, is 3,000 calories daily.

Miss Stewart, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a resident of the Philippines since 1930, said:

"What vegetables we got appeared to be sweepings from the market place. We got many white radishes and of course we ate the tops."

She said her normal weight was 145 pounds, that by October she weighed 115 and a week before liberation she was down to 82 pounds.

Asked whether she managed to supplement her diet, Miss Stewart said:

"There was some nice grass growing along a drainage ditch and I ate that. Also the hibiscus has quite a tasty leaf—this can be eaten raw. But uncooked grass is dangerous because of dysentery. I tried to heat it. If you were first in line it was possible to get hot food. I would put grass with that, hoping the heat might kill some of the bacilli. Then I had a little permanganate to put on it.

Halted Trying to Slip Out

"When mothers saw me picking grass they asked why. I told them and the next day mothers and children were picking grass. Finally there was no more grass inside. When I tried to slip off limits to pick grass I was halted by Jap guards."

The trial commission admitted a deposition made in Cleveland, O., by Maj. Ralph B. Scheibley, formerly held in Bilibid prison. Scheibley said that while on a work detail he was sent to Yamashita's headquarters building where he saw stacks of American Red Cross packages, and saw many of them opened and looted.

NAZI LAWYERS DEFEND CHIEFS IN ALLIED COURT

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—One of the strangest features of the coming war criminals' trials is that full fledged Nazi lawyers will be able to walk into the international war crimes court at Nuernberg to defend Hermann Goering, former luftwaffe chief, and Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy, and the 21 other accused before a tribunal acting as the instrument of the nations which have sworn to wipe out nazism.

They will be allowed to participate fully in the world's most important case, while elsewhere in Germany proven membership of the Nazi party prevents any one from holding a position of responsibility.

An official of the prosecution office, explaining this paradox today, said: "It is impossible to do anything else, otherwise we are putting the defendants in the position of having lawyers who do not believe in the cause of the men they are defending."

Panama Grants Power to Put Down Subversion

PANAMA, Nov. 7 (AP)—Panama's constituent assembly has granted special authority to President Enrique Jiminez to take any necessary measures to prevent "subversive agitation or activity." The assembly said the grant was necessary because of recent acts of terrorism.

SCHUSCHNIGG VISITS COURT AT NUERNBERG

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP) — Kurt Schuschnigg, former chancellor of Austria, who will testify for the prosecution in the war crimes trials scheduled for Nov. 20, visited the trial room today and described it as a symbol of justice for which the world had waited years.

He is expected to testify against Arthur Seyss-Inquart, nazi chancellor of Austria, and Ernst Kaltenbrunner, nazi chief of security police, who are among the 22 high Nazis awaiting trial.

Schuschnigg said the only hope for Austria's future lay in the tolerance and indulgence of the great powers. "The sovereignty of small or dismembered states is only a fiction," he asserted. Schuschnigg was liberated by the allies from German imprisonment in the closing stages of the war.

Dollie Weisberg Murder Hearing Reset for Nov. 16

At the request of the state's attorney's office, Judge Irwin B. Clorfene in Felony court yesterday continued until Nov. 16 the hearing on a murder charge against Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, who is accused of fatally shooting Joseph McKnight, Evanston automobile salesman, in a tavern at 1 N. La Salle st. on Oct. 7. The state asked that the hearing be postponed until after the inquest.

CLAIMS BELSEN GANG INNOCENT ON LEGAL BASIS

LUXEMBURG, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP)—Prof. H. A. Smith of London university law school contended today that 45 SS guards charged with killing or mistreating prisoners at the Belsen and Oswiecim concentration camps were innocent of war crimes because it was their duty to obey the "national policy" of their country.

Appearing for the defense, Smith declared concentration camps were established in 1933 as a "part of the national policy for degradation and extermination of the Jewish race," and that the accused were "bound by German law to do their duty."

"Whenever there is a conflict between international and domestic law, it is the duty of a citizen to obey the law of his country," he added. He argued there was no breach of international law and no war crimes because "we are dealing here with an incident which has no logical connection with the war at all."

U. S. ASKS TURKS TO LET WARSHIPS ENTER STRAITS

Would Provide Russia with Outlet to Sea

the warships of the Black sea powers at all times. [Besides Russia, nations touching on the Black sea are Romania, Bulgaria, Greece, and Turkey.]

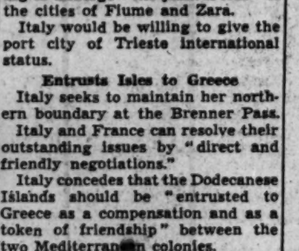
3. Except for limited tonnage in peace time, warships of non-Black sea powers would be denied passage thru the straits unless the Black sea powers consented or the allied nations granted authority for passage. The peace time tonnage figure would have to be decided at an international conference. The present maximum for non-Black sea warships in that sea at any one time is 45,000 tons, Byrnes said.

Would Eliminate Japan

4. The Montreaux convention should be modernized by eliminating Japan as a signatory nation and by substituting the allied nations for the old league of nations at various points.

The Montreux convention was signed at Montreux, Switzerland, July 20, 1936, and gave Turkey the right to remilitarize the Dardanelles, which had been demilitarized by the Lausanne treaty. Nations signatory to the convention included Great Britain, France, Russia, Japan, Turkey, Greece, Romania, Yugoslavia, and Bulgaria.

Article 19 of the convention provided that the straits should be closed to warships of belligerent nations unless they are serving under a league of nations mandate or helping a victim of aggression under a mutual assistance pact concluded within the league's framework and to which Turkey was a party.



The Dardanelles and also territory involved in Italian cession of ports and islands to other nations.

Byrnes also made public, with reference to the Italian situation, the text of letters written Aug. 22 by Premier Parri of Italy to President Truman and by Italian Foreign Minister de Gasperi to Byrnes, together with their replies.

Outlines Italy's Position

Parri's letter to Mr. Truman outlined Italy's position generally while De Gasperi's message went into great detail on such major territorial questions as the Italian-Yugoslavian frontier; the Italian-French frontier; the Aegean Islands, and the Italian colonies.

Both letters were written Aug. 22, little more than two weeks before the opening of the London conference at which a final peace settlement for Italy was scheduled to be drawn up. The conference ended in a stalemate, however, and the Italian treaty still is pending.

The major points of Italy's position, as outlined in De Gasperi's letter, were:

Yugoslavia is entitled to "some rectification" of the present frontier and in this connection Italy is willing to undergo "the painful loss" of the cities of Fiume and Zara.

Italy would be willing to give the port city of Trieste international status.

Entrusts Isles to Greece

Italy seeks to maintain her northern boundary at the Brenner Pass.

Italy and France can resolve their outstanding issues by "direct and friendly negotiations."

Italy concedes that the Dodecanese Islands should be "entrusted to Greece as a compensation and as a token of friendship" between the two Mediterranean colonies.

Italy would agree to establishment, presumably by the allied nations, of "strategic areas," air and naval bases in the Tobruk sector and in Mamarica, but wants to retain sovereignty over the Cyrenaica plateau.

Maintenance of Italian sovereignty over Eritrea is essential but Italy would grant Ethiopia's request for a free outlet to the sea.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—On behalf of King George VI., Ambassador Halifax conferred decorations on 35 United States officers and others in a ceremony at the British embassy today. APPLE POLISHING CALLED WAY TO ADVANCE IN NAVY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army and Navy Bulletin, an unofficial publication, says selection of navy officers for flag rank has taken on some aspects of "a popularity contest where the votes determine the winner."

Flag rank is that of rear admiral or higher.

This week's issue says, the bulletin reported in a statement tonight, that fleet Adm. King, chief of naval operations, is responsible for the "popularity contest procedure" and that it has stimulated the "navy art of polishing the apple."

Social Life Emphasized

"It has put a premium, at least to some extent," the publication says, "on the social side of navy life, on how many people you know —or don't know."

The remedy, the bulletin says, is to return to the pre-war system based on "systematic analysis of the records of performance of each officer."

Tell of Procedure

This is the way it says 18 captains recently were nominated for rear admiral:

Fifty flag officers were asked to pick them from 500 names submitted, arrange them in priority according to their own judgement, and sent their choices to Washington "where a selection board, with a minority of members present, went thru the motions of the prewar system."

WARNS ALL WILL BE REGIMENTED IN ANOTHER WAR

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—If the United States ever gets into another war, there may be no such thing as an unregimented civilian, Assistant Navy Secretary Hensel told the senate military affairs committee today.

Testifying in opposition to pending bills for unification of the war and navy departments, Hensel argued for creation of a council of national defense, including army, navy, air force, and state department civilian heads and the chairman of a proposed securities board responsible for industrial mobilization.

"We know," said Hensel, "that the next war, if there be one, will be really total. Every one will be affected. Controls will be necessary in the realms of material, prices, man power, transportation, manufacturing, mining, and the like. There may be no such thing as an unregimented civilian in the next war."

Australia to Send Home All Colored War Refugees

Admits Choking Woman Found Dead in Chicago

Confession that he choked and raped a woman, 58, found dead in a room at 117 W. Huron st. Monday night was made at Niles, Mich., yesterday by Homer Prendergast, 40, janitor at the Huron st. address, who had been arrested at Niles by railroad policemen for trespassing. Wanted: A new Boss... PRONTO!

MEN WHO MANAGE the business enterprises of this country want to see these men employed. They realize the pressing urgency of swift conversion to peacetime production so that jobs can be made available to men who want to work.
But in that conversion to peace are problems aplenty... problems of finance... of distribution... of wages and prices... of methods and materials. Old methods and thinking have undergone great change... a new set of rules is in the making. There is hardly a phase of our economic structure that can be viewed in the light of pre-war operations.
Many sound decisions must be made quickly by management men. And since such decisions can only be made on the basis of facts, these men are turning to Business Week for up-to-date information. Business Week is specialized reading for business executives. It is devoted to a single editorial aim... to report events and trends having special significance to business and industry, and to interpret them in that light. No other magazine is equipped to do such a thorough job for business men, especially since Business Week is a weekly, and thus presents the news "hot."
Concentration—three-way concentration—is the essence of Business Week. First, Business Week's circulation is concentrated upon management men exclusively—a carefully identified, known group of men who manage and make decisions for American business. Second, the editorial contents of Business Week are concentrated exclusively upon business subjects. In turn, this audience of management men sees your advertising message in Business Week when they, themselves, are concentrated upon business problems. For the advertiser it is a powerful combination of values unique in the publishing field.

FOOD SCARCER IN ENGLAND AS WAR AFTERMATH

Some Items Disappear as Lend-Lease Ends

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Peace has brought few changes in Britain's food ration system. Where changes have been made there has been a tendency to decrease rather than increase supplies.

A number of new problems have sprung up to plague London housewives, the latest of which is the reduction in milk deliveries, because milk bottle manufacture ceased several months ago. It was announced that military labor is to be used to restart the factories. Several days a week housewives must go to dairies to pick up milk in containers, the ration being two pints weekly.

Soap ration has gone into a slight decline since May, when the ministry of food ruled the seven weeks' allowance must be stretched over eight weeks. This permits the purchase of about one small cake of toilet soap weekly or relative quantities of household soap or soap flakes. Even so, soap is hard to get.

New Shortages Being Felt

Numerous shortages not experienced during the war, are beginning to make themselves felt. Coffee, salt, pepper, vinegar, soda, and breakfast cereals have mysteriously disappeared from shops without any explanation.

Powdered milk, which might be used to eke out the milk ration, and rice are unobtainable. Cookies and dried fruit are rationed and hard to find. The meat ration remains at 23 cents worth weekly, three cents of which must be taken in corned beef. This works out to about one pound per adult weekly in cheaper cuts.

Processed meats, which formerly were available on points in small quantities, have vanished from the shops since the cessation of lend-lease.

Main Meal at Factory

On Nov. 11 the cheese ration will be restored to three ounces from two, and consumers will be permitted to have a third ounce of butter at the sacrifice of one ounce of margarine, thus allowing three ounces of each weekly.

Seasonal fruits and vegetables are fairly plentiful. Apples are 14 cents a pound and pears 22. Tomatoes cost about 23 cents a pound and sweet corn 20 cents per cob. Grapes are $2 to $3 a pound, which puts them beyond the reach of most people. London recently had its first oranges in months.

Since the rations are barely enough to sustain life, most British workmen eat their main meal in a factory canteen which the law requires in every plant employing more than 250 persons. A number of government sponsored restaurants offering cheap, simple meals also exist thruout the country.

RULE OF TERROR IN TWO BALKAN STATES CHARGED

Report Middle Class Being Wiped Out

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 7—A reign of terror is continuing unabated in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, it was charged in personal letters, documents, and other reports handed to this reporter today. All tell the same grim story of fear, hunger, and chaos under the communistic regimes.

The charges emanated from 16 persons including a servant girl, stenographers, clerks, engineers, a banker, a high ranking American officer, and a French official. Their stories indicate speedy, systematic liquidation of the middle class as underway in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria with a thoroness hardly exceeded in Russia itself 26 and 27 years ago.

Among the documents is a pastoral letter calling attention, among other things, to the martyrdom of the Catholic clergy in Yugoslavia. The letter was signed by 17 Catholic prelates. The signatures included that of Dr. Alojzy Stepinac, archbishop of Zagreb, and chairman of the bishops' conference held Sept. 20.

Lists 501 Victims

The letter lists 501 victims of civil military condemnation of whom 243 are dead, 169 interned in concentration camps, and 89 missing. It reports that at a French monastery in Chireki-Brez 28 persons were put to death on false charges of opposing the "liberation" forces where "nearly every one is well known to be opposed to the ideology of the Fascists."

The Tito government has forbidden the reading of the pastoral letter in Yugoslav churches.

The letters and other reports charge that:

1. Civilians and others still are being shot or interned out of hand without benefit of trial.

2. The population is being otherwise cowed into support of the communist regime.

3. American and British officials are helpless to give aid or comfort to the victims of the communist Gestapos in Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

4. It is as dangerous for Bulgarians and Yugoslavians to have friendly relations with Americans, British, or other foreigners as it is in Russia.

Many Without Food

5. Economic and financial structures have collapsed with the result that literally tens of thousands are without food or money.

6. British and American efforts to promote democracy have failed utterly.

An American colonel in Yugoslavia wrote:

"Not one in 10 is happy under the communist government and, unless one is giving things away, lend-leasing, or doing relief work, the foreigners of capitalistic states have rough sledding. In Albania the situation is similar to that in Yugoslavia." He said the people expect another war for liberation within five years.

Almost a Record

Temperatures in Chicago rose to 74.4 degrees yesterday, less than a degree short of tying the 75.3 record high reading for Nov. 7, established in 1915. Overcoats were surplus for many and some Chicagoans even shed shoes and stockings to wade in the lake. Forecaster H. S. Kenny said today's weather will be about like yesterday's, with a high of 68, with showers. He urged Chicagoans to make the most of it because by tonight or tomorrow cold air from the northwest is likely to arrive, bringing temperatures around freezing. The normal maximum for this time of the year is about 50.

The case resulted from the firing of a shot that wounded William Hicks, a bartender, 1311 Rosedale av., in a tavern at 1231 Wilson av.

BANDIT GETS $850 LOOT IN AUTO

John Hogan, 42, of 7142 Crandon av., was robbed of $350 and a ring valued at $400 by a man who jumped into his automobile, stopped for a traffic light at 43d st. and Drexel av., Hogan told police yesterday.

SUITOR FACES $18,000 FRAUD CHARGE TODAY

James Hallen, 43, of 1052 Sheridan rd., will appear in Felony court today on a charge of confidence game, on complaint of Mrs. Gertrude Kledhans, 42, of 2539 S. Lawndale av., who alleges that he defrauded her of $18,000.

James Hallen

Mrs. Kledhans, a widow, proprietor of Gertrude's beauty parlor at 3653 W. 26th st., told Sgt. John Hanrahan of the police robbery detail that Hallen proposed marriage to her after they met in a tavern near Madison st. and Pulaski rd., last June, but told her they could not be married until Nov. 15, when his divorce decree became final.

She said he persuaded her to purchase a tavern at 3224 N. Cicero av. for $8,500, and that in addition she gave him $1,500 for working capital. The tavern license is in the name of James Hallen and wife. She charged he also obtained various other sums from her.

Recently, suspicious of his lagging attentions, she said, she hired a private detective, who, she said, found Hallen living with another woman in a Sheridan rd. hotel. She said the other woman told her Hallen also had promised to marry her.

CAFETERIA MANAGER FINED

Edward Collier, 35, Negro, 1802 Dodge av., Evanston, operator of the Sheldrake hotel cafeteria, 4520 Clarendon av., was fined $5 and costs by Judge Leon Edelman in Town Hall police court yesterday for pushing Mrs. Dorothy Dunn to the floor of the cafeteria Oct. 5 in a row over noise at her table.

BRITISH ORDER SHOOT-TO-KILL IN TRIPOLITANIA

Suppress Arab Rioters After 74 Jews Die

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 7 (AP)—Seventy-four Jews and one Arab were killed in anti-Jewish rioting the last three days in Tripolitania, but a curfew and stern shoot-to-kill orders to British troops tonight had suppressed disorders in most of the Mediterranean colony.

Arab mobs looted and gutted Jewish quarters and assaulted Jews in Tripoli, Souk el Juma, and Tagiura "in a serious outbreak of rioting, violence and arson," started on Sunday night, British headquarters declared.

Tripoli was under heavy guard today and "the provinces remained generally quiet except for the eastern provinces where disturbances were reported from Cussabat and Ziliten," a bulletin said.

The rioting, blamed by the British on "irresponsible elements who in a large majority of cases came from the Arab section of the population," hospitalized 183 Jews, 36 Arabs, and two Italians.

Order Looters Shot

Troops and police in Tripoli were ordered to "shoot all looters and to fire if necessary to disperse groups of more than five persons." A 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew was imposed there Monday, and then extended from 5 p. m. to 6 a. m. thruout all of Tripolitania, the Italian colony where allied and axis armies battled in the North African campaigns.

The riots started in Tripoli when "an Arab mob attacked the Jewish quarter" there, the bulletin said, and despite heavy guards, looting, incendiarism and "isolated brutal assaults of Arabs upon Jews" flared again Monday morning. Rumors were spread charging Jews with crimes against Arabs, the British said.

Arab Mobs Attack

On Monday, "undisciplined Arab mobs looted and gutted the Jewish quarter at Souk el Juma and Tagiua," the bulletin said, adding that it was now known "that the Jews suffered 36 killed at Souk el Juma and four killed at Tagiura," five miles east of Tripoli, with many more injured.

Cussabat and Ziliten, where disorders still were reported Tuesday, are 52 and 85 miles east of Tripoli.

Subversive Arab elements have been arrested, the British said.

Tripolitania and Cyrenaica to the east make up the Italian colony of Libya, whose people have been demanding independence from Italy. The Arab league is supporting their demand. Tripolitania is being administered temporarily by the British on behalf of the allies. Its population includes 763,000 Moslems, 89,000 Italians, and 30,000 Jews.

Palestine police today announced one Arab was killed in a minor clash between Jews and Arabs in the northern part of the Holy Land.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO TELL SIZE OF AUSTRIA FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—The British government today again invoked the war time secrecy habit and refused to tell the house of commons how many troops are helping to occupy Austria. Tho warned that the public is disturbed by reports that a large force is being used, a government spokesman said there were objections to publishing the figures on specific theaters of operation.

An air ministry spokesman said there are still 112,650 women in the auxiliary air force [WAAF]. The WAAFs numbered 157,280 at the end of the war in Europe, he said.

Reflecting the opposition to Britain's slow rate of demobilization, the house of lords will debate Nov. 15 on a resolution demanding a speed-up in releases, not only of service personnel but of factories which are needed for civilian production.

Irish Would Hide Statues or Give Them to British

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—Statues of British royalty or heroes will be removed from public places in Eire if the Fianna Fail government has its way. The party, holding its convention in Dublin, adopted a resolution calling for the removal of statues in that city "commemorative of aliens or alien occupation" and the establishment of an outdoor museum to accommodate them. Statues of Queen Victoria and Lord Nelson are among those that may be uprooted. The delegates said that if the removal embarrassed "our friends across the water" Eire would gladly give the lot to the English.

Haw Haw Appeal Denied; Lords May Review Case

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—William Joyce [Lord Haw Haw], who made propaganda broadcasts over the German radio, today was denied an appeal from his conviction of high treason. Under sentence of death, he took the decision with outward calm. His attorneys said they would seek the attorney general's permission to take the case before the house of lords for review.

Spero A. Dallas, 40, of 2333 Arthur av., was shot in the right hand and robbed of $200 early yesterday when he resisted a robber as Dallas was leaving his grocery store at 1120 Argyle st. He was taken to Edgewater hospital.

KURDISH REVOLT RAISES FRESH THREAT TO TURKS

LONDON, Nov. 7 [Reuters]—Authoritative reports reaching London indicate that the Kurdish insurrection that has been in progress in Iraq [Mesopotamia] since last summer has been showing dangerous signs of extension.

Strict censorship is exercised by the governments concerned, but there appears strong ground for a report that the trouble has spread over the frontier from Iraq into Turkey and appears to be reaching into Iran [Persia].

The Kurds, a Mohammedan people, are understood to be numerous and better armed than in the earlier risings. They also seem to have a more cohesive political program, about which, however, only a little is known.

One demand put forward by the insurgents, it is reported, is for an autonomous Kurdish republic, but it is not known with whom this state would be associated—whether it would seek attachment to Turkey or Iraq or whether, like a section of the Armenians, it would seek admission into the soviet union.

Hear Reds Protest Troops

To deal with this threat, the Turkish authorities are reported to have concentrated a considerable body of troops in the Caucasus zone, the one mainly threatened. This concentration, it is understood, has disturbed the Russian authorities on the other side of the frontier and they are reported to have protested against it.

Because these troubles are taking place in the area close to one already believed under dispute between Turkey and Russia, the implication of the Kurdish threat is watched with some concern in London.

This has not been eased by confirmation that an Azerbaijan liberation movement has been started in northern Iran by four Iranians who went to Iranian Azerbaijan from soviet Azerbaijan.

See Move to Join Soviets

Earlier reports of such a move were denied by Iranian authorities, but there now appears to be little doubt that the Azerbaijan party formed in soviet occupied northern Iran is about to start a campaign for joining their country with that of soviet Azerbaijan within the framework of the soviet union.

Londoners believe the new Turkish ambassador, Cevad Acikalim, who is expected to arrive in London tomorrow, will seek assurances from Britain about its attitude on these matters.

There apparently is still some concern in Ankara lest the tentative British support which Turkey has been receiving in its negotiations with Russia may suddenly cease. The new ambassador's main task is believed to be to discover to what extent Turkey can rely on diplomatic support from Britain and America in negotiating for a new treaty with Russia.

CHIEF AIDS BLIND WOMAN IN HUNT FOR HOTEL ROOM

Blind Miss Anita Blair, 23, of El Paso, Tex., who came to Chicago Tuesday with her Seeing Eye dog, Fawn, and spent the first night in the matrons' quarters at the Central police station because she could not get a hotel room, was a happier visitor on her second night here last night.

A room was provided for her and her dog in the La Salle hotel thru the efforts of Chief William L. McCarthy of the Cook county highway police.

Miss Blair came here to arrange contracts for a spring lecture and singing tour. She was blinded in a motor accident seven years ago. She found hotels filled, then appealed to police. Mrs. June Forrester Daley, police telephone operator, arranged accommodations for her in the matrons' quarters Tuesday night. Miss Blair appeared headed for another night there last night until Chief McCarthy came to her aid.

PEARL HARBOR CODE SECRETS STIR CONGRESS

Republican Members to Battle Gag Today

now stand." He assailed the Republicans f seeking to capitalize "a very thin political issue" and said they were going to "be caught out on a limb," a phrase he refused to expand.

"The majority is not going to change its position one iota," said Lucas. "Let the minority go off the deep end if they want to. I was assured again by President Truman today that all the government's official files will be available to the committee."

Gearhart, in an interview, said it might be necessary to bring the dispute between the committee majority and minority to the floor of congress for a test vote.

Plan of Action

"If the majority tomorrow refuses to yield on its indefensible position," he said, "I will feel it incumbent upon me to introduce a resolution amending the act which set up the committee in order to permit any committee member to make an independent investigation.

"The matter would thus be put up to congress for a vote on whether it wants the whole truth or just what the administration wants to bring out. Of course, if party politics rules the house and senate as it has the committee, the amendment would be defeated, but the American people have a right to know how their representatives stand on this question."

Wants to See Records

Gearhart said many leads were contained in the decoded Japanese messages which he and other minority members wanted to follow up by examining government records. They have been refused permission by the committee majority to make such an inspection, even in the presence of the committee's legal staff.

Discussing the contents of the decoded Jap messages, Gearhart noted that the responsibility of former State Secretary Hull in the events leading up to the Pearl Harbor disaster was one of the important subjects which the minority wanted to determine in the light of this new information.

"A Bit Premature"

"Secretary of State Byrnes was a bit premature when he announced the innocence of his predecessor in connection with precipitating the Japanese attack with his 10 point ultimatum of Nov. 26, 1941," Gearhart declared. "Mr. Byrnes may be enlightened by these 'cracked' code messages.

"The messages reveal the Japs as still hopeful on Nov. 5 of getting the kind of agreement out of the United States which would render it unnecessary for them to go to war. The navy report reveals that the chief of naval operations and army chief of staff were pleading with the President that no ultimatum be dispatched to Japan because the armed services were 'not ready.'

Japs "Still Hoping"

"On Nov. 14 and again on Nov. 16, the intercepted Jap messages show the Japanese still hoping their negotiations with Mr. Hull will result in an agreement satisfactory to Japan.

"But they are keeping an eye on Pearl Harbor. On Nov. 17, the decoded messages show, Tokyo was brought up to date on the warships in Pearl Harbor and the course of eight destroyers leaving the harbor. Would not that message alone have caused Washington to inform Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel to set up the final alert, in readiness for attack at any moment?

"The messages show the Japs moving up the deadline for securing an agreement with the United States from Nov. 25 to Nov. 29. They were still hopeful. But there is a threat in this Nov. 22 message that after the Nov. 29 date, 'things are automatically going to happen.'

"Still no warning is sent to Kimmel and Short.

"Bad to Worse"

"Hope begins to fade for the Japs as the messages of Nov. 26 show. So bad are the prospects of securing an agreement with the United States that Ambassador Nomura's thoughts turn to avoiding responsibility for the rupture of relations if bad comes to worse.

"They were in that frame of mind when Secretary Hull issued his ultimatum. When Nomura and Special Envoy Kurusu read the drastic stipulations, they knew all hope of securing an agreement that Japan could accept was gone. War was no longer inevitable; it was now imminent. Hull had fixed that.

"The decoded messages of Nov. 28, Nov. 29, and Nov. 30 tell of the impossibility of Japan's acceptance of the ultimatum, term it an 'insulting proposal' and warn Berlin that the United States 'in collusion with the allied nations, has decided to regard Japan, along with Germany and Italy, as an enemy.' And there follows the Jap assertion to its German ally that the war might break 'sooner than any one dreams.'

The "Only" Interpretation

"The high authorities in Washington read all those messages. Then they got the Dec. 6 Jap message, which fixed the time for delivery to the White House of the Jap answer at 1 p. m., Washington time. Both army and navy officers immediately interpreted the 1 o'clock directive to mean only one thing—that the first bomb would fall at that time, which was 7 a. m. in Hawaii.

"Did not Secretary Hull, Gen. Marshall, and others high in authority know that the Jap navy had been sailing for 12 to 15 days to a rendezvous north of Honolulu? The decoded messages showed that the Jap fleet had left home waters.

"These are a part of the strange, seemingly unexplainable circumstances which the minority wants to investigate and the majority wants, apparently, to leave alone. Why have the records of the interception of the 'Winds Execute' code message on Dec. 4 and 5, translated as the Japanese declaration of war, been destroyed?"

STORE OWNER SLUGGED, ROBBED

Enrico Di Grigorio, 50, of 1450 Polk st., operator of a candy store at 1601 Taylor st., reported to police yesterday that two young men slugged him and robbed him of $152 in his store after making a cigaret purchase.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 8—Clash with Britain

On Nov. 8, 1861, the U. S. S. San Jacinto, Capt. Charles Wilkes commanding, stopped the British mail steamer Trent in the Bahama channel and took off James Murray Mason of Virginia and John Slidell of Louisiana.

These were Confederate commissioners en route to London and Paris, respectively. They had eluded the Union blockade and reached Havana, where they took passage in the neutral Trent for Europe.

The United States found itself in an untenable position. An American officer, by searching a neutral ship on the high seas and seizing her passengers, had violated that very principle of the freedom of the seas which America had so vehemently championed. The government asked Charles Francis Adams, American minister in London, to inform the British government that Wilkes had acted without instructions.

A storm of indignation raged in England and there was even a demand for war with the United States. However, the unnecessarily stern and provocative note which the British government was preparing for transmission to this country was softened on the advice of calmer heads and the incident ended peaceably.

The United States liberated Mason and Slidell on the ground that Wilkes should have brought the Trent into port for adjudication, not ransacked it on the high seas.

Telephone Service

DIRECT TO FRANCE

resumed for public use

With the re-opening of telephone service direct to France on November 7, 1945, the Bell System continues its program of re-establishing its overseas service to war-torn areas as rapidly as possible. The rate for a three-minute call from Chicago to France has been reduced to $12 (Federal Tax additional). The same rate applies to all European countries reached by the service.

Since V-J day, service has been restored to France, the Netherlands and Italy. In addition, war-time restrictions have been largely removed on calls to other countries where service has been continued through the war. Today, any Bell or Bell-connected telephone in the U. S. can reach—

All countries in North, Central and South America and the islands in the Caribbean area:

Hawaii, Australia, and New Zealand in the Pacific area:

Great Britain, the Netherlands, France, U. S. S. R., Switzerland, Italy, Spain and Portugal in Europe.

NAZI SPY TOLD FBI HIS PLOTS, U.S. DISCLOSES

Saboteur Ring Broken Up by Member's Story

quarters, where he was questioned in detail.

"Dasch told of the sabotage mission. He explained that he and Burger had agreed to notify the FBI and that Burger had full knowledge of his purpose in coming to Washington. Special agents were successful in locating Burger in New York, where he was put under surveillance with the hope that he would lead to other members of the party."

The FBI was able to arrest all eight saboteurs within 14 days after they arrived, Clark said, adding:

"Immediately after all saboteurs had been caught, officials of various plants and facilities on the list for sabotage attacks were advised by telephone so that they could be on guard against future attempts.

"On the list were the TVA project, source of power for the atomic bomb project; the Aluminum Company of America plants at Alcoa, Tenn., Massena, N. Y., and East St. Louis, Ill.; the Cryolite plant at Philadelphia, Pa.; the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad; the Pennsylvania railroad depot at Newark, N. J.; the Hell Gate bridge in New York City; Ohio river locks between Cincinnati, O., and St. Louis, Mo., and the Pennsylvania railroads at the Horseshoe curve, Altoona, Pa."

Clark also said the saboteurs planned to create panic by placing time bombs in railroad station storage lockers and in crowded stores.

The Other Saboteurs

Landing with Dasch and Burger on Long Island were Heinrich Harm, Heinck and Richard Quirin. The four who landed near Jacksonville, Fla., were Herbert Hans Haupt, Edward Kerling, Hermann Neubauer, and Werner Thiel.

Clark gave this account of how the group was caught after Dasch had contacted the FBI. The FBI agents recovered from Dasch a pocket handkerchief which was found to bear in invisible ink the names of several persons who were to act as contacts for the saboteurs. These persons were located and closely watched.

Burger left his New York hotel on June 20 and was followed to a men's furnishings store at 5th av. and 41st st. At 3 p. m. he met two men wearing new clothes and filling the descriptions given by Dasch of the other two saboteurs who landed on Long Island.

The three separated. Burger's companions were followed to the vicinity of 75th st. and Amsterdam av., where they were arrested. Burger was arrested at his hotel. He said he and Dasch had agreed to desert the sabotage assignment. Burger said he was sent to a German concentration camp in March, 1940, and was confined 17 months because he criticized the Nazi party.

The FBI next centered its investigation in Chicago. Haupt's family was in Chicago, he was known to have traveled to Mexico and Japan, and was believed to have gone from there to Germany. The Haupt home was watched. Then on June 22 Haupt walked into the FBI's Chicago office. He said he had learned that the FBI had inquired at his home several months before about his draft status. He said he had been in Mexico all this time.

"Do as You Please"

Haupt asked the special agent interviewing him if it would be satisfactory for him to go back to work. The agent replied that he was free to do anything he liked.

Haupt left the FBI office apparently confident that he had thrown the FBI off guard. Agents kept him under constant surveillance, hoping he would lead them to the other saboteurs.

On June 23 one of the men whose name appeared on Dasch's handkerchief was followed to a spot near the Pennsylvania station in New York where he met a person answering Kerling's description. This man was traced to Thiel and their arrests followed.

In Chicago the surveillance of Haupt was continued. Meanwhile other agents were checking all hotels and other places where Neubauer might be. On June 27 agents found that an "H. Nicholas" was registered at a Chicago hotel. The agents waited and when "Nicholas" appeared at about 8 p. m. he was identified as Neubauer and arrested.

Haupt then was taken into custody.

G. O. P. Holds Mirror to Lives of Mr. Truman and Mr. Citizen

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—The Republican national committee today fired critical shafts at President Truman for his poker playing, race track betting, and interest in "kooch" dancers while the country is undergoing an industrial crisis.

The November issue of the Republican News, official party organ, edited by William C. Murphy Jr., publicity director for the committee, featured the following double-barreled column entitled "It's Fun to Be a President":

Truman's 'My Day'

OCT. 6—"Motored to Berrysville, Va., for Bennett Clark's marriage to Actress Violet Heming. Took part as best man. Back to capital where three government planes formed air party for a Missouri week-end to see Caruthersville county fair. Smooth trip; slept and played poker. Landed at Blythesville, Ark., airport and caravan of cars motored in Caruthersville, with cars lining route. Waved pearl gray hat at 'em. Ate chicken dinner prepared by Methodist ladies. Played the minuet for the folks. Put up at Majestic hotel."

OCT. 7—"Walked to Mississippi's bank and spit in river. Baptist ladies served breakfast; attended Baptist services, Presbyterian ladies served noon dinner, went to county fair. Saw 'kooch' dancers and heard corny jokes from free attractions platform; placed a few bets at race track. Made speech, touching on labor, management, foreign relations, and religion. The text—Golden rule. Back to the hotel with poker game in the offing."

A Citizen's Diary

OCT. 6—"New York shipping, except for arriving troop ships, was tied up in sixth day of longshoremen's strike. Lumbermen in west and bus drivers in northwest were out; in midwest, Ford anticipated 145,000 workers would strike. In the east soft coal area, 600 mines and 152,000 miners were idle—an estimated loss of 3½ million tons of needed coal. A strike of 450,000 telephone workers threatened; some left switchboards for a few hours. About 550,000 workers were involved in nation's labor disputes, thousands more indirectly."

OCT. 7—"After the government seized western oil refining plants, which had been strikebound for days, the navy prepared to administer them. An estimated 400,000 workers remained off their jobs on account of labor trouble. Decreased fuel supplies, on account of the soft coal strike, began to affect the steel industry and curtailed production schedules were reported. Investors looked at stock market reaction to this development."

PROGRAM IS SET FOR CONVENTION OF LEGION HERE

National Parley Will Open Nov. 18

The program of the American Legion national convention, which will open in Chicago Nov. 18, was prepared yesterday by the Illinois department convention committee in the Morrison hotel.

Philip W. Collins, chairman of the committee, said the convention will hear during the four day session the top men of nearly every profession dealing with veterans. Housing has been provided for 1,750 delegates and an equal number of alternates, Collins said. Other legionnaires attending must arrange their own accommodations. The meetings will be held in the Coliseum.

Green and Kelly to Speak

At the opening session at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 18, Gov. Green, Mayor Kelly, Arthur E. Canty, Illinois department commander, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, national president of the Legion auxiliary, and Spence S. Eccles, chef de Chemin de Fer, Forty and Eight, will give the welcoming addresses.

The American Legion distinguished service medal will be awarded posthumously to Ernie Pyle, to the late President Roosevelt, and to Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war. Fleet Adm. King will speak.

Plan Mass Initiation

Presentation of the distinguished service medal to Gen. Eisenhower, Adm. Nimitz, and the late Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. will be on Nov. 19. Speakers on that day will include Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, assistant to the chief engineer of the army; War Secretary Patterson, Arthur Tedder, British air chief, and Frank C. Rathje, president of the American Bankers' association. A mass initiation of World War II veterans will be held in the Coliseum that evening, to be followed by a party.

On Nov. 20 the speakers will include H. J. Symington, director of the surplus property board; Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Treasury Secretary Vinson; Gen. Bradley, administrator of veterans' affairs; Gen. Arnold, commander of the army air forces; and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

William Green to Talk

The speakers on Nov. 21 will be Watson B. Miller, administrator of social security; Gen. Hershey, selective service director; Lt. Gen. Doolittle, army air forces; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; A. B. Chandler, baseball commissioner, and Gen. Vandegrift, commandant of the marine corps.

The last business of the convention will be the election of officers. The policy of the Legion for the next year will be set at the convention. A stiff fight is expected on such issues as peace time conscription, a unified army and navy command, and veterans' legislation, including bonuses.

CIRCUIT COURT UPHELD

A ruling of the Circuit court in which the Chicago board of education was ordered to pay back pay totaling $4,450 to Fred J. Tucker of Limington, Me., for his services as a real estate expert in 1936, was upheld yesterday by the Appellate court.

LIBONATI CHOICE OF LEGION FOR 'MAN OF YEAR'

Elliodor M. Libonati, Chicago attorney and chairman of the Americanism commission, Illinois department, American Legion, yesterday was selected by the department as its candidate for the $1,000 national "man of the year" award. The honor, the Lewis S. Rosenstiel award, goes to the Legionnaire who has performed the most useful community service in the last 12 months in the judgment of a board made up of Legion national officers.

BOY FINDS GIRL IN GERMANY AND FUTURE'S BRIGHT

Refugee Bribes Red with Wedding Ring

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Nov. 7—Two young men and a girl about 17 were trudging along the border of the British-Russian zones in Germany. The girl was not particularly pretty but her companions looked at her as if she were the most wonderful girl in the world.

"She's my kid sister; I've just found her," smiled one in the worn uniform of a German seaman. "She smuggled herself out of the Russian zone from our home in Posen to the British zone because she knew the British had captured me. She got word to me she would look for me in the British zone.

"When I was released, my friend here and I went from camp to camp—and now we've found her. She had been on the road four months."

The girl is being escorted to Hamburg where brother and sister hope an uncle still lives. Then the brother will try to find a job in either the British or American merchant marine—"I'm a good sailor, even if I am only 18," he said. His homeless comrade, too, will seek his future in the merchant marine.

Others Are Wealthy

Most refugees who have trickled across the border from the Russian zone are relatively wealthy. Some of them have been found carrying as much as 100,000 marks, which was $40,000 at prewar rates, hidden in their clothes. Many of the women stalk about the British transit camps in expensive fur coats.

Early comers tried to get across the border with a big part of their belongings. One family shoved so much across the border that it took three trucks to cart it to safety in the British zone. Another arrived with a piano. Henceforth, refugees will be allowed only one suitcase, otherwise it will be impossible to handle the masses that are expected as soon as the border opens officially.

Others are less lucky. A physician in a village inn near Wittingen, a stone's throw from the border, got across illegally two weeks ago. On his first attempt he had met a Russian guard who wanted his watch and schnapps [liquor]. He had lost his watch to Russians long ago, and he had no schnapps. He was sent back. He tried another path and met another guard right on the demarcation line. This guard let him pass—after he gave him his wedding ring.

One of the women in the inn said that yesterday she heard a wounded man's moans as he lay close to the border on the Russian side. She went to a British guard and together they found the wounded man, a woman, and seven children huddled near a railroad line.

Led by Priest

The man was a Catholic priest whom the Gestapo had exiled from western Germany to Poland. In the darkness he had fallen down an embankment, crushing his side. The priest, woman, and seven children who had trekked from Waren in Mecklenburg, are now being tended in a hospital and camp.

There is a big difference between these refugees and the ragged army of slave workers and former prisoners who trudged the roads of Germany in the final days of the war on their way to their homes.

Most of the Germans receive a physical checkup at the transit camps. Only 5 per cent need medical care. About 25 per cent are children under 10 years old, who are with their mothers or other relatives. Most of the children are thrilled by the adventurous life.

SERVICE MEN'S NAMES FOR YULE GIFTS IN DEMAND

Requests for names of soldiers and sailors in hospitals to whom Tribune readers will send Christmas gifts continued to pour in to the Friend of the Yanks yesterday. Readers desiring to remember a wounded or sick service man at Christmas time should make their request for names at once. Requests will be filled in the order received.

To send a Christmas gift to a service man in a hospital it is necessary only to clip the coupon on this page—and mail with an addressed stamped envelope to the Friend of the Yanks. Service men's names will be collected from 21 hospitals in 10 central and midwestern states and in turn sent to readers during the first week in December, allowing virtually three weeks for selecting and mailing the gift.

Last year there were only 24,000 men in these hospitals. This year there are 44,000, many of whom still have many months of hospitalization ahead before they are restored to full health. Many readers who have requested names are doing so in the memory of a lost son or husband. Others are going to send gifts in thankfulness for the safe return of their loved ones.

Find Wilmette Wife Dead, Husband Ill in Hospital

The body of Mrs. Margaret Osman, 45, of 737 Park av., Wilmette, was found in the basement of her home yesterday by her son, George Jr., 15. Wilmette police said she had ended her life by swallowing turpentine while despondent over the illness of her husband, George, supervising manager of the Brethold Realty company, 455 Green Bay rd., Wilmette, who is a patient in Wesley Memorial hospital. An inquest will be held at 1460 Sherman av., Evanston, at 10 a. m. today.

TEN GI BRAWLS IN A NIGHT—THEN TOMB-LIKE QUIET

Bar Europe Yanks from 'Hottest Trouble Spot'

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROUEN, France, Nov. 7—Last night there were 10 saloon brawls involving American soldiers. But tonight following official orders placing Le Havre, Rouen, and other cities in the 4,000 square mile staging area off limits, this factory city is as quiet as a tomb.

What one combat officer described as the "hottest trouble spot" he had ever seen was almost empty of GIs. The few who had not heard of the closing orders were routed off the streets and started back to staging area camps.

Sad faced barmen, lonely "hostesses," and empty night clubs greeted an inspection tour by Capt. Merwin Hoffman of Dallas, Tex., former combat engineer, whose company from the 713th M. P. battalion is responsible for Rouen's security now. The 89th division, which had been stationed here, is pulling out tomorrow for a boat at Le Havre.

Violence on Increase

Placing the staging area cities off limits to all American personnel, military, naval, and air, and civilian, followed complaints by Le Havre newspaper and civil authorities that the area had become unsafe for French civilians. Crimes of violence have been increasing in recent months, particularly armed robberies and sluggings. Soldiers have been assaulted and beaten in dark alleys and lonely roads by French toughs and sometimes by French native Senegalese, Moroccan, or Algerian troops.

Basically the trouble stems from these facts, officers say:

When the army was pouring supplies into Europe, unscrupulous soldiers found quick, easy money in selling stolen goods thru the black market to the French. Later, many of these same troops turned to robbery.

Believe Gangs Operate

Some of these are believed to be operating in small gangs. Others en route home thru staging camps come into town armed with German, Belgian, or Czech pistols and commit robberies which often have resulted fatally.

If soldiers were not kept so long in camp, some officers insist, there would be far fewer cases of robbery or other violence, tho such cases are not, of course, typical of American soldiers.

Except for a relatively few GIs who have met French families and been invited to their homes, most troops have seen only the rougher element of the bars and streets. This gives the soldier a warped impression of French life. And the Frenchman says that he resents having tipsy soldiers insult his wife or fiancee on streets or knock at the door of his home asking for girls.

Contrasted with Germans

Most combat soldiers who have returned from Germany fall into the anti-French group. In Germany they have seen civilians salute Americans and jump to obey any soldier's order, thus stimulating the soldier's own ego as a conqueror. But GIs say they have also seen well tilled fields. They have seen Germans working industriously to clean up war debris, repair broken homes, and work at anything to keep going.

In France these same soldiers, now homeward bound, find that the French are far less industrious, or more eager to wait for our help, more inclined to let Americans do jobs of rebuilding the country.

PLAN '46 START OF CONGRESS ST. SUPER-HIGHWAY

Work on the Congress st. superhighway will be started about Jan. 1, when 15 vacant buildings between Des Plaines st. and Ashland blvd. will be razed. This was the prospect yesterday after a meeting of the engineering design committee, which also inspected a proposed route for the northwest superhighway.

Contract forms for the task of removing the Congress st. buildings were approved by representatives of the city, county, and state, which will share the cost. Approval by state officials in Springfield also is necessary.

In the meeting in the city superhighway office at 20 N. Wacker dr. the engineers agreed to speed specifications and contracts for a large sewer to carry off the water of the depressed expressway that will run between Desplaines st. and Kedzie av.

SCREAMS ROUT ASSAILANT OF WAUKEGAN GIRL

A 19 year old girl, walking in Butrick st., near Brookside av., in Waukegan last night was seized around the waist by a thin man, a little more than 5 feet tall, wearing a jacket. She screamed, tore loose, and ran to her home half a block away.

The assailant fled, pursued by L. W. Colson, 128 N. Butrick st. Colson, after running several blocks, commandeered an automobile, but lost the trail. Three Waukegan police cars, a sheriff's car, and a dozen householders searched the vicinity without success.

A young man dressed in a sailor's uniform was being hunted by Elmwood Park police yesterday after he attempted to attack an 8 year old girl at 78th ct. and Sunset dr. as she returned from a church party on Tuesday evening. The attacker beat the child, but fled when she screamed.

KELLY ENLARGES GROUP TO SEEK ALLIED OFFICES

Mayor Kelly yesterday announced the appointment of James M. Cleary, advertising firm executive, to the committee that will sail from New York Nov. 14 to appear before the allied nations organization's preparatory commission in London and urge that Chicago be chosen as the organization's permanent headquarters. Kelly's action enlarged the committee from four to five members. Places have been accepted by Corporation Counsel Hodes, Leverett Lyon, executive director of the Chicago Association of Commerce; William L. McFetridge, international president of the Building Service Employes' union [AFL], and Curtis MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern university.

VOICE NEW PLEA TO FREE STILES ON RAPE CHARGE

Attorneys for Howard G. Stiles Jr., 16, of 2326 Brown av., Evanston, charged with raping an 8 year old girl on Sept. 6 and attempting to rape a 10 year old girl on Aug. 24, yesterday redoubled their fight before Judge Frank H. Bicek in Juvenile court to dismiss the charges.

Defense Attorneys Richard G. Finn Jr. and Marshall I. McMahon attacked testimony of Joseph M. Skeffington, probation officer, that Stiles admitted he was guilty of the crimes charged. Stiles later repudiated the confession. Skeffington failed to mention the admissions of guilt in a written record of the interview, Finn said, and did not come forward with his testimony until late in the case.

Argues Against Motion

Assistant State's Atty. Patrick Egan, who opposed the motion to dismiss, held the sole duty of the state is to prove the defendant unmanageable or delinquent, and argued the state has accomplished this. He asked that Stiles be placed in the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, or in some similar institution.

He pointed to testimony of Leonarde Keeler, on which Judge Bicek has reserved ruling as to admissibility, that Stiles admitted homosexual practices with three boys, and indecent relationship with a girl when 13.

Points to Company Records

The prosecutor pointed to records of an Evanston company which showed that Stiles was paid for seven days in August—not for Aug. 24—as against defense testimony that he had worked thru August and on Aug. 24. Ronald Zillman, called in rebuttal, explained the records by saying that Stiles got paid only for time he worked, and that at other times "he just rode around" with Zillman in the company truck.

Egan asserted the identification of Stiles by the 10 year old girl was valid, and held that in the rape case the defendant had told Evanston police exactly where the offense had occurred. Finn said the state has failed to prove its case, pointed to the fact the 8 year old girl did not identify Stiles, and characterized the identification in the second case as "vague and hazy."

Hearing of the case will be resumed at 2 p. m. today.

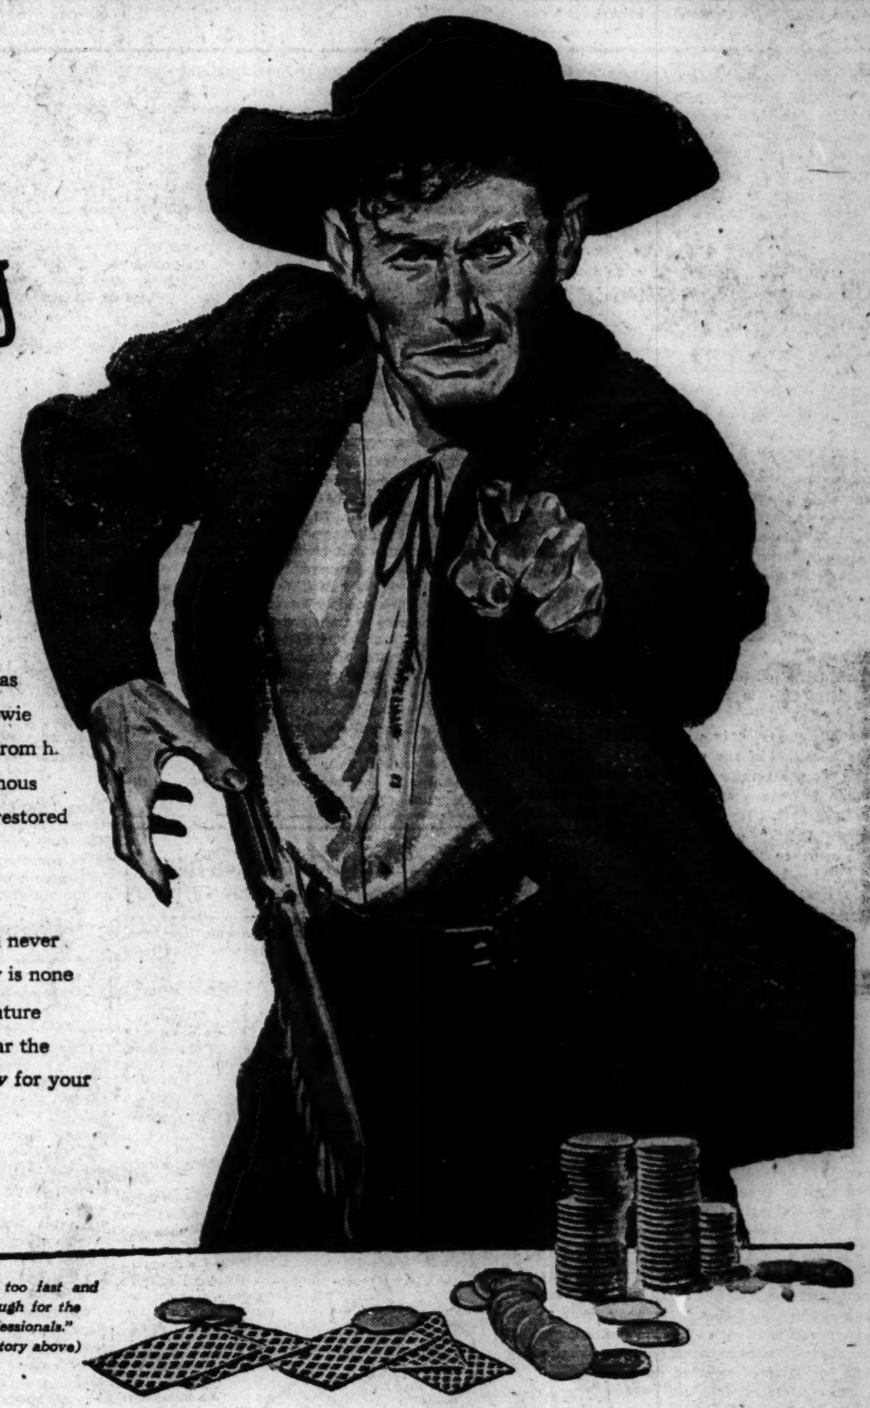
He made war on gambling



James Bowie of bowie knife and Alamo fame hated crooked gamblers and was the nemesis of sharpers on the Mississippi. In 1832, on the steamer New Orleans, he saw a young man fleeced of $45,000. Bowie stepped in to beat the gamblers at their own game. When the stage was set for their big cleanup, with $70,000 in the pot, Bowie caught one of the sharpers drawing an extra ace from h. sleeve, forced him to show it under threat of his famous knife, and took the pot with four kings. Bowie restored the young man's losses, and made him take an oath never to gamble again.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

Mayoralty elections ordinarily turn upon local issues. Most of those decided on Tuesday were normal in this respect. Republicans turned out Democratic incumbents in Buffalo and in Connecticut cities, and the Democrats hung on to Cleveland and Pittsburgh. That veteran reprobate, James M. Curley, made one of his perennial comebacks in Boston. Only Detroit and New York offered contests of more than local significance.

Detroit lived up to the traditions of a city of the Northwest Territory when it repulsed another drive by the communist infested CIO to capture its city hall. Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, the incumbent, defeated Richard T. Frankensteen, vice president of the Auto Workers' union, by a fairly substantial margin.

The CIO is more strongly organized in Detroit than in any other city of the country, yet it never has managed to obtain control of the Detroit city government. Two years ago Mayor Jeffries beat another CIO-backed candidate, by a smaller margin than he scored on Tuesday over Frankensteen. The most probable meaning of his victory is that the people of Detroit, whatever their views on the CIO as an economic agency, don't want it running their police force. They had an excellent demonstration of what that would mean right across the river from them in strike-bound Windsor, Ont., which recently has been a stronghold of the socialist CCF party.

In New York, William O'Dwyer, a Tammany politician with a decent personal record, struck hands with the Communists and accepted the backing of the American Labor party, which they control. They will certainly try to control his administration, altho the vote which he rolled up on the Democratic ticket, which was more than sufficient to beat his opponents with ALP aid, will give him ground to steer clear of them if he has such an inclination.

How deeply the Communists have entrenched themselves in the political fabric of the nation's biggest city can better be determined when the proportional representation votes for members of the city council are tabulated in a few days, and it is seen how the Communists and fellow travelers fared. In the borough of the Bronx Boss Ed Flynn refused to deal with the Communists, and despite his repudiation of their support, his Democratic ticket made a relatively better showing than Democrats elsewhere in the city.

The bright spot in the New York election was its demonstration of the utter bankruptcy of Gov. Dewey's leadership of the Republicans of that city. He combined with the Liberal party—a right wing splinter of the ALP—to back Judge Jonah Goldstein, and intervened actively in the campaign on Goldstein's behalf. His candidate polled only a few thousand votes more than Newbold Morris, who was put up on a spite ticket by Mayor La Guardia after that bombastic little fraud recognized that the New Yorkers were tired of his public clowning and public obscenities. Goldstein won only 22 per cent of the vote, against O'Dwyer's 57 per cent.

Only by utter repudiation of the internationalist crowd can the Republicans ever hope to carry the state of New York. Even by truckling to them Gov. Dewey made a ridiculous showing in the city. The whole country is thru with Willkieism, Deweyism, and Stassenism. These men have led a rump faction, which cannot even make a respectable showing in the city where it has its headquarters. Nevertheless, they have presumed to dictate the policies of the Republican party in the nation. Their claim to leadership is now shown up for the fraud that it is and always has been.

AMBULANCE SERVICE

As one of the few useful by-products of the gone and unlamented civilian defense comedy, the fire department has put into service four excellent ambulances which the OCD bought during the war. In installing the ambulances in the fire department rather than the police department, or as an independent service, the city has made a logical start toward the public ambulance system which it so sadly lacks. To bring the service to a par with that offered by other large cities, however, two things are needed. One is more ambulances, quite a number of them. The other is to tie the ambulance service in with the public and private hospitals of the city.

Ambulance service should do two things. It should provide a safe conveyance for injured or ill people. It should also be manned by people thoroly qualified to give emergency treatment to victims. The ambulance attendants, who will be city firemen, will be trained in first aid, but that is not enough.

Some five years ago, the late Dr. Irving S. Cutter, then medical editor of THE TRIBUNE, drew up an informal proposal for public ambulance service in this city. His idea was that the ambulances should be stationed in fire stations close to hospitals, and that on any call that they made the hospitals should furnish an intern or resident physician and an orderly or nurse to ride in the ambulance. That is the way good public ambulance services are run in other cities, altho in some instances the ambulances are maintained by the hospitals.

As soon as Chicago hospitals get their staff members and interns out of the service, their coöperation should be sought in establishing such a service in Chicago.

BUSY LITTLE THURMAN

As assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, Thurman Arnold brought suit against the Pullman company several years ago, charging it with violating the Sherman act because it was engaged in both the manufacture and operation of sleeping cars.

Much litigation followed before a federal court ordered the company to divest itself of its sleeping car operating business. In the course of this investigation Mr. Arnold made use of grand jury subpenas to familiarize himself thoroly with all of the financial records and other business secrets of the Pullman company.

Now that the company, in compliance with the federal court mandate, is offering the Pullman operating business for sale, who should pop up but Mr. Arnold, who, in the meantime, has been on and off the federal bench and is now engaged in the private practice of law. He reënters the Pullman case as counsel for a group headed by Robert R. Young, a former Wall street speculator, which wants to buy the business and operate sleeping cars for the railroads of the country. Mr. Arnold's intimate knowledge of the Pullman company, gained on the other side of the fence, is no doubt a great asset to his new clients.

What we would like to know is, what have Jimmy and Elliott got that Thurman hasn't got?

RUSSIA'S DEMANDS IN JAPAN

Russia, not being able to barge into Japan with its troops and commissars, again has declined to send a representative to the joint control commission meeting in Washington. Mr. Byrnes, our none too stiff necked secretary of state, has been trying some dodges to get two things at once—a semblance of interallied action in Japan and a reality of American control. Mr. Molotov, thinking that he has Mr. Byrnes on the ropes, is weaving about for the kill.

Russia, as the result of the American conquest of Japan, has all of continental Asia at its disposal. It can come out of Siberia and rule all thru the continent. It has all the preliminaries for this operation. Everything that Russia has wanted on the Asiatic mainland, in Manchuria, Mongolia, and the Chinese provinces has been given it by the extraordinary military achievements of the United States. Occasionally it is necessary to do some plain talking which may sound egotistic.

The soviet policy thruout the peace has been high handed. Russia had nothing whatever to do with the defeat of Japan. Stalin was afraid to try a war on two fronts, altho the United States had undertaken exactly that and, in addition, was making it possible for Russia to equip its armies in Europe. We, in America, do not want war with Russia, do not expect that it will come about, and see no reason why it should. Nevertheless, to submit to Russian arrogance would be intolerable.

If our government permits Russian administrators and Russian soldiers to take over any part of the home islands of Japan, it will be almost criminal. The bold soviet bid for intervention in Tokyo should be thrown out the window. It would, indeed, be foolish to permit Australian, Chinese, French, or British troops to enter the home islands of Japan. What in the world could they do other than create complications? They have plenty of work in their own spheres.

If Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes yield to Russia on the occupation of Japan they will regret it. The joint council Mr. Byrnes has suggested will satisfy every justifiable demand the other governments could make.

THEY CAN'T TAKE IT

When the government owned British Broadcasting corporation reported President Truman's recent speech on foreign affairs a most significant phrase was omitted. Mr. Truman had said that all peoples ready for self-government should be allowed to choose the form of government they preferred. To leave no doubt that he was speaking not only of Europe but equally of the rest of the world, Mr. Truman added: "This is true in Europe, in Asia, and in Africa, as well as in the western hemisphere." The BBC left that sentence out.

The BBC thus did what it could to prevent the natives of England from learning what the head of our government thinks of colonial oppressors. More particularly, the BBC did what it could to prevent the natives of India, Burma, Java, Indo-China, and a host of other colonies from deriving any comfort or encouragement in their resistance to oppression.

The official excuse is that the speech had to be condensed to fit into the time available, but only those who want to be fooled will be taken in by this plea. In truth, to a British audience the President's clear reference to colonies was one of the few genuinely important passages in the speech. The omission must have been intended deliberately to keep the British public from learning what those who do not profit from the enslavement of black, brown, and yellow men think of Britain and her partners in the dirty business of imperialism. The Labor government, like its predecessors, takes the position that it knows what is best for the British public. The government's motto is "What they don't know won't hurt them."

CRYSTAL GAZING

[Providence [R. I.] Evening Bulletin]

When Henry Wallace, speaking for his department of commerce, says that industry can raise wages 10 per cent without increasing prices, he is talking irresponsibly. Neither Mr. Wallace nor any of his subordinates can possibly know the exact situation in every industry in this country. Yet the secretary of commerce has the temerity to advise labor to seek an impossible uniformity in wage demands.

The department of commerce was created to be an impartial guide in the economic affairs of the nation. It loses sight of its function when it undertakes to be a special counselor to a particular group that obviously has its own axe to grind. Organized labor has proved fully capable of handling its propaganda. It does not need the assistance of the secretary of commerce.

ALMOST LIKE HOME

As we give ear to the shrieks of the shelterless, with money in their purses but no roofs over their heads in this chaotic era of undeclared peace, we begin to wonder if American ingenuity will rise to the emergency and re-invent the old-fashioned boarding house. We hereby dedicate every vacant millionaire's mansion, of which there are thousands in the land, to this purpose if a new generation of genteel hostesses will spring up with the know-how to manage them for the comfort of the bed-and-board trade.

The boarding house, alma mater of many prominent citizens, became obsolete, it seems, about the time when women screamed their way upward to equal rights to work downtown. It used to be an American institution, but we haven't heard of such an establishment for decades. They were usually conducted by widows as a method of making a small life insurance payment bring a livable income. They were a hardy, efficient race, those widows, and we're sure that they would be able to cope with the present servant problem.

Newspaper humorists have jeered at them; literary gents have written gloomy novels about them; song writers have travestied them. [Remember the ditty that ran, "There is a boarding house not far away, where they have hard-boiled eggs three times a day"?] Nevertheless they were, in general, a satisfactory substitute for home, and their alumni formed the breed that built the cities of America.

Theatrical companies arriving in Chicago are now expected to camp in their own quonsett huts. In other times, say from 20 to 40 years ago, their rank and file would be welcomed at Mrs. Woodruff's, in a chateau on Prairie av., or at Mrs. Quirk's, in a Georgian mansion on the near north side. Breakfast from 10 to 12; dinner at 5:30; supper at midnight, and a good room—at $20 a week. The actors thought it was the life of Riley, and came back year after year.

Now to read a few chapters in Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit" about Todgers' boarding house in London, near the Monument.

NOW, IN NOVEMBER

October and her gypsy carnival
Have left our hills and trees as if to follow
The pilgrimage of oriole and swallow
To bayou shrines, serene and beautiful.
December is a promise time fulfills:
Of powdered pearls, of silver damask made
From snow and moonlight, and of starred brocade,
Of winds that scroll white satin on the hills.
November, now at hand, may seem to some
A bleak and tarnished month, and yet I find
This interlude of loneliness is kind
After October's bright delirium,
When I am still a little breathless, lost

Black Market of Boyhood

The monotonous chant, "Old rags, iron, bones," was an important call to us kids. For days we gathered junk to exchange for a few pennies on Saturday morning.

Ma's rag bag was raided, and we filched her choicest remnants which were destined for rag rugs and crazy quilts. Old clothes in the attics disappeared. The woodsheds were cleaned of discarded metals. Back gate weights were "lifted." Tinfoil from cigar and tea wrappers grew into a heavy ball. Old bones from stews, roasts, and steaks were gathered together in a sack, which left the neighborhood dogs minus their favorite gnawing and burying materials.

Finally in the distance we could hear the junkman's call. We ran to meet him and begged him to come down to our alley. If you could carry your junk to his wagon for some distance, it meant that your load was a meager one, and so was your reward. But a discarded kitchen range would keep you in pocket money for weeks.

LITTLE OLD LADIES

Little old ladies tug at my heart,
They stand at the curb reluctant to start,
Peering at signals, afraid of the cars,
Their seamed faces etched with the years' deep scars.
Slowly and carefully they move along,
Jostled impatiently by the swift throng,
And yet they have riches that all men need—
Tolerant wisdom to offset greed,
Deep understanding of joy and of grief,
A subtle humor and a quiet belief,
Undaunted still by long years of strife,
Little old ladies are friends with life.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

A. L. K. writes: "Please explain what constitutes 'active, qualifying service' to make a discharged service man eligible for education under the GI bill. My son volunteered shortly after his 18th birthday and was assigned to college training. This program is being discontinued and he still needs two more years to get his degree. Will he be eligible for the two years at government expense?"

All time spent in the military service after Sept. 16, 1940, except that spent in school under the army specialized training program or the navy college training program which was in continuation of a civilian course and which was pursued to completion, may be counted. If your son was a high school graduate at the time he volunteered and, for example, was assigned to a course in engineering and continued to take the course for at least two years, he then is eligible for three more years of education at government expense. Veterans are entitled to one year of education after 90 days of service. In addition, those under 25 are entitled to a period of education equal to the length of their service but not more than four years in all. If a man's entire service was in continuation of his civilian course and he is discharged without actual military service for at least 90 days, he is not entitled to further government financed education.

WILL ATOMIC RAYS SUPERSEDE OTHERS?

THRU radiology we have been able not only to visualize structures that cannot be seen with the naked eye but to treat diseased tissues. X-ray and radium, which emerged from the discoveries of Roentgen, Becquerel, and the Curies are the best known forms. Had the physicists stopped there we would never have been startled by the news of the atomic bomb and its devastating effect on Japan.

In 1932 Lawrence devised a machine, called the "cyclotron," which could smash the atom. Along with his physician-brother and associates, its usefulness in medicine was explored. Some of these observations were reported but, with the onset of hostilities, scientists turned their attention toward harnessing the energy developed thru this process. The result was the famous atomic bomb. From now on we can expect a continuation of the original research, for the field is wide open.

These extremely energetic bits of atoms are of value medically in at least three ways. With the cyclotron, various elements like iron, iodine, sodium, and phosphorus can be made radioactive—that is, capable of giving off rays which are detectable by suitable instruments. This opened up a vast storehouse for investigation because these substances were altered without changing their chemical nature. In consequence, they can be administered to animals or humans and their course followed thruout the body.

For example, when radio-iodine is taken practically all of it travels to the thyroid gland. Another illustration is iron. In the past it was believed that the percentage stored in the system depended on the rate of excretion. With the new tracer method it became apparent that the need controled the amount, for anemic animals absorbed large quantities, while those that were normal utilized only a small degree. In other words, we can now determine where, how much, and how fast a mineral goes into the body after ingestion, provided it can be "tagged" with this additional activity.

The second factor was that since certain elements settled in one organ and not others, these radioactive particles could be sent to the very seat of the trouble to act directly upon abnormal tissue. Since phosphorus proceeds to the bones, it was decided to try this mineral in the treatment of leucemia, inasmuch as these structures, along with marrow and lymph glands, are thought to play a part in this disease. The results were somewhat encouraging in that the white blood count was lowered. The effect is similar to that of roentgen therapy. Time will tell if it is better, for the treatment has been given for only a relatively short period.

Radio-phosphorus also migrates to affected lymph glands and was found valuable in a type of cancer known as "lymphosarcoma." Sufferers from Hodgkin's disease were not benefited but patients with polycythemia were helped.

The cyclotron gives off a beam of fast neutrons which behave like the rays of radium or X-ray. Studies are now in progress on the influence of this type of radiation on tumors. Some cancers have disappeared; others have not. Further investigation will be necessary before definite conclusions can be drawn. With the conversion of our scientists from war to peace many more centers will be established and the potentialities explored.

TESTING FOR T. B.

Mrs. K. R. writes: My sister's 2 year old boy had a tuberculosis test. The doctor scratched something on the wrist and when she brought the child to the office 24 hours later, he said it was positive. A chest X-ray was taken and it was negative. What does all this indicate?

REPLY

The positive tuberculin test indicates that the boy at one time harbored the organism. The X-ray was taken to find out whether the infection is active. Apparently, no concern need be felt.

TONSIL REMOVAL

Mrs. V. writes: What is the best age and time to have a child's infected tonsils removed?

REPLY

Tonsillectomy is rarely advised before the age of 3 unless there is a marked reason for so doing. Probably the age of 5 is ideal. Most physicians prefer not to operate during the months of July and August and, to a lesser degree, September and October, because the polio virus is more prevalent at this time.

Summary of a Victory Garden

Spring

Out to the garden we must go
Equipped with rake and spade and hoe.
Sticks and stones must be tossed out,
Fertilizer spread about.
Make the rows and plant the seed,
Things we like and things we need.

Summer

Haul the sprinkling can and hose,
Pull the weeds and hoe the rows.
Spray the beetles, kill the bugs,
Chase out airedales, terriers, pugs.
Gather in the ripe tomatoes,
Carrots, spinach, beans, potatoes.
Flowers, too! In brief synopsis:
Asters, zinnias, calliopsis.

Fall

See what we have for all our trouble:
Just a pile of yellow stubble!

Solution

Speaking of world peace, and who was, quarrels are stopped by counting to 10 before striking the first blow. For world peace, one might count to 15,747,724,136,275,002,577,605,653,961,181,555,468,044,717,914,527,116,709,366,231,425,076,185 billion. This is the number of electrons in the universe.

The World to Come

A Chicago proofreader, forced to stay home from work several weeks because of the recent printers' strike, was shortening the sleeves of an old suit.

"These sleeves have been annoying me for three years, and this is the first time I've been home long enough to make them the right length," she told the Swedish maid who was tidying her hotel apartment.

The maid leaned on her broom and looked wistful.

"When I strike," she said thoughtfully, "I'm going to put some elastic in my pants."

Are We Growing Old?

Sociologists and men with the long view are gravely concerned with what is happening to America's birth rate. Not today, or last year, or any of the war years, for it flourished then until in 1943, the last year for which complete figures are available, more than 3 million babies were born, the peak year of American history. What caused it? More money, more jobs, the tensions of war, which holds adult life so cheap that newborn life is dear?

But prior to the war, in common with civilized countries all over the world, America's birth rate was dropping at a frightening rate. In the depths of the depression it was down to 2¼ million. The sociologists say that now the war is over, it will drop again. They say that is the natural tendency because America is "beginning to age." Yet when compared to European countries, the United States is new. The trend here thus is abnormal.

"We need at least 2.6 babies per family to maintain our population at a static level of 135 million," a famous obstetrician was telling us the other day. "Yet will we?' Only soviet Russia has increased her birth rate, peace or war. She started with 190 million, and a generation from now will be half as large again. . . . We used to see mothers coming into our hospital here to have their 10th or 12th child. Not now. A mother who comes in to have her fifth or sixth is considered amazing. A mother coming in to have her seventh or eighth is considered balmy. Yet unless we maintain our birth rate, some day not too far off we will be in the state of France, whose birth rate is so low that she is lost as a power unless the Frenchmen produce. . . . Every time we lose a baby it is significant. Every baby is a loss. We should see that mothers have more; we should salvage more. We must play down the idea that every newborn baby is to be President of the United States. It is much more important that all turn out to be good citizens. . . ."

CONSPIRATORS OF SILENCE

Chicago, Nov. 3—The strenuous efforts of Democratic Senators Barkley and George to hamper and smother the Pearl Harbor investigation, and their objection to the examination by members of their own committee of government records, called the "private and confidential files of the man who was President at the time of Pearl Harbor," will not be tolerated by the American people.

The Roosevelt gang's attitude that government property, government affairs, and government records were and still are the private, personal chattels of F. D. R. and his estate and that the American people were the slaves of his Royal Highness Franklin, the indispensable, is outdated and repugnant to every self-respecting American citizen.

If the records show that Franklin D. Roosevelt committed treason and betrayed the interests and welfare of the American people, then the American people are entitled to know it and to have every bit of evidence of their betrayal exposed to the light of day, so that no future President or high government official will ever feel inclined or tempted to follow the Roosevelt example.

In addition to the Pearl Harbor infamy there is the infamous betrayal of the American soldiers on Bataan and Corregidor, when because of the deliberate neglect of Roosevelt and his preferment of Russian demands over the piteous requests and dire need of our heroes on Bataan, he refused to send or even try to send them one ship or even one plane for their relief. [Remember the fund the Bataan boys raised by subscription to "buy one bomber for Bataan"!] F. D. R.'s excuse was that the Japs would sink our ships and that planes could not land. While our boys were starving and dying for want of medical supplies on Bataan, Roosevelt was sending hundreds of ships and thousands of planes to Russia by the Murmansk route. At this time, the records show, 80 per cent of our ships to Russia were being sunk.

They fought this war to make this country safe for 7 million foreigners who live at the mouth of the Hudson river. THEY'LL BE SEEING YOU, CONGRESSMAN

MANILA, Oct. 25—We, the undersigned, have been in the army for periods varying from two to more than five years, with many having long combat service. We feel that our congressmen are giving us a run-around by not demanding a clear cut discharge policy from the war department.

The congressmen have not insisted that the more than 1,500 Liberty ships be converted to troop transports which, the port commander of Manila says, can be easily done in 48 hours if 50 construction men be assigned to each vessel. Each vessel would then be capable of transporting 750 men home.

The congressmen have not demanded that more than 1,000 B-29s now in existence be used to ferry troops home. Each B-29 requires 20 man hours of labor to enable it to carry more than 80 troops with all baggage. This amounts to more than 80,000 troops each week, even with the exclusion of the thousands of available C-46s, C-47s, C-54s, B-17s, and B-24s capable of transporting thousands weekly.

Records of all congressmen will be scrutinized very carefully upon our return to civilian status to see what the record of actual legislation accomplished has been in each individual case. You may rest assured that those who have been resigned to no progressive action, when opportunities were at hand to benefit the overseas veteran, will be voted out.

TELEPHONE SERVICE CUT OFF

Chicago, Nov. 5—For the past six years my daughter has occupied the same apartment in a Chicago hotel where 24 hour switchboard service was included in the rent. The building was sold 10 months ago and the new owner demands a 75 cent extra monthly service charge which my daughter refuses to pay. Recently it was important that I get her on the telephone and I was refused the privilege. Is she not entitled to the service without paying this extra charge? I might add that she rarely used the telephone as often as once a month, nor did she get incoming calls.

B. E.

We would regard the additional charge as equivalent to a rent increase. Under the OPA rent ceiling regulations, residential rents in the Chicago defense area may not exceed the March 1, 1942, figure. The regulations [Sec. 3] treat a reduction of service as equivalent to an increase of rent.

CARLSON BARES WORK AS SPY IN ROBNETT TRIAL

Even Edited Magazine Approved by Bund

John Roy Carlson, author of the book, "Under Cover," which is the basis for a $100,000 libel suit brought by George Washington Bobnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, yesterday testified in Judge Walter J. La Buy's federal District court that while employed by the Anti-Defamation league in New York he was publishing a magazine appealing to German-American bundists and used by him as a "passport" to bundist meetings.

Carlson, first witness of the trial, said his real name is Avedis Arthur Derounian; that Carlson and half a dozen other aliases were used to hide his identity in his investigations of bundists and other groups and in writing magazine articles.

Publisher of Christian Defender

He testified that while employed by a publishing company by day he spent his evenings attending meetings of various organizations and sending reports and the printed matter he collected to a magazine. Later, while working for the Anti-Defamation league, Carlson said, he published the Christian Defender, contents of which were designed to appeal to bundists and "fascists." He said 100 copies of about 10 issues were published, half of them being sold at bund meetings for 2 cents each, others at a Nazi book store.

Carlson was called to the witness stand after Harry S. Ditchburne, attorney for Robnett, rested his case without calling a witness. Previously, he submitted depositions giving in detail the contractual relations between Carlson and S. P. Dutton, Inc., publishers of "Under Cover," and the author's employment by the Rev. L. M. Birkhead, national director of Friends of Democracy, as an investigator at $40 a week and expenses. Carlson testified his salary later was raised to $50 and that he is still employed by the organization. Carlson and the Dutton firm are defendants in the suit.

Defendant Traces Life History

Thru questioning by Lloyd D. Heth, attorney for Carlson and the publishing company, Carlson traced his life history: His birth in Greece, his arrival in America at the age of 12, progress from third grade in grammar school to high school in three years; graduation from New York university in 1932 and his activities as an investigator of "subversive" groups.

Carlson told of a visit to Robnett's office in July, 1942, and asserted Robnett voiced anti-semitic views then. Carlson's report of this interview and subsequent correspondence with Robnett, forming part of "Under Cover" are the basis of Robnett's suit.

Dr. Karl A. Beuerlein, 39, of 1816 N. Clark st., a chiropractor, yesterday was enjoined by Judge Frank M. Padden in Superior court from molesting his wife, Eugenie, 28, of 444 Roslyn pl., who has a divorce bill pending.

Mrs. Eugenia Beuerlein

Mrs. Beuerlein appeared in court with Joseph H. and Norman Becker, her attorneys, and told of being frightened by ghostly footsteps outside her apartment door, and by mysterious telephone calls in the dead of night.

Dr. Beuerlein, who at an earlier hearing was ordered to pay his wife $225 a month temporary support for her and their son, Karl Jr., 2, denied his wife's accusations, but admitted he was still in love and had repeatedly sought a reconciliation.

THE QUESTION

Do you think voting should be made compulsory?

WHERE ASKED

Evanston city hall.

THE ANSWERS

S. G. Ingraham, mayor, 1015 Noyes st., Evanston—I don't like to see anything compulsory, but it would seem that voting should be compulsory in every voter's mind. After a man is elected to public office, people who didn't take the time to vote often find plenty of time to criticize. Every one should vote at all elections.

H. D. Bent, city collector, 2668 Prairie av., Evanston—A lot of people will never vote unless it is a law that they must vote. It's a strange thing that people won't vote. Compulsory voting would probably be the only way we could get a real expression of opinion from all the legal voters. It would be interesting.

Corp. Clarence Anderson, 914 Sherman av., Evanston—Many times there are candidates up for office that some people don't even feel like casting a vote for. If these people were forced to vote it wouldn't accomplish their aim. People shouldn't vote unless they're voting with enthusiasm. Forced voting would be bad. All should vote.

Charles M. Rohrer, assessor, 745 Brummel st., Evanston—It's a civic duty for every one of legal age to vote. If it were made compulsory I think we would have better government. We'd have better men elected to public office. If every one voted in primary elections there would be more interest in the final outcome.

Jean Brand Jr., clerk, 1523 Crain st., Evanston—If it's a duty to vote, then it should be compulsory. So many people don't realize that tho it is a privilege to vote, it is important that each person vote so that a fair result will be forthcoming. I really think it would be a good idea if it were made law.

Grace Smurr, bookkeeper, 634 Sherman av., Evanston—It's a privilege for every one. If they don't take advantage of that privilege they are taking advantage of the other people who are doing their duty and voting. They are enjoying the freedom of our democracy and they also should fulfil their duties to maintain it.

DEVELOP RADAR DEVICE TO SAVE LIVES IN PEACE

Instrument Designed to Prevent Collisions

BY LARRY WOLTERS

A device combining the powers of radar and the radio proximity fuse, the war time invention which set off shells as they neared their targets, is being developed to prevent collisions at sea, on the ground, and in the air. William J. Halligan, president of the Hallicrafters company, yesterday described such an instrument, which that company is working out.

The instrument, which would be applicable to ships, trains, and private planes, would shoot radio pulses into the darkness ahead and give an alarm when the vehicle gets near a hazard. If, for example, a planes flies too close to a mountain the proximity fuse would cause a light to flash or a bell to ring.

As conceived, the device would be neither as elaborate nor as expensive as war time radar. It might cost several hundred rather than many thousands of dollars, as did military radar. The company also will manufacture a radio receiver and transmitter with a total weight of about 11 pounds, to be used in small planes and boats where weight is an important factor.

The firm also has an experimental model of a portable radio-telephone somewhat like the military handie-talkie which can be carried in a bag swung from a shoulder strap. Such portable radiophones may, in time, be used by ushers at ball parks, to convey messages to workers on farms and to report golf tournaments and track meets.

MILLION ASKED TO SPEED CITY LIGHTING PLAN

The city council finance committee, headed by Ald. Bowler [25th], voted yesterday to ask the council to authorize the release of a million dollars from the 3 million dollar bond issue voted a year ago for new street lights.

A request for the release of the money was made by Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, who explained that the sum is needed so he may prepare specifications and ask for bids on materials and equipment to be available in the spring, when release of the remainder of the money will be asked.

Johnson estimated that the bond issue will enable the city to erect 8,000 new street lights and repair some of the present lights.

RADIO FIGURE'S WIFE AND SON, 8, DIE IN PLUNGE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Donley, wife of Robert Donley, an announcer at radio station WINS in New York, and her son, James Patrick Donley, 8, were killed today in a plunge from the 12th floor of the William Penn hotel.

Deputy Coroner James Hart said he believed Mrs. Donley threw the boy out a window, then jumped herself. He said Mrs. Donley wrote that she grieved over a divorce suit.

The deputy quoted Mrs. Donley as writing that her husband told her he "wanted to go on with his career and that Pat and I were obstacles in his way." "Pat" was the son's nickname.

AUTOPSY MAY UPSET ALIBIS IN PONTIAC KILLING

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 7 [Special]—Developments today in Oakland county's two murder cases included the waiving of extradition in New York by a witness wanted in one of the investigations and the possible upsetting of numerous alibis in the other thru medical evidence that a 24 hour mistake may have been made in fixing the time of death.

The witness who waived extradition is Larry J. Theis, 29, a former co-worker of Mrs. Alberta Rose Young, 34, whose body was found with a bullet hole in the head in the Clinton river near here a week ago. Theis, who has been in custody in New York since Sunday signed papers agreeing to return to Michigan. He will be brought here tomorrow, Sheriff K. Thomas said.

The new medical evidence was furnished in regard to the slaying of Mrs. Lydia Thompson, 47, Russian born wife of a wealthy Highland Park, Mich., automobile dealer, whose body was found Oct. 13 in a clump of weeds near the Pontiac city limits.

Dr. Clarence W. Muehlberger, state police pathologist, informed authorities a study of the autopsy report has convinced him Mrs. Thompson may have been killed Oct. 12, instead of Oct. 11 as original reports indicated.

DR. LYONS SEEKS RETRIAL, ASSERTS JURORS COERCED

A verdict returned by a Superior court jury Oct. 25 which upheld Mrs. Alice Lyons, 45, of the Stevens hotel, heiress to an Indianapolis traction fortune, in her suit for separate maintenance against Dr. Horace R. Lyons, ear, nose and throat specialist, was attacked yesterday in a motion for a new trial filed by Dr. Lyons' attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

Cantwell's motion contended the court had erred in numerous instances, that Mrs. Lyons' attorney, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, had sought unduly to inflame and prejudice members of the jury in his closing arguments.

It also charged coercion was used to cause some of the jurors to agree to the verdict.

Mrs. Lyons had charged that she turned over more than $400,000 to her husband during their 23 years of marriage, and a separate action for an accounting is now pending.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro, presiding at the nine day hearing, said he will hear arguments on Cantwell's motion this morning.

Wolverine and Sable Decommissioned

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Flags of the noncombatant aircraft carriers Wolverine and Sable came down for the last time yesterday in ceremonies on the broad decks where 17,820 navy pilots made 136,428 landings thru three years of training for conquest of the Germans and Japs.

The formalities of decommissioning the craft and turning them over to the 9th naval district's industrial management for return to civilian pursuits were short and devoid of pomp.

Ceremonies Quickly Over

A company of bluejackets and their officers stood at attention; a two minute talk to the crews was made by the skipper; official papers were handed to Capt. J. K. Esler, industrial manager of the 9th naval district; then trumpet music saluted the colors as the Stars and Stripes and the "Jack" were lowered.

Thus two ships which, altho never in battle formation, did one of the navy's big jobs in the war, figuratively doffed uniform and donned civies.

Ceremonies on the two ships, a half hour apart, were identical in form. Capt. M. P. Bagdanovich was in command on the Wolverine; Capt. W. A. Schoech on the Sable.

"I find it hard to decommission this ship," Capt. Bagdanovich told his officers and crew. "Many of you have been with her a long time and I know this must hit you as hard as it does me. She's been a good ship."

Thanks from Navy Boss.

He read a letter from Rear Adm. Davison, chief of the naval air operational training command. This set forth that the Wolverine was commissioned Aug. 12, 1942, and the Sable May 8, 1943; Capt. Bagdanovich added:

"For their vital role . . . the chief desires to extend to all officers and men of the U. S. S. Wolverine and U. S. S. Sable his appreciation for a job well done and a heartfelt and warm farewell to our Great Lakes carriers."

The Wolverine formerly was the Seeandbee, pleasure cruise ship of the Cleveland and Buffalo Steamship company; the Sable was the Greater Buffalo of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company.

Vote to Indict Intruder in Grocery After Threat

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted a true bill against Michael Jusko, 39, of 902 N. Francisco av., charging him with malicious mischief and assault with intent to kill. Mrs. Sarah Taff, owner of a grocery at 901 N. Richmond st., was reported to have told the grand jury that Jusko came into her store on Tuesday night and demanded $100 on threat to kill her husband, Charles.

Good News from General Electric

DESPITE the sudden stopping of war work, employment at General Electric has declined less than 10 per cent overall. Rehiring is already under way, and it is expected that more people will be employed within six to eight months than were employed during the biggest prewar years.

What G-E people are making is shown, in part, by the list below. This list of things you and your family have wanted for many months shows the progress General Electric has made in swinging back to its regular job of making "More Goods for More People at Less Cost." General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

Alarm Clocks. In January, 1944, WPB okayed making some electric alarm clocks. Within seven weeks, G. E. was in production.

Turbines. Full schedule peacetime production of steam turbines, source of two-thirds of the nation's electric power and the driving power for most of our fighting and merchant fleets, is expected to be reached by December.

Irons. In June, 1944, came authorization to make electric irons. In three months, G.E. was shipping irons. Today's rate is higher than 1941.

Motors. Ten million were built for war—many of special types and sizes. Now G-E lines are being quickly converted to production of standard types for washing machines, refrigerators, etc.

Refrigerators. After getting green light from WPB in June, 1945, G.E. was in production in eight weeks.

Transformers. Upwards of 70 small transformers were required for a single B-29 Superfortress. Now G-E facilities are turning them out again to help make electricity more useful to you.

Washers. Ten weeks from WPB go-ahead, G-E washer line started rolling in Bridgeport on August 24, 1945. Already they're being turned out at 47 per cent of G.E.'s prewar rate.

Street Lights and Flood Lights. Facilities that turned out mobile anti-aircraft searchlights for the Army, and thousands of signaling searchlights for the Navy, are now producing flood lights for sports and industry, and street lights to reduce the nation's night traffic toll.

Radios. G-E radios will be back on the market for Christmas. Table models will be in dealers' stores in November. By Christmas, 12 models should be in stores; including AC-DC battery portables, radio phonograph consoles. Television and FM will go into production after the first of the year.

Home Construction Materials. Wire, cable, fluorescent lampholders, etc., formerly for Army and Navy use, are now in production for your new home.

Ranges. Manufacture began on the first G-E electric ranges September 9, 1945. Three days later the first shipment was made.

Plastics Production. The plastics facilities of General Electric, largest manufacturer of finished plastic products in the country, have been turned to molding camera, clock and refrigerator parts, toaster and coffeemaker handles, caster wheels and wiring devices, radio cabinets, fluorescent bases, cosmetic jars and covers, industrial and decorative laminated materials, lighting reflectors and shades.

Water Coolers. Production at G.E. will equal prewar rate in November.

Automatic Heating. G.E. in January will have oil-fired boilers, conversion oil burners, gas-fired boilers, gas-fired warm air conditioners, all coming off the lines where radar, gunfire and aviation equipment was produced.

Farm Freezers. Will be ready in 1947.

Air Conditioners. One model of room air conditioner will be ready in limited numbers for your next summer's needs. First "store cooler" was shipped the day after V-J Day. More daily.

Radar. The G-E Electronic Navigator, to make ship navigation safer in fog and dark, and to speed shipping schedules, has been tested by many months of actual operation and will soon be available.

Exposure Meters. The new G-E exposure meter for amateur and professional photographers is in production. Present rate is several thousand a week.

Lamps. During the war, the Lamp Department did the double task of supplying both military and civilian needs. Now available once more, but in limited quantities, are such war-discontinued types as: 50- and 75-watt inside frost lamps, 50-100-150-watt medium base lamps; flame-shaped lamps, round decorative lamps, fluorescent lamps, lumiline lamps. Christmas tree lights are in production but will be quite limited this holiday season.

COUNCIL READY TO AWARD CHA SLUM MILLIONS

Veterans Press Campaign for New Homes

Plans to get emergency shelter for returning veterans went forward yesterday while a council majority lined up to vote control of the city's 5 million dollar slum clearance bond issue to the Chicago housing authority today. This fund will thus be used for more tax exempt public housing, shifting the tax burden to home owners.

Lt. E. W. Eng

Most of the 13 aldermen who last week voted against the CHA proposal are standing firm. However, Jerome Huppert, new alderman of the 50th ward, indicated he would switch over to the majority.

Mayor Hopes for More Shelters

Mayor Kelly will go to Washington tomorrow for a dinner honoring the Democratic national chairman, Robert E. Hannegan. While there he expects to make a plea for a large number of pre-fabricated houses now at idle war plants. He is optimistic that Patrick F. Sullivan, Chicago Building Trades council leader, will extend his permission for 200 of the shelters for veteran-students at the University of Chicago.

The mayor heard many speakers demand emergency shelter for veterans, and permanent housing later on, at a meeting sponsored by the Public Housing conference of Chicago at 38 S. Dearborn st.

Henry L. Reynolds, speaking for American Veterans of World War II. [AMVETS], said that federal lands acquired during the war should be retained for pre-fabricated housing and trailers.

Among the veterans describing "impossible" housing conditions was Lt. Earle W. Eng, 3739 Kenmore av., of the 20th air force.

Mayor Kelly said that the problem is difficult but is being tackled with every available weapon. Other cities are in the same predicament, he said.

Private Enterprise Advocated

Meanwhile, Eugene Greenhut, housing consultant for the Communities Redevelopment corporation of New York, told members of the council finance committee that private capital can provide subsidized housing better, cheaper, and faster than the Chicago housing authority, if it is given the same privileges.

If his corporation is provided with land condemned by the CHA, and taxes are frozen for 30 years at their present levels, slums can be redeveloped with housing to rent for $11.50 a month a room, he said. Private securities on such enterprises should be tax exempt, he said.

"If you want us to race with the CHA, we'll be glad to do it," Greenhut said. "We'll have buildings ready for occupancy next fall. I challenge the CHA to do that."

VOTE TO SPEND MILLION FOR 150 GARBAGE TRUCKS

The city council finance committee, headed by Ald. Bowler (25th), yesterday acted favorably on the major part of a $1,659,000 program for improving garbage collections by purchasing 150 modern, conveyor type garbage trucks and building a new garage to repair garbage trucks and other city equipment.

The council was asked by the committee to authorize Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, to purchase the trucks from the General Motors corporation for $1,059,000 with money from the 2 million dollar bond issue for new equipment approved in last June's referendum.

The committee referred to a subcommitte Johnson's request for another $500,000 from the bond issue, and an additional $100,000 in the 1946 city budget, to build a new garage and repair shop on seven acres of city owned land at Pershing rd. and Iron st.

NATIONAL STUDY I'S STARTED ON HOSPITAL CARE

The existence of a large scale program of hospital study, planned and undertaken by private enterprise, was revealed yesterday by the American Hospital association at the closing session of the three day meeting of the organization's house of delegates in the Drake hotel.

It was explained that the association, thru its committee on post-war planning, has appointed a commission on hospital care whose duties are to take a census of present hospital and public health center facilities, appraise their service capacities, and determine the need for additional facilities, and to formulate and assist in the realization of a coördinated national hospital plan.

"Hospitals find themselves on the threshold of a great expansion program," Dr. Arthur C. Bachmeyer, director of the commission's study group and director of the University of Chicago clinics, said. "An integration of service will lead to a strong hospital system and benefit individual institutions and public alike."

DEATH NOTICES

— In Memoriam —

MONKUS—George P. Monkus. In loving memory of our wonderful husband and daddy, who left us suddenly, Nov. 8, 1943.
O, my darling, how we have missed you
Since you went so far away.
But within our hearts you are with us
Every minute of each passing day.
It is hard to understand these things,
Why a loved one must part
Just when life was brightest
And you could have lived your best.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many tears.
Your son still wants his Daddy
And only God knows how I miss you,
So please God take care of him,
And when our life is through
We shall all be together again
Up in heaven with you.
GRACE AND TOMMY.

Annual Travel to Palm Beach Is Under Way

BY JUDITH CASS

NEWS from Palm Beach indicates a severe shortage of accommodations in that southern resort. "With the coming of November, the hunting season is in full cry—hunting for apartments and houses," writes our correspondent. "Those who came down without reservations are really borderline cases, and if they have children . . .!"

The housing shortage has no terrors for the many Chicagoans who have homes of their own in that tourists' paradise. Leaving today for their Palm Beach residence to stay until the middle of May are the James E. Baums, whose Lake Forest home will be occupied during their absence by their son-in-law and daughter, the Alfred Gawthrops. The Gawthrops moved back here in September from Richland, Wash., where Mr. Gawthrop had been working on the development of the atomic bomb. When the Baums' son, Lt. Richard F. Baum, returns from army service in Germany, he and his wife, who has been awaiting his homecoming in their home in Waterbury, Conn., probably will join his parents in Palm Beach.

The Frank Hibbards already are occupying the Palm Beach home which they have leased for the season. They will be away until April. The Joseph M. Cudahys will go to their Palm Beach home about Dec. 1 to be away until mid-April.

The R. Neil Cowhams, who will depart this week-end for their new home in Hobe Sound, Fla., actually would like to stay on for another week or two of Chicago's Indian summer weather. However, they are victims of Adm. Halsey's impending visit to Chicago Sunday and Monday, as their temporary accommodations in the Ambassador East hotel are needed for the admiral's entourage.

Adm. Halsey's legion of admirers here will have an ample opportunity to cheer him when he appears on the reviewing stand at State and Madison sts. Monday during the Armistice day observance. That night in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House a capacity crowd of 1,000 will both see and hear him at a dinner being arranged by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

On the Calendar

The White Elephant Rummage Shop committee of Children's Memorial hospital has issued invitations to a tea and games party, its annual fall benefit, at 2:30 p.m. Nov. 20 in the Casino club. Admission to the party, as usual, will be by a gift of some article which may be re-sold at the shop. Packages may be left at the Casino any time after 11 a.m. that day.

Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. Bruce Borland, and Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers will be in charge of the benefit. They will feature glass and china this year, but a number of pieces of silver as well as antique and costume jewelry already have been donated by friends of the hospital. A tea table set entirely with gifts of china and glass will be on exhibit.

Two Vassar college graduates, Mrs. Peter Brandsness and Miss Jean Faricy, and a former Vassar instructor, Miss Elizabeth Wood, will speak at the first large gathering since the end of the war of the Chicago Vassar club, a 12:30 p.m. luncheon Nov. 19 in the Arts club.

Mrs. Brandsness will tell of some of her experiences in the advertising world in a talk entitled "Behind the Ads." Miss Faricy, a young Evanstonian who traveled for several months following her graduation last December as liaison officer between the college and alumnae schools thruout the country, will speak on "Vassar Comes to You." Miss Wood's topic will be "Plans for Rebuilding the City of Chicago," a subject in which she became interested while studying for her doctor's degree at the University of Chicago.

Today's Events

Suburbanites who have heeded the Geneva Community hospital's plea to "be sure to remember the 8th of November" will turn out for a pleasant day of pre-holiday shop-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Early Morning Courtesy

A few days ago a customer in the savings department of a loop bank was overheard to remark to a bright-eyed white collar girl, "This is the only place in town where a person can come in and be greeted cheerfully so early in the morning."

In stores and shops, early morning customers often notice the fact that politeness is not roused by the alarm clock and the first morning yawn. Isn't one reason the poor habit of going without breakfast? The clock-watching white collar girl, waiting for 10:30 to come so she can dash out for a snack [to take the place of the breakfast she should have eaten], isn't likely to supply the cheerful greeting that impressed the bank's customer and sent her on the day's errands saying, "Nicest place in town."

Reunion

I'd be independent
And go on my own way.
I'd hide that old heartache
With smiles bright and gay.

I'd burn all your letters,

I bragged of succeeding
For lo, many moons.

I said if I'd see you
Today I'd be free.
I guess I fooled no one—
And least of all, me. CULLIE

Old Elegance Found in New Dinner Gowns

BY REA SEEGER

New and exciting collections of suave, form-fitting dinner dresses reflect this season's emphasis of fine decorative detail, flawless workmanship, and a definite return of pre-war dress parade elegance. In the current showings will be found beautiful creations by Adrian, Carnegie, Rosenstein, and others of the famous American designers' group. Adrian unquestionably presents the most dramatic dresses, in black, white, and colors. His column-slim models sway with fringe, shimmer with jet bead embroidery, or blink with glittering sequins, as do his by-now famous flying bands.

Other designers use the provocative swish of taffeta and surah in statuesque gowns that require little if any contrast, since the patterned taffetas and surahs have a distinctive elegance. This is particularly true when the patterns are of the beautiful brocade all-over designs of the more eye catching stripes. Most of the newest dinner dresses have long, fitted sleeves, altho plenty are sleeveless except for exaggerated bands at the shoulder seams which are widened to pass as brief sleeves. Tunics and tunic effects and short or deep peplums are used to make them look different from any former season's showings.

Fringe again swings into action in these current collections. But it is applied with imagination and skill. Graceful bands across the bodice, swag drapery effects on the straight skirts, and some all-over fringed creations are still incomparably flattering—not only in jewel tone colors, but also in classic all blacks, subtle shades of brown, and in beautiful all whites. Both short fringe and the fringe tassels or fringe sewed in tiny clusters in an all-over design make these dresses perfect foils for short evening jackets or bright colored wool or handsome fur stoles, capes, and short jackets.

Christian Idealism Needed in World, Says Club Leader

Chicago area members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs were urged yesterday by their new president, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, to "unlearn" prejudices, to study other nations in the spirit of Christian fellowship, and to work for the fulfillment of the allied nations' charter.

Mrs. Chapman addressed some 800 clubwomen in the Hotel Sherman at the fifth and final institute of a series of regional meetings which this year replaced the annual spring convention. Mrs. E. E. Byerrum, northern region vice president, presided. A special institute for junior clubwomen will be held tonight in federation headquarters, 30 W. Washington st., with Mrs. Robert Cavitt of Watseka, state chairman of juniors, presiding.

The allied nations' organization will succeed, Mrs. Chapman told the women, in the measure that the people of the various countries can achieve coöperation. Only the religious ideal of brotherhood, she asserted, could give a solid basis for world peace. She called for insistence by citizens that only fully qualified persons be chosen to represent America in the allied nations' organization.

One of the guest speakers at the meeting was the Rev. George Link, founder of the Trail Rangers of America and director of the Rangers' camp at Michael, Ill., similar on a small scale to Father Flanagan's Boys' Town. The federation this year voted an appropriation of $15,000 to build a home at the camp to house 12 of Father Link's pre-delinquent boys.

Mrs. Walter H. Hermsdorf's rehabilitation committee announced that dedication ceremonies will be held in December at the $35,000 greenhouse given by the clubwomen to Vaughan General hospital.

Take a Cue from Sailor, Girl Is Told

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

"My particular hunk of heartbreak is wearing bell bottom trousers now, and it looks as if he'll be a little boy blue indefinitely. I have not seen him, since two years ago, when he was 17 and I was 15, and I'm beginning to wonder if that old saying about sailors having a girl in every port isn't true after all. When he left we were just good friends, but I'd like to make this a more permanent deal. He's expected home soon, so how can I make this port the only one he's interested in?"

on the SOLID side

A fellow joins the navy to see the world, and often the more he sees of it, the less he wants to tie himself down to dating just one girl while still in his teens. By getting around himself he's finding out what makes the world go round, and he'd probably rather free lance in the dating field for a while longer. So why don't you take a cue from him and date a few other fellows? There's no law against a gal having a sailor on every ship.

"Why doesn't he ask me for a date? I have known the fellow for over a year and, while we go to different schools, we're on very friendly terms. We've only gone out together once and, tho we had a simply wonderful time, he hasn't asked me out again. He isn't a wolf, but instead is rather shy. He doesn't date other girls either, and some of his friends tell me I'm his one and only interest. But what good does that do me?"

Sometimes the shyest of boys are the most interesting when they finally come out of their shell. So date other fellows while you're waiting, but keep up your friendship with this shy guy. He's bound to come thru eventually if his friends know anything about it [and they undoubtedly do]. Probably at first even Robert Walker was a little slow on the pickup when asking a girl out.

Stage Note

"Anna Lucasta" will play a special matinee at the Civic theater Sunday, Dec. 2, to benefit the bond drive. The entire sale of tickets, each to be allotted by the purchase of bonds, will be supervised by officials of the treasury department and business men of the south side. Meanwhile, John Wildberg, producer of the play, denies reports printed elsewhere that Hilda Simms is leaving the cast. He says there will be no change in leading roles.

ON THE RECORD

By Claudia Cassidy

New Albums Hold Rubinstein "Appassionata," Arrau's Schumann, Thomson Portraits

Records are beginning to pour in with almost pre-war prodigality, and among them are two piano albums of music right in the repertory of favorites, Beethoven's Sonata in F minor, Opus 37, played by Artur Rubinstein [Victor M-1018; three 12 inch records] and Schumann's Concerto in A minor, played by Claudio Arrau with the Detroit Symphony orchestra under the direction of Karl Krueger [Victor M-1009; four 12 inch records]. Mr. Rubinstein's way with the "Appassionata" is just what you would expect if you agree with me about Mr. Rubinstein. It is authoritative, decisive Beethoven on a big, bold, and brilliant scale, with the Rubinstein flair for rising to the crest of a phrase. The last side holds the minuet from the Sonata in E-flat, Opus 31, No. 3, possibly as bait for the Rubinstein recital that features it a week from Sunday.

Mr. Arrau's Schumann is typical, too. It has great fluency and beguiling lyricism, and it can run off a ribbony phrase from a bolt of pianistic satin. But there is more sweep, depth, and breadth to the concerto than his playing admits, and the orchestra seems content to be subordinate.

Line Drawings with Color

More in the connoisseur's corner is the new album of Virgil Thomson portraits, played by the Philadelphia orchestra, the composer conducting [Columbia X-255; two 12 inch records]. This is a fresh and piquant collection of musical portraits of some of Mr. Thomson's friends, sketched over the last five years. I had a pleasant time guessing what those friends were like. "Bugles and Birds," for instance, is Pablo Picasso, the man, not his work, and I make him out to be lively, stimulating, unexpected, and pungent. "Percussion Piece," dedicated to a Mrs. Lasell, sounds like a crisp and fragile person who likes chinoiserie. "Cantabile for Strings" makes its Russian painter homesick for the old regime. "Tango Lullaby" is a drowsy invocation to sleep, with a hint of languor in its note of royal processional. Quite a baby, that one. And "Fugue" makes Alexander Smallens clear-cut tho complicated, with a romantic streak out of "Coq d'Or."

Mitropoulos and Pons

Speaking of "Coq d'Or" invokes a brand new album of the shining suite from Rimsky-Korsakoff's enchanting fairy tale opera, brilliantly played by the Minneapolis Symphony under Dimitri Mitropoulos [Columbia X-254; two 12 inch records]. It holds the introduction, King Dodon's adventures on the battlefield and with the exotic queen, the bridal procession, and Dodon's death. Another Columbia set [M-582; three 10 inch records] features Lily Pons with an orchestra conducted by Pietro Cimara and Maurice Abravanal. She sings Verdi's "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto," Proch's Theme and Variations, and David's "Charmant Oiseau" from "La Perle du Brésil." They aren't the best of Pons, and it's disconcerting to have an aria split on two small records that easily could fit on one large one.

Russian Trio's Music Retains Quality Mark

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The Russian trio celebrated its 15th anniversary, and incidentally the birthday of its popular cellist, Ennio Bolognini, by giving the first of its series of monthly concerts in the Arts club yesterday morning. The personnel of the trio remains unchanged from last season, with Nina Mesirow-Minchin's piano and Fritz Siegal's violin completing the musical triangle.

Also unchanged, apparently, is the quality of the Russian trio's music making. They play vigorously [now and then roughly would be an apter adverb], joyously, intelligently, and musically. They are all musicians well equipped to give distinction to the solo bits that fall their way, and they have fused, thru practice or natural inclination, their separate and notably distinct individualities into an ensemble that is both supple and solid.

They did music a service yesterday by playing a Beethoven trio—in D major, Opus 70, No. 1—a department of the great master's work almost totally withheld from the public save for a popular recording of the "Archduke." The delightful work was beautifully played, with due recognition of the more academic features of Beethoven's style, plus the enthusiasm the performers themselves obviously felt for the piece.

No less enthusiastic was the breezy reading accorded Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor, a work which needs no missionary, since it is known and loved wherever music is heard. It had more than the customary vernal surge in the Russian trio's performance, and an audience which jammed the little concert hall almost split its morning gloves signifying approval.

"With Bated Breath" . . . . By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

SYNOPSIS: Avis Marriott accepts a job as a companion-housekeeper to Maud and Erica Bolles, wealthy spinsters, until she can return to her Red Cross work. Maud, a local autocrat, known for her charities, has grown strangely penurious in her home. Erica, childish, a semi-invalid, is dominated by Maud. A couple of guests and an evacuee family live with them at Turrets. Dr. Bruce advises Avis against accepting the position, but drives her over. Turrets is an isolated English manor with an abandoned underground passage. Avis' predecessor, Agatha Trimble, left under a cloud, suspected of theft. Robin Grier, Maud's godson, has been invalided out of the army. Mrs. Marks, a widow and family connection, seems too sophisticated for her surroundings. Avis arrives during a violent domestic scene with the departing cook calling Maud a cheeseparing sinner. Avis' room is in the turret, where Erica insists upon living.

INSTALMENT IV.

UNEXPECTED GUEST

Miss Bolles laid down her soup spoon and glared. "Erica!" she mumbled. "Is that wise?" "O, my head's much better," Erica beamed. "Ever so." "My sister, Miss Marriott," Maud said acidly. Erica patted Avis' arm. "O, but we have met," she triumphed. "That's why I'm down."

Maud seemed tired out. She retained her angry flush, but made no reference whatsoever to the contretemps below stairs.

Toward the end of the meal a queer incident occurred. Erica suddenly wanted to know what day it was. With a cold stare Maud said: "October 24. And why should dates interest you?"

Erica laughed, and said naively: "The 24th! Then tomorrow Benjamin will be 6 months old."

At this precise instant Avis caught sight of Maud's eyes. They were fixed on Erica, and they were ugly, yes terrifying, in their distillment of pure, venomous hate.

In the dark basement passage Avis tripped over the crawling Albert, caught him up complete with filthy clutched sausage and bundled him back into his own abode. The former servants' hall it was; and as she closed the door Mrs. Bandy's gibe came filtering forth: "You and yer chawnces! It's like I keep tellin' yer, that old girl 'as got eyes four sides of 'er head." Well, Avis shrugged, if the basement was infested with gutter sweepings Maud did have some excuse for both super-vigilance and a frayed temper.

She had made the coffee, and Hilda was now bearing the silver tray into the drawing room.

"This is coffee," Robin approved. Maud sat knitting, while Erica was crouched on a slipper-chair, fiddling with a Pigs-in-Clover puzzle. Robin went off to feed his dog. There was little conversation. Twice the telephone rang, and on each occasion Olive half-started from her sofa; but both calls were for Miss Bolles, their nature no mystery, the instrument being in the lounge just outside. The vicar wanted her to take the chair at some meeting to be held in the vestry. Lady Emily Barkdale—that was Jill's fluffy minded friend—garrulously besought help over a sale of work. During this second excursion on Maud's part Olive turned on the radio. Maud, reëntering, ordered it switched off.

"One has no right," she pronounced, "to squander electric current on programs less vital than the news. Erica," she attacked, "why are you not in bed?"

"But Maudie, I'm not tired!"

Defiance in Erica's tone drew Maud's eyes back again with a baffled displeasure bordering on suspicion. Erica kept stealing glances at the fussy little Dresden clock. As tho she was expecting, half fearfully, some event to happen, Maud muttered that somehow she must fit in a visit to the Wyfforde domestic agency.

In the silence which followed the skies over Turrets let fall a crashing deluge of rain.

"Maud," Erica said pensively, "did I ask you about the little bell?"

"Bell?" Miss Bolles leveled a contemptuous glance.

"I'm only calling it a bell. It was really more of a low, buzzing noise; but the point is I've heard it for three mornings now, at exactly 6 o'clock. It's waked me up, in fact. Most odd, because you see I never heard it before—before Aggie left. What can it be?"

That was all. With a brief, scornful stare Maud resumed work on her hospital stock, only to jerk to attention as an equivocal jangling sounded in the basement.

"Impossible!" she exclaimed. "Is that the front door?"

Clearly it was—and Hilda was not answering the ring. Olive grew curiously alert, Erica hummed a tune as Avis sped out to the lobby and gripped the door hard against inlashing rain. Then she made out a small, rain-spouting form planted hesitantly between two sopping wet bags. A man's voice spoke, vaguely foreign-sounding in its precision.

"This is Turrets, I think. The home of Miss Erica Bolles?"

Miss Erica! "Do you want to see Miss Erica?" Avis dubiously asked. The visitor edged forward. "If you please," he murmured.

"My train was delayed. I could secure no manner of conveyance——"

"Yes, but who are you?" Avis blurted.

"Mr. Oscar Moravian," he enunciated distinctly.

At the drawing room entrance Avis repeated the odd sounding name.

"Who?" Olive Marks stabbed, galvanized. Maud snapped a knitting needle and started to her feet. But Miss Erica squealed with joy.

"Ossie!" she cried. "O, Maudie, it's dear old Ossie, come to stay!"

Miss Bolles pounced on her, livid with controled fury. "Erica! You mean to tell me you have actually invited this—this person to my house?"

"It's my house, too," Erica flared. "Certainly I asked him. Poor Ossie's been ill, he telephoned me from Bath, and—O, Ossie, do come in!"

Altho the visitor at Avis' heels must have heard every syllable, his smile did not falter as he squashed up the three shallow steps and stood for a moment and looked at the two sisters. When he bent low over the elder one's hand a crisis seemed imminent. Maud recoiled as from something reptilian.

"I had feared that after such a great passage of time—O, dear, I am dripping rain all over your fine carpet! Might I be permitted to divest——"

"Robin."

It was Maud who jerked the sharp command, and young Grier, that minute appearing in the doorway, sprang forward with instant comprehension. His face for a second had been a study in astounded disgust, but he spoke easily as he said: "What a night, sir! Shall we just peel off your top layer?"

"Ah, thank you, Mr. ——?"

"Grier. No relation, merely a waif and stray."

Mr. Moravian began violently to sneeze. "I know," Erica cried beatifically, "hot toddy! Do get it, Maudie, Ossie will catch cold." Whisky in war time, Oscar Moravian deprecated, O, that couldn't be dreamt of! Miss Bolles had stalked grimly from the room.

Olive, from her sofa, extended a casual hand. "Marks is my name," she informed him. "Yours is obviously familiar. Let's see—was it Egyptian Civil?"

"Upper Nile Trading company," Erica's guest replied gently and distantly. At once, eagerly, Erica plied him with questions. Had the bomb completely destroyed his flat in Bath? Was it a very big bomb?

"Quite so," he murmured.

Hilda was heard creeping stealthily aloft, but she was caught by Miss Bolles and in Avis' hearing given orders to get the mauve room ready at once.

This Film Gets All Tangled Up in Its Own Plot

"DANGEROUS PARTNERS"

By Mae Tinée

I didn't know what this film was all about as I watched it, partly because of a highly complicated plot and partly because I couldn't hear what James Craig and Signe Hasso were muttering at each other most of the time. After consulting the press sheet for the synopsis, it's still just as clear as mud.

I do know that Miss Hasso is attractive to look at, that she is married to a fellow crook, whom she slaps violently when necessary, and, after carefully removing the labels from his clothing, leaves without so much as a farewell look after some one bumps him off. She then joins forces with a lawyer who is only slightly crooked, and, after trying to cheat each other for what seems an interminable time, they fall in love and decide to go straight.

In addition to these interesting characters, there is one Kingby, who has all sorts of people leaving him money, an old lady with four sinister sons, a music teacher who has a million dollars' worth of bonds in his desk drawer, another man, a complete mystery to me, who also has a million dollars which he wants to leave to a night club singer, but who is conked with a statue before he gets around to it. By way of explanation the Nazis are blamed for everything at the finish, which was an easy way out for the author, who certainly has a cluttered mind.

"NOTHING BUT TROUBLE"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, directed by Sam Taylor, featuring Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Mary Boland, Philip Merivale, Henry O'Neill, David Leland, John Warburton, Matthew Boulton, and Connie Gilchrist. Also at the Grand.

Kitchens are perfect spots for slapstick, and several of them provide the background for the usual sorts of antics by Laurel and Hardy. They're a chef and a butler, as inexpert as you might expect, and get all mixed up with a society woman, a little boy king who wants to play football at Notre Dame, and his wicked uncle, who wants the throne for himself. The two comedians fix things in their handy way, and if you have a taste for such you may find it sporadically entertaining.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 7—Hank Potter, back from 3½ months in England where he did "A Bell for Adano" on the stage, has a director's deal at R. K. O. for Charlie Koerner. Hank thanks Arthur Rank for getting him out of England. Says he's the only one with influence enough to get transportation. Tells me Laurence Olivier's the hottest thing in London town—both as actor and director. Doesn't believe he'll ever return to America. . . . After watching Lucille Ball and John Hodiak lend their various talents to scenes for "Time for Two," I don't have to go to New Orleans to the Mardi Gras. I saw it at Metro. . . . Attention Frank Capra: How about teaming Dorothy McGuire with Jimmy Stewart in "It's a Wonderful Life"? . . . June Clyde's been desperately ill in New York, but is on the mend and will return here to divorce her English directing husband, T. Freeland. . . . Bob Livingston [Lone Ranger] who'll marry Norma Hall when her divorce is final, ended his Republic contract, but will make westerns elsewhere.

Maybe They Will Make It

Wonder if Warners will make a picture about the strike. I understand they photographed 35,000 feet of film featuring the strikebreakers outside their studio—complete with sound track. . . . Willis Hunt returned from the South Pacific Friday. His wife saw him for the first time at Mike Romanoff's party with his new sweetie pie, who supposedly came as an Indian [she's part Cherokee]. She wore snug white fringed panties with bra to match. If an Indian had seen those, he'd have gone on the warpath immediately. Elysee Hunt did. A divorce settlement is being made now. . . . Cleatus Caldwell was seen by Eddie Sutherland who said, "She's the perfect type for 'Abie's Irish Rose'," and I'll be darned if she isn't being tested. . . . You'd be amazed at the name of the well known radio star who's playing around with a married blonde bombshell. He's married, too. . . . Frank Sinatra's press clippings from Gary, Ind., aren't pretty reading. . . . Maxwell Anderson's play, "The Girl from Lorraine," is being held up because of "Notorious." Ingrid Bergman isn't free.

Too Good for Some People

Leopold Stokowski is being undermined by some jealous music lovers here. I knew he did too good a job at the Hollywood bowl last summer to please some of his alleged friends. . . . Margaret Lindsay is in New York to do half a dozen radio guest shots. . . . Edith Head is en route to the big town for some radio guesting, too. . . . Clark Gable and Pat Smart are having laughs at Mocambo; ditto Sylvia Sidney and Ben Bogeaus. Pat's off to New York where she may marry a Greek millionaire. She sold her Bel Air house for a fabulous price, and will return here in a month to test for one of the biggest roles of the year at Metro. . . . Ed Wynn is in town with son, Keenan. Keenan requested his father's brand of cigars to smoke in "No Leave, No Love." They looked more like torches to me when I visited the set, and props whispered, "I'll never again ask an actor what kind he likes—they're costing us a fortune."

But Maybe You Knew It

Seems our lady writers are screwy, too. Craig Rice, the gal who wrote "Home Sweet Homicide," is furnishing a home. Her bedroom tables sport legs from old department store dummies with red toenails and all. She wanted an eight by eight bed, couldn't find one, so her carpenter nailed three beds together. Did she say bed? . . . Bill Edwards and Hazel Allan spend their evenings together taking cooking lessons. The boy sure has an appetite. . . . Roy Randolph is driving from Palm Springs to take Rochelle Hudson to dinner. Could be a coming date with the preacher.

ping today in the Little Traveler and Robin's Bookshop, across the street from the hospital. Engagement News

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Griffis of Lake Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois Marilyn, to Lt. Orville F. Kahler of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Amanda Kahler of La Porte City, Ia. Miss Griffis attended MacMurray college and was graduated from the Career Institute. Her fiance, a graduate of Iowa State Teachers' college, is stationed at Great Lakes, following duty aboard the U. S. S. Samuel Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Pool of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Anne, to Howard Vincent Demorest of New Haven, Conn. Her fiance has been discharged from the army air forces following 39 months of duty in Europe and the Mediterranean.

SKIRTS ARE!

It's high fashion they are—morning, noon and night

Who thought the skirt was a sometime affair—a daytime Cinderella that beat hasty retreat at the stroke of five? No more. This season's skirt is a round-the-clock favorite. Mornings, it's tweed or wool—past noon, jersey, rayon, fur take over—while evenings, it's the costume skirt—sumptuous in damask and sequin-studded satin.

With it a simple blouse or sweater—notable for high-necked modesty. The sort that lifts eyes to your face for softening contrast.

All of which is fine—if you've a Yardley-lovely skin—petal-smooth and cameo-clear. The kind that Yardley Liquefying Cleansing Cream leads up to if your problem is oily skin.

Light and sure, this grand cream gets in to where the trouble is—as you add brisk massage for dual effect. Wipe up and off—see how it takes along each whiff of grease and dirt. A brand-new look is yours—fresh-toned and younger-pink. To keep it, repeat regularly. Many sparkling cleansings in the $1 jar—many more in the $2 size.

Maybe, you know all about Yardley face cream magic—but are you as much in the mode re hand care? You are if you know first hand the protective action of YARDLEY HAND CREAM.

Extra rich and non-sticky it's the cream that smoothes and supples skin on wind- or work-roughened hands. But more—in faithful use, it guards against the first hint of dryness—keeps a petal-soft and floral-fragrant finish. This look of luxury for only 65c the bottle.

All Yardley beautifiers are to be had at your favorite drug or department store. (All prices quoted plus tax.)

Yardley products for America are created in England and finished in the U. S. A. from the original English formulas, combining imported and domestic ingredients. Yardley of London, Inc., 620 Fifth Avenue, Rockefeller Center, New York 20, N. Y.

Mrs. Bertha H., Chicago—To press flowers successfully I place them between pads of facial tissues as soon as they are picked and change the tissues each day for four days to remove flower moisture quickly. I either weight them down or place them between book leaves. I never press the leaves. Most flowers are ready for framing in two weeks.

Mrs. Ed T., Madison, Wis.—Why not a built-in ash tray in all bathrooms in tomorrow's houses? Such a tray should have a pull-out drawer for easy emptying of ashes. This would be a help to any housewife with smokers in her family.

Cripples Seek to Be Useful, Group Is Told

War has driven home the point that the handicapped are much a part of our society, Lawrence J. Linck, executive secretary of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, asserted last night at a dinner meeting of the Illinois Association for Crippled, held in the Stevens hotel as part of the organization's ninth annual meeting. Linck defined the handicapped as "Normal persons with something added."

The weight of the cripples' burden, Linck said, depends on their own attitude and that of persons with whom they come into contact. They do not want to be treated as individuals apart, special minorities, or objects of charity and pity, but want to be accepted as part of normal society, he said. Their needs, however, require special services, he added.

Elimination of steps in streets and public buildings, modifications of school programs to meet the needs of cripples, efforts to give the handicapped a feeling of security, the right to participate in civil life, and the right to productive employment commensurate with productive abilities and not based on disability were listed by Linck as such special services.

The report of Edgar T. Stephens, recently resigned executive secretary of the state association, said that the organization's employment section interviewed 1,673 persons during the year ended July 1, referred 1,128 for job placement; 543 were hired; 526 found to require other special service, and 27 recommended for training. Persons referred to the section are the most severely handicapped ambulatory cases from other agencies, the report explained.

Summary of the work of the homebound department revealed that since October, 1944, the department has accepted 47 industrial contracts employing 336 homebound persons and currently has 83 homebound workers engaged on industrial projects and 89 on craft work. A total of 764 homebound persons have applied for service.

Miss Ada Blumer, medical social counselor, read a report on the medical social worker's functions in the placement program, and Mrs. Blanch Mulder, employment director, outlined specific cases in which job placements had been made and proved satisfactory after long months of effort. Dr. M. A. Perlstein, St. John's hospital, Springfield, talking on the state's program for cerebral palsied children, said five out of seven such children are educable.

Officers reëlected are: George H. Williamson, president; Jules L. Brady and Miss Thecla Doniat, 1st and 2d vice presidents; Mrs. B. J. Cohn, secretary, and William S. Turner, treasurer.

Rosary Music and Drama Sections to Give Program

Students of the Rosary college music and drama departments will present the program at the college auxiliary's quarterly meeting at 2 p. m. today in the social hall of the college. Mrs. John E. Maguire, auxiliary president, has asked members and their invited guests to bring with them discarded clothing, shoes, and bedding, to be sent to Catholic social agencies for distribution to destitute nuns and needy of Europe.

Thru the Looking Glass

There are many women who, tho they can't really complain of oily skin, have patches on the face where oil is abundant and blackheads are apt to pop up. They want something they can fall back on to give the skin a thoro cleansing, and we can't think of anything better to do the job than some special little soap granules.

These are not hard on the skin, but provide the kind of friction and deep cleansing necessary to banish dinginess and get the skin in condition. Grime and grayness caused by an accumulation of oil and dirt are effectively routed, and blackheads aren't given much chance to form when they're put to work.

To use these, dampen the face first with warm water. Sprinkle a few of the white globules into the palm of the hand, moisten with water, and then work them into a good lather. Spread the lather over the face, giving added attention to the oily areas, most commonly found around the nose and chin. When you feel you've given the face a thoro washing, rinse the lather away with warm water and finish off with a splashing of cold.

The soap and light friction work together to get rid of the most stubborn dirt and the skin is left beautifully clean and clear looking. The stimulation gets circulation going and encourages a pretty pinkness in the complexion. After a treatment of this kind the skin has that well scrubbed, immaculate look all of us want.

Use the cleansing grains two or three nights a week if the skin is only mildly oily, oftener if the condition is more acute.

Cut Out and Save as a Guide to Meal Planning

Overlook Little Misdemeanors of the Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It's a gift! The ability of a parent, nurse, or even a teacher, to overlook the small harmless misbehaviors or forgetfulnesses of children. Here are two reasons why so many fail in this virtue:

One of the reasons for this continual fussing over small misdemeanors is that too many parents are concerned over what some one will think of their children, or what some one will think of them as reflected in their children's actions.

I could cite a dozen, two dozen, harmless things a child does in a day that wouldn't be noticed if it weren't for the fact that they interfere with our personal convenience. Something a child does may keep us from doing something we want to do. It may make extra work for us. It may upset our schedule for the day. Or he may get on our nerves because we have allowed ourselves to become too sensitive to normal young noise and clatter.

As soon as we stop thinking so much of our own convenience, how quickly our daily life with the children smoothes out.

Now as to the other point I mentioned. I could cite many cases where a big fuss or a spanking could have been avoided if the parent had not been all tied up in knots over what a visitor or neighbor might think. Be honest. Isn't that so? I know that I have been guilty of both counts, and I am sure many other mothers also have. At least there is some virtue in our seeing thru to causes like this, because then we are more apt to correct our own faults before complaining about our child's.

Try Making Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does the work in a hurry.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. It tastes fine, and never spoils. Children love it.

And for quick action, you've never seen its superior. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a famous reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Opening lead: four of spades.

Whenever mention is made of some modern development in the game there is heard a subdued protest from a group of players who prefer to muddle thru in their old fashioned way and to trust their olfactory nerve rather than the findings of the experts. They've gotten along reasonably well thru the years and in their outmoded practices they find contentment.

Perhaps such players would do well to steal a page from the book of that Hawaiian milk vendor who proclaimed to his patrons, "My cows are not contented, they are anxious to do better."

A hand on which one of the old timers, who decries "these new fangled ideas" was unable to muddle thru, is shown above.

Against the contract of three no trump West naturally led the four of spades. The queen was permitted to hold, the six was returned and again ducked by declarer, West winning with the jack. The only spade outstanding is the ace and West could drive it out with any one of his three remaining spades, with equal effect. Inasmuch as it made no difference to him he did so with the deuce.

The club finesse lost to East whose aim it now was to put partner in to cash the setting tricks. Mindful of the heart bid East cannot be blamed for returning a diamond and declarer scampered off with nine tricks. West's contention that partner might have guessed to lead a heart when dummy discarded the six of hearts on the third spade lead is specious.

Modern conventions provide a method for obviating such guesses. When the player who has opened a suit is about to finally establish it he may at the time he is doing so suggest to his partner his future entry by the size of the card he uses to drive out declarer's last stopper. If he does so with his lowest card, his entry is in the lower ranking of the suits in question [in this case diamonds]. If he establishes his suit by the lead of his highest card, in this case the king, the suggested return by partner is the higher ranking suit, in this case hearts.

The beauty of this convention is that it does not interfere to any great extent with any of the long established theories or conventions. It may be employed at no additional cost.

Lean Beef is Plentiful

What a free and easy feeling it gives one to walk up to the meat counter and order a "beef roast" without thinking about points. True, you can't always find cuts that are well marbled with fat but lean beef will be tender and delicious if cooked by moist heat and given extra time.

Lean Rib "Roast"... braised to insure tenderness

Wipe meat with clean, damp cloth; season well with salt and pepper.

Heat 2 tbsp. bacon drippings (Certified Bacon drippings are delicious), in heavy iron or aluminum kettle or roaster with tight fitting cover and brown meat well on both sides.

Add ½ cup water, cover tightly and simmer over low heat (or put in slow oven, 300°F.), until meat is very tender. Add more hot water in small amounts from time to time as liquid evaporates. The time required will vary with thickness of meat and original tenderness. Allow around 4 hours for a 5 pound "roast".

Clip Directions Here

To Roast or Braise?

Yes, the rib "roast" pictured above is usually roasted (cooked with dry heat in an uncovered pan) and if you can find one that is well marbled with fat, do roast it (allow about 30 min. per lb. at 300°F. for a 6 lb. roast if you like it well done—25 min. for medium rare).

But if it's a lean cut you get, braising is the correct method to assure tenderness. The same holds true for very lean steaks; braise instead of broil.

Family Favorites

Browned potatoes and gravy, glazed onions, perfection salad and hot rolls made extra tasty with Clear Brook Butter or Certified Margarine complete an inviting first course with either roast or braised beef.

For dessert: apple dumplings served with sweetened cream topped with nutmeg. It's an old New England custom.

Thanks to Wilson's B-V you can serve browned potatoes and still have delicious meat flavored gravy. All the rich meat flavor absorbed from the drippings by the potatoes can be easily replaced by adding B-V.

It's Good to Know

Substituting tomato juice for water helps make pot roast tender.

George Rector

BALTIMORE COMPLETES ALL-AMERICA LEAGUE

HAGGERTY STARTS BASKETBALL JOB AT LOYOLA

LIONS SPILL T WHEN FOES TRY TO POUR IT ON

Detroit's Defense Stops Formation

BY EDWARD PRELL

The Detroit Lions, who play the Chicago Bears Sunday in Wrigley field, are beginning to suspect that they have unlocked the secret for a defense against the T formation. Since 1938 the T formation has steadily gained converts and today it is the dominant system of football. The single wing, double wing, and other famous formations have almost disappeared from the football vocabulary.

The Lions, who have been dubbed noiseless contenders for the western division championship of the National Football league because no one appears to be excited that they are tied for first place with Cleveland, have ample evidence that they know how to combat the T.

Win 10 of 12 Games

In the last two seasons they have played 12 games with T formation opponents, winning 10, tying 1, and losing one. The Lions, incidentally, use the single wing, wherein the left half back is the key man of the offense.

The first of the 12 games against T elevens was a 20 to 17 loss to Cleveland last year, but Detroit's statistical publicitor, Fred De Lano, pointed out yesterday that the Rams made all their 20 points in the last half after Frankie Sinkwich had to retire from the game with his team in front, 17 to 0.

A Slam in 10 Games

Next came a 21 to 21 tie with the Bears in Wrigley field last season. Since then the Lions have scored a slam in 10 games against T formation exponents. In fact they've been beaten only once since that tie game, the 57 to 21 contest early last October against Green Bay in Milwaukee.

On the 10 straight list the Card-Pitts of 1944 show up twice, along with the Bears, Cleveland, and Boston. The Lions have whipped the Cards twice this year and hold single victories over Philadelphia, the Bears, and Boston.

The 1945 statistics reveal that the Lions are the best defensive team in the league, despite that startling 57 to 21 defeat. But the same statistics show that the Bears are far superior to Detroit in the attacking department. The Bears have made 107 first downs in six league games to the Lions' 53, and have gained 1,935 yards to 1,318.

Injuries Hamper Bears

But the Lions have yielded only 1,150 yards to the Bears' 1,662. They have been bounced back for only 47 first downs to the Bears' 78, but it might be mentioned that in scoring six touchdowns in the second quarter of the 57 to 21 game, the Packers made no more than two first downs. Every play went for a touchdown and football never has gotten around to awarding first down to a team which scores on plays going 10 yards or more.

The Bears, after a two-day layoff, returned to work yesterday, with four of their number sidelined by injuries. They are Capt. George Wilson, end, John Schiechl, center; Jack Morton, end, and Leo Artoe, tackle. All except Artoe are expected to play Sunday.

TOO ROUGH, BEARS SAY

Luke Johnsos, co-coach of the Bears, said that he had sent moving pictures of Sunday's 28 to 24 victory over the Green Bay Packers to the office of Elmer Layden, National Football league commissioner, for his inspection.

Johnsos said the film shows that Lee Artoe was flattened by a thrust from Ken Keuper's right elbow while rushing Lou Brock, who passed 9 yards to Russ Moseley with only a minute and a half remaining in the game. The Bear tackle suffered a fractured upper jaw. There was no penalty called on the play.

"Curly Lambeau, the Packers' coach, says that his team doesn't know how to 'retaliate' with rough play," said Johnsos. "These pictures will show who started all the roughness Sunday." Lambeau made this statement at the Quarter Back club's meeting Monday in Chicago.

"We look at a lot of pictures of league games," said Commissioner Layden. Then he added: "No comment."

Sportsman's Charity Card Draws 8,892

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The largest crowd of the week, 8,892, was on hand yesterday at Sportsman's Park to join members of the Illinois racing board in the celebration of their "day" as The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., meeting passed the half way mark.

This turnout brought the attendance for the first three days of the six day program to 24,430. The parimutuel handle of $802,704 for the nine race card raised the betting total to $2,274,588.

Full coöperation of the three members of the racing board, Chairman Ednyfed S. Williams, William E. Fay, and Frank E. Mandel, has enabled the state of Illinois to keep pace with other sections of the nation in contributions to war relief and charity.

Raise More Than a Million

More than a million dollars, $1,170,227.07 to be exact, was raised at the six Illinois race tracks last year, of which $645,800.04 accrued from 11 days sponsored by THE TRIBUNE's Charity unit—$400,800.04 for five days at Washington Park, and $245,000 for six days at Sportsman's.

Yesterday's featured sixth race, a mile and a sixteenth affair for a purse of $2,500, was named for Maj. Williams and was won by Bryan H. Wise's Bushwhacker, 7 year old son of Chance Shot, which beat the Happy Hour farm's Cherry Wine by a nose. H. W. Ostle's Donna Brand took the show. The winner, ridden by Alfred Applebee, paid $4.60.

Agrarian Son Wins Fourth

The fourth race bore Fay's name and was taken by Agrarian Son, owned by F. H. Froehbrodt and ridden by J. W. Martin. A $2 straight ticket was worth $14.20.

The afternoon's secondary feature, the $2,000 Harvey C. Fruehauf purse, resulted in a fine exhibition of speed by Wise's 3 year old colt, John Q. Public, ridden by Job Jessop. The winner negotiated five furlongs on a slow track in 1:01 3-5, just a second slower than the track record.

The seventh race carried Mandel's name and went to W. H. Bishop's Forevic in a close finish with Ever Massage and Take Courage which finished the seven furlong sprint in that order. Forevic, with C. L. Martin up, returned $17.20.

Col. Larson, Former Navy Coach, 46, Dies

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7 (AP)—Col. Emery Ellsworth (Swede) Larson, 46, of the marine corps, former football coach at the United States Naval academy, died today after a series of heart attacks.

Col. E. E. Larson

Col. Larson was here on a visit in the course of his naval duties. He was stricken a few days ago and died in the naval air station dispensary.

Mrs. Larson came to Atlanta on receipt of news that her husband was ill. She was with him when he died.

As player and as coach at Navy, Larson had the distinction of never having been beaten by Army. The consistency with which the Middies disposed of Army came to be known around Annapolis as "Larson luck."

It began in 1939 when Larson took over and lasted two years after his departure in 1941 for a five year winning streak that stands as a record for Navy in the history of Army-Navy athletic relationship.

DYER BECOMES CARDINAL PILOT

Breadon Gives Farm Aid 2 Year Contract

Signs for 3 Years

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7 (AP)—Billy Southworth told baseball writers at a luncheon today that he had signed a three year contract to manage the Boston Braves at a salary larger than that he received with the St. Louis Cardinals. He declined to give the exact figure.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7 (AP)—Sam Breadon, the St. Louis Cardinals' famous trade 'em, fire 'em, hire 'em, and sign 'em president, today added another name to his list. He signed Eddie Dyer to succeed Billy Southworth as manager of the Cards with a two year agreement.

Sam Breadon

Breadon acted swiftly after the Boston Braves announced yesterday that Southworth had signed as manager after Breadon had consented to abrogate Billy's contract, which had another year to run.

The rapid fire shift of managers recalled previous quick changes in Cardinal field leaders. In 1925, Breadon fired Branch Rickey as manager and set him up as director of what was to become baseball's first and most extensive farm system. Then, in 1942, Rickey was let out of the Cards' organization, and joined the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Hornsby Came and Went

Between those Rickey deals, Breadon hired and fired Rogers Hornsby, altho the Texan had led the club to its first National league pennant in 1926. Bill McKechnie was in and out with a pennant in between. Frankie Frisch and his gashouse gang became a baseball byword and then Frisch later was fired in midseason.

As for deals, Dizzy Dean, sore arm and all, was peddled to the Chicago Cubs for $185,000 and three players. Last summer Breadon sent Mort Cooper to the Braves in exchange for a reported $60,000 and Pitcher Charles [Red] Barrett.

Dyer, who was with the Cardinals organization 24 years as a minor league manager and farm system director, is 45.

DYER ELATED OVER JOB

Houston, Tex., Nov. 7 (AP)—Eddie Dyer, today expressed pleasant surprise at being named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"If all the kids come back and we don't make any mistakes in placing them, we'll be the club to beat next season in the National league," he said.

Dyer, 45, former Cardinals' minor league executive and once manager of the Houston Buffs in the Texas league, continued:

"I always have wanted to manage a big league club. I certainly am glad to get back into baseball."

For more than a year Dyer has been in the oil business in Houston, making enough, he grinned, "to pay all my bills."

He Wanted to Make Sure

"Since Billy Southworth had a contract with another year to run I was surprised at his leaving the Cardinals," Dyer said. "I made certain he hadn't taken the step because of any disagreement with the club before I accepted the managership. I wouldn't have taken the job under such a circumstance."

In addition to Houston and Columbus, of the American association, Dyer has held managerial assignments at Topeka, Kas., Scottdale, Pa., Springfield, Mo., Greensboro, N. C., Huntington, W. Va., and Columbus, Ga.

Taft Wright to Rejoin Sox Next Season

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

If nothing else, the White Sox are going to have Taft Wright back on their side for 1946 and that's something, as Manager James Dykes would say after several seasons of moaning about the paucity of hitters.

Wright, in case you have forgotten, is the pudgy lad who once played right field for Dykes, hit the ball far better than is customary for Sox employes and paused in his baseball career to do a stretch for Uncle Sam.

News of his impending return to the game was received yesterday by Vice President Harry Grabiner, a post card from the separation center at Fort Braggs, N. C., advising the athlete, who had been with the army in the South Pacific, was in the process of demobilization.

Sox to Leave Feb. 24

Grabiner who is getting all pending Sox affairs cleaned up so that he can turn over a clean slate to Leslie O'Connor who will move from the baseball commissioner's office to Comiskey park Dec. 15 also announced that, unlike the Cubs, the Sox will report at their Pasadena, Cal. camp in one group.

Players from this part of the country will leave Chicago on Feb. 24 which is the same day the second contingent of Cubs will start from here for their Catalina Island base. The Cubs' battery squad, as already announced, will head west Feb. 17 and will have about three weeks of work on the island before returning to Los Angeles for exhibitions.

So far as is known at present the Sox will be housed in two hotels while at Pasadena but Manager Dykes still is working on this item and may be able to cook up a more suitable arrangement. Dykes will be here around the first of the month.

Rigney Praises Hadjuk

Wright's return to the playing roster follows those of Johnny Rigney and First Baseman Chet Hadjuk, both ex-navy. Former First Baseman Hal Trosky, Catcher Tom Jordan, and Pitcher Al Epperly, the latter a one time Cub, also are about to be returned to the active list. They were in defense work or farming last season. Hadjuk, who played with the navy team at Great Lakes and in Hawaii, is a vastly improved youngster, according to Rigney, who was on the same team, so Trosky has only a slim chance to recapture his job.

The Cubs' latest promotional movie entitled "Chicago Cubs: 'Play Ball'" now is available for showings in the Chicagoland area. The picture, a color job, covers Cubs' activity from the spring training stay in French Lick, Ind., to the end of the season. Organizations desiring a booking can communicate with W. E. Blunt of the Howard Motion Picture service, 2356 W. Touhy av.

SIGNS FOR 3 YEARS; 40 OUT FOR 1ST DRILL

Meyer Takes Over at De Paul

BY WILFRID SMITH

Tom Haggerty, director of athletics at De Paul university, yesterday afternoon signed a contract to coach Loyola university basketball teams for the next three years. Thus, Loyola again resumes intercollegiate basketball competition, in which it held pre-eminent position in pre-war years under the leadership of the late Lennie Sachs, and secures one of Chicago's own outstanding coaches.

Haggerty, who coached De Paul basketball teams which won 49 games and lost 23 from 1937 to 1940, inclusive, wasted no time in getting down to work in his new job. He summoned Loyola basketball candidates to the Loyola gym for a practice session last night, and more than 40 turned out to greet their new coach and prepare for the first game of the season, tentatively scheduled for mid-December.

Meyer His De Paul Successor

Ray Meyer, 31 year old west sider, is to be Haggerty's successor at De Paul. Following acceptance of Tom's resignation by the De Paul athletic board, the Rev. Joseph G. Phoenix, C. M., board chairman, yesterday said the duties of athletic director had been delegated to Meyer.

Meyer, twice voted coach of the year, has tutored the Blue Demon quintets for the last three years, during which time they won 57 and lost 12 games. Ray is a product of St. Patrick's academy. He went on to Notre Dame to captain two teams and win the Kanaley award for excellence in athletics and scholastics. After his graduation, he served as assistant coach to the late George Keogan.

Haggerty was ordered to army duty Sept. 16, 1940, when the 202d coast guard artillery, in which he held rank of captain, was sworn into federal service. Subsequently promoted to lieutenant colonel, Haggerty was discharged Sept. 22, 1944, and since then he has served as De Paul's director of athletics and as a member of the faculty. He will continue as instructor until the current semester ends in the latter part of January.

Plan to Build Gradually

Haggerty signed his contract in the office of Alex Wilson, Loyola's director of athletics, with approval of Rev. William A. Finnegan, S. J., chairman of the university's athletic board.

"Loyola is most happy to have Tom Haggerty take charge of its plans to resume intercollegiate basketball competition," Wilson said. "Our schedule this year will not include many major quintets for our material will not warrant meeting top flight opposition. We may play a few teams, such as Texas Christian, during the holidays, but principally the program will be devoted to development of whatever material is available with the hope we eventually can regain the position once held by Rambler teams. There is no one better fitted than Haggerty for this responsibility."

Haggerty was graduated from Loyola academy in 1921 and later received a bachelor of arts, a degree in law, and a master's degree in education from De Paul university.

CHRISTMAN HURT IN CARDS' DRILL FOR PITTSBURGH

Go Buy Yourself a Tune

A waitress in the little cafe
Where I had breakfast today
Seemed just a little bit off the beam
Because of the skies so gray;
"I know what I'll do," I heard her say,
As she laid down my fork and spoon,
Then she reached in her apron pocket,
"I'll go buy myself a tune."

And into the juke-box jangled
A small share of her morning's tips,
And anon Bing Crosby was chanting
One of those lays that drips
With protests of true devotion,
Then something about the moon,
The waitress hummed right along with him,
And a brightness came into the room.

"Not a bad idea!", thought I to myself,
Tho I've never been one to croon,
"Should I lose my grip I'll recall that girl's tip—
I'll go 'buy myself a tune'"!

And the gay gold of summer skies will glow
With splendor of a softer, sweeter hue.

What, tho the present holds but care and grief
And all the world seems surfeited with moan,
When shadows lengthen I shall find relief
In mystic musings as I walk alone
Down winding paths that fringe pure purling streams—
That none shall ever rob me of my dreams!

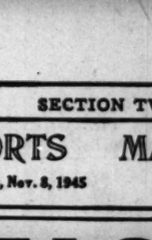
"RIP" MILLER ANNOUNCED AS COACH OF TEAM

R. Bruce Livie Gets Eighth Franchise

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—R. Bruce Livie of Baltimore, holder of a newly awarded franchise in the All-America Football conference, said tonight that Edgar E. [Rip] Miller, navy line coach, had been selected as head coach of the Baltimore pro team.



Rip Miller

Livie said that negotiations with Miller had been carried on thru James H. Crowley, commissioner of the All-America. Crowley today notified the Baltimore park commissioners by letter that Baltimore had been granted the eighth franchise in the conference. The Baltimore Sun said the letter named Livie and unidentified associates as getting the franchise.

Miller Says: No Statement

Miller, former footbal star at Notre Dame and former head coach at the Naval academy, has been on navy's coaching staff for many years. Asked about the new coaching job, Miller said, "I have not talked about this position with the franchise owner. Until I do, I have no statement to make."

The Sun said that Crowley awarded the franchise to the Baltimore group provided the terms of the lease on the stadium can be met. Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Buffalo, and Brooklyn already hold franchises in the league.

To Confer with Livie

The letter from Crowley was read to the Baltimore park board today by Frank Durkee, president. The board then deferred action pending a conference with Livie and his associates.

Jesse Linthicum, sports editor of the Baltimore Sun, tonight expressed enthusiasm over the granting of the All-America franchise to Baltimore. "It can't miss in Baltimore," he said. "Mr. Livie is a well known industrialist and sportsman. In addition to his industrial connections he is the owner of the Bobanet string of race horses. Altho this is his first venture in the big time sports field outside of horse racing, he has the enthusiasm and financial backing to make Baltimore a great asset to the new All-America conference."

Rangers Play Host to Hawk Team Tonight

New York, Nov. 7 [Special]—Chicago's Blackhawks who have played to capacity houses in their two home appearances this season will appear in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night before another large crowd when they oppose the New York Rangers in a National Hockey league contest. The standing room only sign has adorned the New York home of the Rangers for more than a week.

The Rangers opened the Blackhawks' season in Chicago and enabled Manager Johnny Gottselig's athletes to start the year with a victory.

Manager Gottselig said tonight he will alternate Right Wings Billy Mosienko and Pete Horeck in Wingy Johnston's place alongside Center Clint Smith and Left Wing Alex Kalenta. Johnston is with the squad in New York and may be recovered sufficiently from a groin injury to play against the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday night.

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—Lt. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis scored his second sub-par round today to lead professionals at the halfway mark in the north and south open golf tournament with 139. While the first day leaders, Benny Hogan and Denny Shute, blew off the pace with 74s, Middlecoff fired a three-under-par 69 to go with his 70 of yesterday and take a one-shot lead.

Mike Turnesa of Knollwood, N. Y., was alone in fourth place with 141.

HORSE SHOW VET SEEKS TO BREAK VICTORIES MARK

6,500 See Flanery Gain His Tenth Triumph

BY JAMES SEGRETI

Robert C. [Doc] Flanery, veteran harness horse driver, ignores post-war conversation about high speed automobiles and jet powered airplanes. Doc gets around fast enough with a horse and buggy, and he demonstrates it nightly in the second annual Chicago Horse show in the Coliseum.

Doc has been appearing in show rings and in Grand Circuit races, man and boy, for 31 years. And he hasn't slowed up. Last year he drove fine harness horses, hackney ponies, and roadsters to victory 18 times, a record he thinks he will break in this year's tanbark presentation.

6,500 See Tenth Victory

Doc turned in another spectacular performance last night before 6,500, largest crowd of the week, winging around the arena dressed in a flaming red outfit and leading June Thomas, 8 year old mare from the Valley View farm of Barrington, to victory in the roadster to bike event. It was his tenth triumph.

Blue Hawaii of the Dodge stables, Rochester, Mich., and Meadow Wisp of the Hickory Creek farm, West McHenry, Ill., won two other feature classes. Blue Hawaii triumphed in the $2,000 gelding stake, defeating Morris Kaplan's Champagne Bud, and Meadow Wisp was judged the best in the $1,000 stake for three-gaited saddle horses.

Also Manages 10 Farms

Flanery, born in Champaign county, Ill., 44 years ago, and now a resident of Northbrook, also manages 10 farms for E. J. Baker of St. Charles, owner of the champion trotter, Greyhound, which holds 18 records. Doc has his own horses entered in the Coliseum show, but he also drives for six other owners, including H. Leslie Atlass of Wheaton, Jacob Bunn of Springfield, and E. H. Felton of Indianaola, Ia.

CONN INDICATES POOR CONDITION IN EXHIBITION

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7 (AP)—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, Pa., engaged in a three round exhibition tonight with Bearcat Jones of Pittsburgh, training mate specialist, before a crowd of approximately 4,000.

About 10 pounds over his pre-war fighting weight at 194, Conn appeared in poor condition, but gave the disappointed crowd a thrill in the third round when he drove a couple of sharp lefts to Jones' midsection. Jones weighed 190.

After the bout Conn said he was going to Chicago, then Hot Springs, Ark., for a short rest before starting training for his bout with Joe Louis next June.

HOOSIERS KNOCK ON BIG 9 THRONE ROOM'S PORTAL

They're Two Games from 1st Championship

BY WILFRID SMITH

Indiana university's undefeated football team will pass thru Chicago tonight en route to Minnesota for its most important game in a generation. Seldom have the Hoosiers reached the climactic month of a campaign without defeat and there's no one who can recall when Indiana was the only unbeaten eleven in the Big Nine with two weeks of the season remaining.

Indiana controls its own destiny for all other rivals have lost at least one game. The Hoosiers finish the season in their own stadium against Purdue. In between they visit Pittsburgh and probably will be the fourth Western conference team to beat the Panthers. Ohio State plays Pitt this Saturday. Illinois and Purdue already have won from the easterners.

Build for This One

Indiana will enter the battle at Minnesota as favorite, not only because of its own successes, but because the Gophers have lost to Ohio State and Michigan. The Hoosiers have had opportunity to point for this game just as they did for Michigan in their season opener, which the Hoosiers won, 13 to 7. Northwestern's surprising squad then tied Indiana, 7 to 7. Subsequently, Indiana has beaten Illinois and Iowa. The latter contest was played Oct. 20 and the interval undoubtedly has been sufficient for Coach Bo McMillin to bring his boys to realization of the opportunity now presented.

Indiana's squad has been strengthened since its game with Michigan by addition of two regulars returned from military service and recovery of another from injury. In particular, two of these three men now back up the line on defense, a vital contribution to improvement.

Service Men Really Help

Howard Brown, returned veteran, now is at guard, while Pete Pihos, a great end, and member of the 1943 College All-Star squad which defeated the Washington Redskins, has been converted into a full back. John Cannady, scheduled to play full back until he was injured after summer practice, has recovered and is the starting center.

Except for Pihos, Indiana's back field which defeated Michigan is intact.

Much of Indiana's success defensively at Michigan was due to Bob Ravensberg and Ted Kluszewski, a fine pair of ends, who kept Walt Teninga under control. They hope to serve the same dish to Minnesota's Tom Cates.

New N.U. Men Fight to Face Badger Team

It's get-acquainted week on Northwestern university's football team as nearly a dozen new navy V-12 transfers are displaying their respective skill or lack of it to Coach Lynn Waldorf and his aids.

Several of the new additions may play against Wisconsin in Madison Saturday as a result of their showing in practice. Ralph Everest, 200 pound full back from Dubuque college and Emerson [Buzz] Wheeler, a half back from Augustus Adolphus college in Minneapolis, probably will see action against the Badgers.

BADGERS LOOK SHARP

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7 [Special]—Sharper than at any time in several weeks, the University of Wisconsin football team, despite the handicap of injuries, put on one of its finest drills against the Northwestern style of play today.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced today that George Urbanis, guard and ex-marine, is lost for the season with a twisted knee.

ILLINOIS TURNS TO DEFENSE FOR IOWA'S PASSES

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 7 [Special]—Pass defense took a major role in today's practice as Illinois prepared for Saturday's Western conference football game here with the University of Iowa.

Coach Ray Eliot warned the Illini of the Hawkeyes' accurate throwing quarterback, Jerry Niles, and devoted most of the afternoon to breaking up passes thrown from Iowa's T formation. Eliot continued to experiment with the half back combination of Stan Stasica and Gene Kwasniewski, altho the latter is nursing a slight injury and not participating in scrimmage.

This pair, with Bill Butkovich at quarter back and Bill Krall at full back, will start against the Hawkeyes. Lou Agase, tackle from Evanston, is not expected to play Saturday and the position has been turned over to Bill Kolens, also of Evanston.

EXPECT DECISION BY SATURDAY ON STATE TOURNEY

Decision on whether the 1946 state high school basketball tournament will be a one day or three day meeting is expected to be forthcoming by Saturday after the passing today of the deadline for ballots by principals of state high schools.

Originally, the State Principals association had proposed that the tournament be limited to a one day, four team contest. This recommendation received opposition, particularly from high school coaches. The board of control of the Illinois High School association, meeting last month in Champaign, deferred action on the question, but instructed Albert Willis, Chicago, secretary of the association, to take a mail vote of all high school principals. The board set today as a deadline for voting and set Saturday as the date for final action.

"If he still wants to join our outfit, General, I think we'd better take him."

S. R. O. SIGN ON HUNTING GROUND

State Pheasant Area Is Oversubscribed

BY BOB BECKER

The Illinois department of conservation has received more than 2,100 applications from hunters seeking permits to shoot pheasants on the state owned public hunting grounds above Fox lake and letters are pouring in by the hundreds every day. This deluge of applications shows how northern Illinois shooters appreciate a public hunting area.

Unfortunately, the state can take care of only 750 shooters on this tract during the season from Nov. 11 to 25, so hunters who are just getting around to writing Springfield to request a shooting permit might just as well save their postage.

Mallard Migration on Way

The Canada geese are pouring into Illinois. Many flocks swung over Chicagoland yesterday, but up to last night no big flight of mallards had hit this area, according to Frank Bellrose, game technician of the Illinois natural history survey. Reports from the north country indicate that the big migration is on the way, so Illinois soon should be able to count mallards by the millions instead of in thousands.

Bellrose says he finds the mallard situation along the Illinois unusually interesting this fall because so many old birds have come down earlier than usual. As a rule a hunter kills mostly young ducks early in the season, the ones that reveal their immaturity by the light yellow color of their legs. The mature greenheads have more reddish colored legs and are called "redlegs."

Proportion Is Reversed

So far this fall the check of game bags along the Illinois shows that hunters are killing three times as many old mallards as young ones. The precentage should be just the other way. Altho up to last night the Illinois river hadn't been host to a huge duck population the birds have been working pretty well so shooters in the right spots have had good luck.

Irish Bolster Defense for Army Contest

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 7 [Special]—Coach Hugh Devore, in an effort to bolster the Irish tackle posts for Saturday's game with Army, today elevated Jack Fallon into the second string right tackle spot behind the veteran Pete Bereznay.

Fallon, who is rated as one of the most aggressive defensive linemen on the squad, was transferred from guard to tackle two weeks ago and since then has displayed tremendous defensive potentialities.

The Notre Dame coach after today's drills, said that Floyd Simmons, who has been mentioned as a Notre Dame full back candidate, probably will not make the New York trip because he has not had time to completely master Irish plays and formations. Simmons, from Portland, Ore., entered Notre Dame Monday.

ARMY STOPS AIR THRUSTS

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 7 [Special]—A confident Army football team today put the finishing touches on what it expects to prove the perfect pass defense against Notre Dame in New York Saturday. The Cadets plan to break up Notre Dame aerial thrusts—with Frank Dancewicz on the throwing end—with a five man back field. To accomplish this Ug Fuson has been shifted to his old spot at center from full back.

MEISTER BRAUS BID FOR LEAD IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Meister Braus, last season's champions, will try to pull abreast the Monarch Beers tonight on the six-match program in the Thursday division of the Classic Bowling league. The Meisters and two other teams are tied for second place, three games behind the Monarchs. Joe Wilman, captain of the leaders, leads the Thursday section of the league with a 211 average. Tonight's matches, with each team's won and lost record:

At Gateway recreation, 6432 W. North av.—Monarch Beers [20-7] vs. Meister Brau [17-10]; Thompson Restaurants [17-10] vs. Prima Beer [17-10]; Washington Shirts [7 to 20] vs. Congress Arcade [10-17].

At Bryn Mawr recreation, 2015 E. 71st st.—Sunkist Pies [8-19] vs. Chapin and Core [16-11]; Daumit's White Shirt Colognes [13 to 14] vs. Voss Belting [12-15]; Modigas [16-11] vs. Jiffy Ball Kleen [9-18].

College Football's Fighting Men

[This is another of a series recounting thrilling war experiences by athletes who have returned to midwestern colleges. Today's hero is Stanley Krivik, Notre Dame full back and drop kicker.]

FORTY-EIGHT planes left England for a mission over Germany. Only one returned and it was piloted by Stanley Krivik. At that, Krivik made it only after a crash landing. This was only one of five times when his B-24 limped back across the channel and crashed, always from the effect of damage sustained from nazi flak or planes. Four of his crew men were lost in the series of eventful landings.

Stanley Krivik

There is one of these which is at the top of his list. That was the time he came home and three of his motors were knocked out. Stan was thrown clear of the plane when it hit the ground. After regaining consciousness he rushed back to the burning ship and rescued three of his trapped comrades. He was on his way back after a fourth one when the crewman escaped by wriggling out of his shoes which were pinned in the wreckage.

For this exploit, Krivik was named "Man of the Division" by his group's publication. This won for him the Soldiers' medal for heroism. He also has the silver star.

Later Krivik was transferred to the United States where he helped instruct Chinese pilots. Then he started training as a B-29 pilot and had 12 hours in the air with one of these monsters when he received a medical discharge.

Krivik, from Bloomfield, N. J., won a monogram at Fordham before joining the army. He missed only two drop kicks for the extra point in five years of high school and college competition. As a member of the Camp Croft eleven he kicked off with a drop kick.

SOME OF NAVY'S LADS OLD FOES TO WOLVERINES

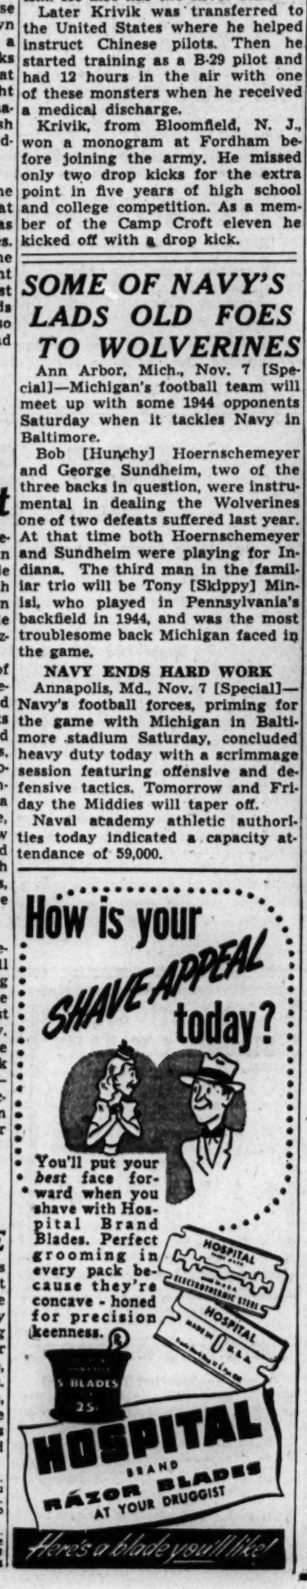
Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7 [Special]—Michigan's football team will meet up with some 1944 opponents Saturday when it tackles Navy in Baltimore.

Bob [Hunchy] Hoernschemeyer and George Sundheim, two of the three backs in question, were instrumental in dealing the Wolverines one of two defeats suffered last year. At that time both Hoernschemeyer and Sundheim were playing for Indiana. The third man in the familiar trio will be Tony [Skippy] Minisi, who played in Pennsylvania's backfield in 1944, and was the most troublesome back Michigan faced in the game.

NAVY ENDS HARD WORK

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7 [Special]—Navy's football forces, priming for the game with Michigan in Baltimore stadium Saturday, concluded heavy duty today with a scrimmage session featuring offensive and defensive tactics. Tomorrow and Friday the Middies will taper off.

Naval academy athletic authorities today indicated a capacity attendance of 59,000.



BOOST FIELD IN ALL-STAR TENPIN TOURNEY TO 144

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

One hundred and forty-four of the nation's outstanding bowlers, largest field in the history of the event, will compete in the fifth annual All-Star national individual match game bowling tournament, to be conducted in the Auditorium Service Men's center by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America from Dec. 1 thru 9.

The original 1945 starting company of 120 was raised to 144 yesterday in a special meeting of the All-Star committee. The increase was voted because of the tremendous enthusiasm in the show which has become established as the world series of tenpins. Present at the meeting were Barney Hochstadter, chairman; Louis P. Petersen, chairman of the Service Men's Center bowling committee; Eddie Linsz, secretary of the Bowling Proprietors' association; C. O. [Chuck] Collier of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company; Jerry Peck of the Chicago Arena; Jack Ripple, bowling publicist, and the writer.

Boost Awards by $1,200

The enlarged field, headed by the five seeded stars—Champion Buddy Bomar, Joe Wilman, Ned Day, Joe Sinke, and Paul Krumske—not only will make for more action over the center's 12 alleys, but also will boost the total prize awards by $1,200.

The final distribution of prize money now reads: 1st, $2,000; 2d, $1,000; 3d, $500; 4th, $400; 5th, $325; 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th, $275 each; 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th, $250 each, and 14th, 15th and 16th, $225 each. The special prizes for leading the 36 game total pin scorers into the final field of 16 man-to-man bowlers, $200 and $100, will obtain again.

Two Prizes per Squad

The departure in the prize list resolves itself around the men who will bowl the first four days and may not gain the fifth day's semi-finals. The committee decided that these men should have some incentive and financial reward. After taking $300 from the additional $1,200, and prorating it at $25 a place from the 5th thru the 16th positions, the officials then sought a method to take care of the preliminary bowlers. It finally was agreed that two prizes per squad—$100 and $50—will be given to the two men leading their respective squads thru the first four days.

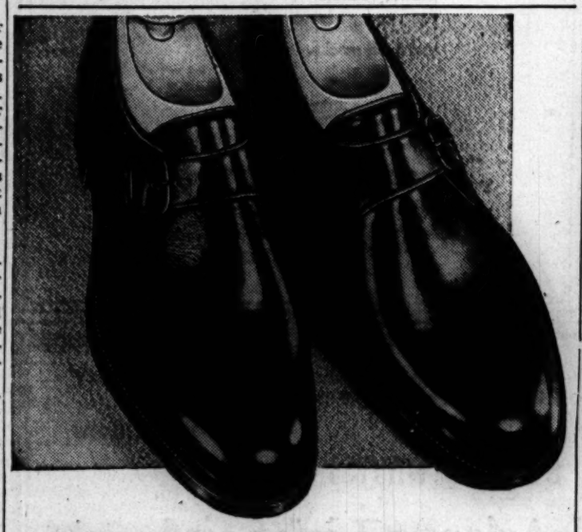
The five seeded bowlers will not be eligible for either the squad or special prizes, competition for these being confined to the 139 men who will be in quest of the other 11 roles in the match play finals. Bomar, Wilman, Day, Sinke, and Krumske, however, will be seen in action in the first four days of preliminary rolling and the fifth day, which will be devoted to the semi-finals. They'll conduct a special party of their own, on a 36 game total pin basis, for a purse of $1,000. Their scores will not count in the qualifying sessions proper.

Will Include Third Scorer

The committee also voted yesterday to include the third scorer in each of the nine Chicago qualifying sites. Originally, it was planned to admit only the first two bowlers in these centers—Bowling Lanes, Cascade, Garden Recreation, Gateway, Howard Bowl, Park Manor, Pilsen, Pla-Mor, and Rose Bowl. If the third man in each of these establishments is unable to compete in next month's main event, the fourth scorer in the trials will move up.

Guldahl Signs New Contract with Medinah

Ralph Guldahl, former National and Western Open golf champion, has signed a three year contract as professional at the Medinah Country club, President S. T. Jessop and Golf Chairman A. W. Hale said yesterday.



When is a shoe ad NOT a shoe ad?*

It's when an unprecedented rush—such as we've been having—has seriously reduced shoe stocks.

That's what has happened to everybody in the shoe business. You see, war cut civilian shoe production way down—and before any shoemaker could catch up, our returning veterans started coming in for shoes by the thousands! Then, on top of it all, rationing ended.

That's the reason we occasionally have to say, "Sorry, we haven't your size"—and how we hate to do it!

Of course, this is temporary—Regal factories are humming away—more shoes are being shipped daily—but if you don't actually need shoes today, please let us take care of the veterans, first. They need shoes badly!

You guessed it—this is not a shoe ad.*

CAPITAL TRANSIT SERVICE GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

Car and Bus Operators Return to Work

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—Washington's homeward bound throngs found bus and street car service partly restored tonight after 4,000 Capital Transit company employes voted to end their walkout.

The carriers, idle for more than 30 hours, began lumbering into operation this afternoon under an agreement that provides a 14 day truce for negotiation of union demands for a 30 cents an hour pay increase.

The agreement called for a return to the conditions of Monday, prior to the AFL Amalgamated Street Railway union's decision to stay in "continuous meeting" and leave buses and trolleys unmanned.

Rep. Randolph Intervenes

The truce came after intervention by Rep. Randolph [D., W. Va.], who as chairman of the house District of Columbia committee is Washington's unofficial "mayor."

Randolph also met with officials of two taxicab unions that had threatened to join the transit workers' walkout. He reported he had won from them a commitment not to strike at this time.

At the meeting of bus and car drivers, union leaders pleaded for approval of the back-to-work pact. Local President William F. Simms and his negotiating committee told the meeting that army intervention was imminent if the stoppage continued.

Assails Lax Enforcement

Meanwhile, Rep. Smith [D., Va.], co-author of the Smith-Connally labor law, accused the government of failure to enforce the provisions of the act, which opens unions to damage suits when they fail to give 30 days' notice of a strike.

"The government never has brought such a suit under that act, altho it has been violated time and time again," Smith told the house.

Goodyear Strike Ending

Akron, O., Nov. 7 (AP)—A dispute over working schedules at two of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company's five main plants made approximately 10,000 workers idle today, but a return to work began late in the day, a company spokesman said.

Picketing at one of the plants stopped and an undetermined number of employes entered for work, the company reported. Earlier in the day it had said that plant No. 1 was shut down, with operations partly halted at plant No. 2.

The company termed the stoppage a strike, but Clarence V. Wheeler, president of Goodyear local 2 of the CIO United Rubber Workers, said the difficulty resulted from "a company lockout." He said the action "is probably in protest over production gaps when workers are at their machines and for which they will not be paid." The shutdowns occur between noon and 2 p. m., 8 and 10 p. m., and 4 and 6 a. m., when maintenance men complete their shifts.

Start Ford Strike Vote

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—The last of the strike votes in the automobile industry's "big three" over a 30 per cent wage increase demand began today when employes of the Ford Motor company went to polls set up by the national labor relations board.

Approximately 80,000 employes in Ford plants over the country are eligible to vote in the three day election. The vote is conducted under the Smith-Connally act, on petition of the CIO United Automobile Workers. Employes at General Motors and Chrysler corporations recently voted in favor of strikes.

Reconversion work for automobile production by the Kaiser-Frazer corporation at the Willow Run plant was resumed today following settlement yesterday of a six day strike in which the CIO United Automobile Workers won recognition.

Arbitrate Dock Dispute

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—William H. Davis, former chairman of the war labor board, said today that the AFL longshoremen and the ship owners had agreed to arbitration by him of the dispute which resulted in 35,000 dock workers going on strike last month and tying up New York harbor for 18 days. He said arbitration would begin next week and end about Dec. 1.

TOY MANUFACTURER

Please summarize information on Lionel corporation. What is the outlook for its Christmas business? —J. C.

Lionel corporation is a long established manufacturer of toy electric trains, accessories, and other mechanical toys and novelties. In recent years the company was largely engaged in war work, but last May the war production board rescinded its order prohibiting the use of metal for making toys. Thus the company was enabled to plan at least limited manufacture of its regular products. Its war contracts had been terminated in large part as of Aug. 21. However, trade reports are that the supply of the company's toy trains for the coming Christmas trade is likely to be relatively small.

Lionel's sales, which were less than 3 million dollars annually in fiscal years ended with February, 1938 thru 1940, increased each year thereafter to a war time peak of $7,270,000 in the 1944 fiscal period. Earnings per share on 180,000 shares of $10 par, sole capitalization, were: 1945, $1.12; 1944, $1.50; 1943, $1.98, adjusted for renegotiation refund; 1942, $3.22; 1941, $2.12; 1940, $2.01; 1939, $1; 1938, $1.69.

Dividends, paid since 1937, have amounted to $1 or more each year except for 75 cents paid in 1939. The 1945 declarations so far total 90 cents. Certain dividend restrictions are imposed by a VT loan agreement. Net working capital last Feb. 28 was $1,523,000.

INSURANCE MAN BACKS EASING OF RAIL FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—Legislation to permit railroads in financial difficulty to modify terms of their bonded debts without going thru bankruptcy courts was indorsed today by Harry C. Hagerty, vice president and treasurer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. He told the senate interstate commerce committee that other large insurance companies also favor it.

A bill by Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] before the committee would permit carriers to submit to the interstate commerce commission plans for alteration of interest or other terms of its bonds. The ICC could approve if the proposal was indorsed by holders of 75 per cent of each type of the railroad's obligations.

Hagerty said there is "delay after delay" after reorganization plans are submitted to the courts and some method is needed under which a railroad's fixed charges can be reduced before the carrier reaches bankruptcy.

24 MILLION CUT IN PANHANDLE'S RATES APPROVED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7 (AP)—The federal power commission today accepted a new wholesale rate schedule for Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company of Chicago that will result in a refund to the company's wholesale customers of about 24 million dollars.

The new schedule is 32 per cent below 1944 billings. It has not been determined whether the reduction will be passed on to retail customers.

Acceptance of the new schedule stems from a Supreme court decision of last April 2 upholding a commission order which directed Panhandle to reduce its rates by "not less than $5,094,384" below 1941 rates.

The Panhandle system supplies the natural gas used in more than 200 cities, towns, and communities with more than 700,000 retail customers in Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio.

$5,000 AND LESS INCOME GROUP'S SAVINGS LARGE

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Life Insurance Companies in America announced today a study disclosed approximately 45 per cent of all individual savings accumulated since Pearl Harbor belong to persons in income brackets under $5,000 a year.

Total accumulated savings, including currency and bank deposits, for 1942 thru 1944 with 1945 estimated, was placed by the association at 132 billion dollars. It estimated families and single individuals making up the income classes under $5,000 a year will have nearly 59 billions in savings by the end of this year.

This total was larger than the liquid assets of all the people before Pearl Harbor, the association said a government agency had calculated.

SURFACE LINES EXPECTS BUSES, NEW CARS IN '46

The Chicago Surface Lines expects to receive 200 new street cars and 160 new buses in 1946, Louis M. Traiser, acting staff engineer for the lines, testified yesterday in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe. Traiser said some of 400 additional new street cars, authorized but not yet ordered, and more buses yet to be ordered may be received.

The new street cars are an improved model of the type now operating on Madison st. The first 200 delivered will be put in service on Clark st.

Reports Lines Prosper

Yesterday's hearing was on the proposal of the Chicago metropolitan transit authority to purchase the surface lines properties and operate them under public ownership. Attorneys for groups of investors who will receive nothing from the sale called Traiser as a witness. His testimony in general indicated that the lines were prospering financially.

He was preceded on the stand by C. W. Meyers, controler of the lines. His figures showed that in the 1944 fiscal year the surface lines had a gross income of nearly 67 million dollars. The figures also showed that, after all expenses were paid, almost 5½ million n cash was left for bond interest and profit.

Year Ago Profit Larger

For the preceding year the company's gross income was almost 65 million dollars and the amount applicable to interest and profits was a little more than 5½ millions.

Meyers was questioned by Attorneys William R. Morgan and James A. Sprowl, representing junior investors, who contend the authority's offer for the properties is too low.

The authority has offered 75 million dollars for the surface lines' assets and would also permit the sellers to have an additional 13 million dollars out of funds now in the lines' treasury.

INDIANA STEEL PLANS VOTE ON CAPITAL SHIFT

Indiana Steel Products company announced yesterday that it will call its outstanding preferred stock and submit to shareholders a plan of recapitalization at a special meeting Nov. 27.

The plan contemplates issuance of a maximum of 1 million dollars in 12 year 5 per cent sinking fund debentures with detachable bearer common stock purchase warrants. They provide for purchase at $8 a share of four common shares for each $100 of debentures until Dec. 31, 1946, and at $10 a share thereafter until Dec. 31, 1950.

Preferred stockholders would be offered in exchange for each 50 preferred shares $1,100 of debentures with warrants. Brailsford & Co. and Kalman & Co. would be principal underwriters.

ARIZONA POWER SHARES WILL GO ON SALE TODAY

Offering of 840,000 shares of Central Arizona Light and Power company common stock will be made today at $13.125 a share, less concession of 45 cents a share to dealers, by an investment group headed by First Boston corporation. The stock, owned by American Power and Light company, represented the entire amount of the company's common. The winning group won the shares in competitive bidding yesterday on its offer of $12.42 a share.

Otis & Co. said it soon will make an offering of Alleghany corporation common stock, representing a "substantial" block of the holdings of Allan P. Kirby, president.

Edison Group's Output of Electricity Decreases

Electricity output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies last week, excluding sales to other electric utilities, totaled 180,917,000 kilowatt hours, a decrease of 6.4 per cent below a year ago, the company said yesterday.

PAPER CURBS TO END

All paper control will be suspended in South Africa after Dec. 1. A government mission to Great Britain, Canada, the United States, and Scandinavian countries has made arrangements for largely increased quantities of paper, paperboard, and allied products to reach South Africa in 1946.

SUPPLY OF HOGS LARGE, MOST AT CEILING LEVELS

Chicago receipts of 16,500 hogs yesterday were second largest for a Wednesday since January and 55 per cent above the average of the last six Wednesdays. Nearly all sales were at ceiling price levels.

Cattle receipts dropped to 11,500 head, smallest for a Wednesday since Oct. 3 and the second smallest since the middle of August. Steady prices were paid for most cattle, with some strength apparent in beef cows and bologna bulls.

The supply of sheep and lambs was lowest for a Wednesday in three weeks at 6,500, with the three day total 17 per cent smaller than a week ago. All offerings brought fully steady prices.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 [AP]—The cotton textile market was generally quiet today. Small lots of print cloths and sheetings were sold for quick delivery. Strikes in New England mills tended to retard activity. Heavy bidding was reported for approximately 10 million yards of duck which were declared surplus by the military service. The war department announced that approximately 37½ million yards of burlap and osnaburg strip would be made available to the market.

There was a heavy demand for wool goods but little business was accepted. Mills were hard pressed to fill existing orders because of manpower and other problems. Rayon goods deliveries were confined to routine allocation to the converting trade.

STOCKS SMASH TO NEW TOPS IN WIDEST TRADE

Deal in 1,061 Issues; 299 Set Peaks

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—The stock market advanced further today in the broadest trading in history. Utilities, steels, motors, and a variety of other industrials led a general rise of fractions to about 5 points to new 8½ year peaks.

Volume of 2,380,000 shares was largest since last June 28 and compared with 1,650,000 on Monday. The 1,061 issues dealt in compared with previous highs of 1,049 on May 14, 1940, and 1,045 on Sept. 19, 1937.

The pressure to invest idle funds, prospects for lighter tax burdens for many companies in 1946, and the possibility of limited inflation thru increased wages and prices were prominent factors in the heavy buying.

Chrysler Advances 5%

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.7 to 75.0—top since March 10, 1937, when it stood at 75.3. The industrial, rail, and utilities groups all touched new peaks since 1937.

Among 299 issues establishing highs for 1945 or longer were American Telephone, up 4; Chrysler, up 5⅝; Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, and Union Pacific. A few stocks, however, closed below their tops.

Also higher were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Caterpillar Tractor, Western Union A, International Nickel, American Can, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, Santa Fe, Standard Oil [New Jersey], and National Distillers.

Trade on the Curb exchange totaled 1,230,000 shares against 870,000 on Monday.

HIGH GRADE BONDS STRONG

New York, Nov. 7 (AP)—A diversified list of higher priced corporation issues advanced today in the bond market as popular trading mediums held in a narrow range. Rails, utilities, and foreign issues in the Associated Press averages, however, edged to new highs for recent years. Trade totaled $8,840,000 face value against $7,330,000 Monday.

American Telephone 3s, long a bellwether among investment bonds, ended up 4 points at 154, after touching a new peak of 154½. Pennsylvania-Central Airlines 3½s reached a new high at 127½ and Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s were up a point at 132.

Atlanta & Birmingham 4s, an inactive issue, moved up 9 points to 100 on sale of one bond.

CHICAGO TRADE MOUNTS

Price gains almost completely dominated yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock Exchange. Turnover increased to 100,000 shares, the largest since Dec. 31, 1941. Of 155 issues traded, 113 advanced and only 16 declined. More active were Asbestos Manufacturing, up ½; Libby, McNeill, up ⅜, and Chicago Corporation, Miller and Hart, and Central and South West Utilities, each up ¼. Nine issues set 1945 peaks, including Chicago Flexible Shaft, up 2; Wieboldt, up 1½, and Consolidated Biscuit, up 1⅝.

Investor Firm Bond, Cash Holdings Gain

Investment companies moderately increased their holdings of cash and United States government bonds in the third quarter, a study by the National Association of Investment Companies disclosed yesterday. The 30 largest broadly diversified funds increased these holdings to 114 million dollars, or 8.9 per cent of total assets of 1 billion 283 millions. This compared with 99 million in cash or the equivalent, or 8.2 per cent of total assets of 1 billion 214 millions three months earlier.

The companies were active both on the buying and selling side in the stock market. Purchases were widely scattered, but a larger degree of unanimity was apparent in sales.

Deere & Co. stocks were sold by seven funds and bought by one. Electric Auto-Lite, Firestone Tire, General Motors, Greyhound, and United States Rubber shares were sold by five funds and purchased by none. Socony-Vacuum Oil was sold by six with no purchases made. Four funds sold a total of 20,000 shares of International Nickel.

Other issues in which selling predominated included Chesapeake and Ohio, Philco, Pure Oil, Sinclair Oil, Loew's, Paramount Pictures, National Cash Register, Anchor Hocking Glass, American Steel Foundries, National City Bank of New York, F. W. Woolworth, Niagara Hudson Power, Philadelphia Electric, and American Light and Traction.

British Move to Cut Luxury Items Output

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 7—The Labor government today was framing a bill to prohibit public and private investment in luxury industries and making it compulsory to divert money into the production of essential goods for domestic consumption or facing heavy competition in foreign markets, particularly from the United States.

The bill will be submitted to the house of commons before Christmas, it was disclosed.

Plans Investment Board

The government plans to establish a national investment board to which all businesses seeking new capital will have to apply. It probably will consist of the chancellor of the exchequer, the president of the board of trade, and other government ministers as well as independent financial authorities. They will decide where investments will be made after hearing representatives of industries expressing need for new capital.

Government experts believe Great Britain will have no difficulty selling goods in the next two years, but subsequently exporters will be faced with intensive competition. By controling investments the government hopes to give maximum help to export trades to reequip and construct new plants.

Other Measures Planned

The government also plans to submit to commons before Christmas a bill to nationalize the coal mines, to be followed in the new year by measures to nationalize railroads and other forms of transport as well as gas and electricity supplies. The nationalization of the iron and steel industry may be delayed a year or two, it was indicated.

A series of regional mining boards corresponding to a chain of public corporations will be set up to operate the coal industry, it was believed.

Tho the Conservatives threaten strong opposition to the nationalization program, the Laborites, with an overwhelming majority in commons, seem assured of parliamentary approval for their plans.

FORD PRODUCES FIRST TRUCK IN CHICAGO PLANT

The Ford Motor company's Chicago plant yesterday produced the first truck to be built on its assembly line since March, 1942. During the war the plant produced M8 and M20 light armored cars and other military vehicles for the army and navy.

W. K. Edmunds, Ford regional manager, said the plant will begin passenger car assembly by Dec. 1. The new trucks are of medium capacity, equipped with 100 horsepower V-8 engines. Before the war 500 Ford cars and trucks were assembled daily.

"Production of both trucks and passenger cars will increase daily until we reach peak output sometime after the first of the year," Edmunds said.

BRISTOL-MYERS VOTES 25 CENTS EXTRA DIVIDEND

This is the first extra since Dec. 1, 1941, and brings total payments this year to $2.25, compared with $2 in 1944. Stockholders will vote Dec. 18 on a proposed two for one stock split.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD ORDERS 10 DIESEL ENGINES

Expected to Power Its Fast Trains

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

The Pennsylvania railroad announced yesterday that it had placed an order for 10 high powered passenger diesel-electric locomotives with the Electro-Motive division of General Motors corporation. Altho the road did not disclose on what runs they will be used, it was believed likely that the Broadway Limited and other high speed trains from Chicago and St. Louis to the east will be equipped with the new locomotives.

In a brief formal statement the road said they "will be placed in service on certain runs outside the Pennsylvania's eastern electrified territory."

Consist of 4 Joined Units

The new locomotives, which it is hoped will be delivered next year, will be of advanced design. They will be 6,000 horsepower and will consist of four 1,500 horsepower units coupled together to form a single locomotive with control cabs at both ends. No details as to cost were disclosed.

Some railroads, including the Southern, Seaboard, and Santa Fe, have used 6,000 horsepower locomotives in various combinations of units, but most diesel-electric passenger locomotives now in operation are of 2,000 or 4,000 horsepower. The type to be built for the Pennsylvania will represent an innovation in passenger diesel-electrics because of the 1,500 horsepower unit arrangement and construction improvements.

Slow to Adopt Diesel

The Pennsylvania's purchase was regarded with interest in railroad circles because this road and other big eastern carriers deriving large revenues from the coal industry did not so quickly adopt diesel-electric power as the western roads.

Commenting on the purchase, James M. Symes, vice-president of the Pennsylvania in charge of its western operations, said:

"Since the Pennsylvania directly serves a territory which has half the nation's population and carries more passengers than any other railroad, it is essential that we determine the adaptability of every type of motive power to make certain that we will have the best locomotives obtainable for every type of service in the post-war years, whether they be coal burning steam, turbine, electric or diesel.

Most Are Coal Burners

"More than 4,800 locomotives are in operation on the Pennsylvania system of which nearly 4,500 are the coal burning steam type. One is our new 6,900 horsepower direct drive steam turbine locomotive, which has been doing an excellent job pulling the Broadway Limited and some of our other fastest passenger trains."

The Pennsylvania in recent months has been experimenting with a 4,000 horsepower diesel electric on the Red Arrow between Detroit and Washington. The success attained is reported to have been an important factor in the decision to buy the 10 new locomotives.

Demand for Chicago's Hotel Accommodations Sets Record

The biggest demand for rooms in the history of Chicago's hotels is confronting harried desk clerks whose reply to accommodation requests is fast becoming an almost mechanical, "Sorry, all full!"

Heavy military travel because of stepped up demobilization and an increasing number of business meetings and conventions are principal factors increasing the load on Chicago's hotels, spokesmen said yesterday. No relief is expected this winter.

Help Situation Improving

"The 'reconversion rush' has placed tremendous demands on us," said A. L. Stubbins, resident manager of the La Salle hotel. "We are doing the best we can, but a bucket will hold only so much water."

He said the help situation "gradually is improving." Office help is more plentiful and the maid situation has improved, but the shortage of general servicing help continues.

L. B. Ermeling, secretary-treasurer of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, said available figures showed that more than 278,000 persons in military service were housed in Chicago hotels last June. The number has increased substantially since then.

Rooms Held for Military

Frank Bering, Hotel Sherman manager and member of the executive committee of the hotel association, said 40 rooms a day have been earmarked for several months in Chicago's hotels to meet special demands of the army and navy. Each hotel is assigned certain days on which it shall reserve such rooms. The number recently was increased to 100 a day and 150 on Saturday, he said.

"These rooms are only to meet 'must' military demands," he said, "and do not nearly represent total military needs. The Sherman alone has housed as many as 13,000 military persons in one month."

Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday are particularly heavy days, said one spokesman, because business men travelers prefer to arrive in town early in the week, and because most business meetings and conventions open on Monday.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE UNEVENLY ON HEAVY PROFIT TAKING SALES

Heavy profit taking sales of grain futures as a result of a 10 week advancing market caused prices to close unevenly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. May and July wheat, all deliveries of oats, and December and May rye sold at new seasonal peaks at one time.

Wheat futures closed ⅛ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower, corn was unchanged at the ceiling price, oats lost ⅝ to ¾, rye was ¼ higher to 2½ lower, and barley was ⅝ higher to ½ lower.

Futures trading was materially below the 50,449,000 bushel turnover Tuesday, the largest total since Sept. 18, 1944.

Optimism was not as much in evidence as recently because of the wish of speculators who had bought at lower prices to cash their profits, brokers explained.

Portugal purchased 300,000 bushels of American wheat Tuesday for December shipment from the Pacific coast, and cash interest were on the buying side of May.

MURRAY FIGHTS TO TURN PARLEY INTO PAY FORUM

Green and Industry Cool to Idea

BY THOMAS FURLONG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—Philip Murray, president of the CIO, today pressed his fight to turn the national labor-management conference into a forum for the discussion of wage policy.

Murray offered a resolution at the first meeting of the conference executive committee pledging management and labor to "sincere collective bargaining" on wages.

"The framework of such collective bargaining," said Murray's resolution, "has been provided by the President in his recent message to the nation in which he stated that 'wage increases are therefore imperative to cushion the shock of our workers, to sustain adequate purchasing power, and to raise national income.'"

Diversion from Main Purpose

Murray's resolution brought a statement from Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and a conference delegate, that it would "be unfortunate if the conference were diverted from its primary purpose."

Labor and management representatives unanimously agreed in preparing the conference agenda that the goal was to establish machinery by which wage issues could be met thru free collective bargaining, said Mosher.

"The conference in itself is not a collective bargaining conference," he said.

Seek Bargaining Procedure

William Green, president of the AFL, previously has asserted that the question of wage policy should be excluded so the conference could concentrate on efforts to develop bargaining procedures that will minimize industrial strife. Green and the management delegates insist that none of the delegates is authorized to make commitments on wage pol-
